Terror bombs kill 1, hurt 8 in N.Y.

NEW YORK (AP) — Bombs exploded in two midtown Manhattan office buildings today, killing one person and injuring at least eight others. Police began searching other buildings after warnings from a Puerto Rican terrorist band that more explosions would follow.

Communications to police and news organizations from a group called FALN said bombs were planted in as many as five other buildings, including the World Trade Center and buildings housing headquarters of the National Football League and the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith. One FALN note said the bombings were to dramatize the group's demands for Puerto Rican independence.

Police began searching the five buildings, including the two 110-story towers of the World Trade Center. With 35,000 workers, the center is the world's largest office complex. The Chase Manhattan Bank on Park Avenue was evacuated.

The main floor and basement of the Empire State Building were evacuated at midday.

Explosions went off at the Mobil Oil Co. building on busy 42nd Street near Lexington Avenue and at Defense Department offices on the 21st floor of a nearby building at 43rd Street and Madison Avenue.

A Pentaon spokesman in Washington said the New York office is staffed by "investigators who perform security duties in connection with background investigation checks" for security clearances.

No injuries were reported at the building housing the Defense Department office, but one man died and at least six others were injured in the Mobil blast.

Police said one person suffered a heart attack during evacuation of the 45-story Mobil building.

Other evacuations were ordered on the basis of communications from FALN, a Puerto Rican independence group about which police have learned little and which authorities have been unable to penetrate.

Today's blasts bring to 50 the number of bombings connected to the group in the last three years.

"A telephone call has been received claiming that the FALN did it," said Police Commissioner Michael Codd, who said later that authorities had "no specific leads" in locating the persons who planted the bombs.

Sirens wailed on congested Manhattan streets, and police roped off many of them from vehicular and pedestrian midday traffic. Officials said at least three suspicious devices were found in their searches, including a bomb in an American Brands building on Park Avenue.

The New York Post was directed by telephone to a note signed by the "FALN Central Command" which was found at a Central Park statue of Jose Marti, a Latin American independence fighter.

The note said the bombings were to dramatize their "just struggle" for Puerto Rican independence and that targets were "Yanqi" imperialist corporations that exploit Puerto Rico.

The first blast went off at the Defense Department office at about 9:35 a.m., followed about an hour later by the Mobil building blast.

Auto pollution action

WASHINGTON (AP) — A House-Senate conference committee ended the threat of a shutdown by American car makers today, reaching agreement on a major revision of federal air pollution laws.

Members of the committee negotiated for nearly seven hours before finally settling on a formula that will ease federal requirements on auto emission standards for new American cars beginning in 1980.

"This is a reasonable compromise," said the chairman of the conference committee, Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine.

Gasoline shortage

WASHINGTON (AP) — The spectre of future gasoline shortages is being raised by a Carter administration official following warnings by refiners who say they're barely able to meet present demand.

Federal Energy Administrator John F. O'Leary disclosed Tuesday that refiners painted a grim picture of gasoline production capacity in the United States during a meeting with federal officials two weeks ago.

Because of this, the nation may be in danger of gasoline shortages in 1978 and 1979 as refinery capacity is forced to run "all out," O'Leary said in an interview.

Natural gas bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House today approved a modest compromise in President Carter's plan to retain price controls on natural gas, and floor managers of the administration energy program said the vote would help defeat a drive to deregulate the fuel.

With the compromise adopted by a voice vote, the managers of the energy bill turned to their battle to defeat a proposal of Republicans and some oilstate Democrats to free natural gas prices from federal regulation.

White House solar energy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Jimmy Carter may not be fixing to put solar collectors on his roof, but so far everything is looking sunny for the use of solar energy at the White House.

His energy adviser, James R. Schlesinger, asked the Energy Research and Development Administration to study the possiblity of installing solar energy at the White House.

The study, just being wrapped up, found that use of solar energy there, particularly for heating water, is technologically and architecturally feasible and economically promising.

Water project energy

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A coal-fired electric power plant may be built to run the huge State Water Project, a state official says.

APPOINTED — Washington attorney Charles B. Curtis, has been appointed by President Carter as chairman of the Federal Power Commission.

NAMED — President Carter has named James Schlesinger to head up the new Department of Energy. Schlesinger has headed several other departments.

Los Angeles LNG terminal

LOS ANGELES (AP) — An application to build a liquefied natural gas terminal has been filed by Western LNG Terminal Associates, which would prefer that it be in Los Angeles harbor or Oxnard.

The filing Tuesday came one day before Western LNG headed for a legislative hearing to oppose a bill it says would require a site at Point Conception or an offshore site.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The proposed Sohio Alaskan oil terminal in Long Beach is "somewhat more likely now," said state Air Resources Board Chairman Tom Quinn after meeting with Carter Administration officials in Washington.

150 miners trapped

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — About 150 miners were trapped and feared dead today after an explosion in a coal mine in central Mozambique, and nine foreigners were killed in subsequent rioting at the mine, Radio Mozambique reported.

The radio, monitored here, said rescue operations were under way and troops were sent to restore order.

Vance to Lebanon

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — U.S. Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance paid a four-hour visit to this war-torn capital Wednesday and offered $143 million to help rebuild Lebanon.

Vance told reporters after a luncheon meeting with President Elias Sarkis that the funds, which must be approved by Congress, would comprise $100 million in soft loans to rebuild the Lebanese army and $43 million more in humanitarian and reconstruction aid.

The secretary of state, arriving here at noon from Egypt, flew to Damascus in the late afternoon to begin a two-day round with Syrian leaders in his six-nation, peaceseeking tour.

Feud over how much fair will pay county

By BOB NAGEY
PB Staff Writer

A controversy has erupted before the county Board of Supervisors over a $350,000 write-off claimed by Los Angeles County Fair Association in Pomona for the use of the fairgrounds by the sheriff's office.

Fair officials claim that's what they would charge to other agencies if they wanted to use the fairgrounds as much as the sheriff does.

They explained that the sheriff uses the facilities for driver training, riot control practice and other functions. They admitted that other agencies, particularly the California Highway Patrol and occasionally the Pomona Fire Department, also use the 421-acre grounds, but only under the discretion of the sheriff.

"During the off months we lease the grounds to the sheriff's office," Phil Shepherd, executive director of the fair explained. "If the sheriff wants to let others use it, it's up to him."

The write-off was presented to the supervisors Tuesday as part of a $400,000 package to justify why the fair association is not paying anything for the use of the county-owned land.

The fair association is paying the county about $25,000 a year in property taxes, and the supervisors felt they should get more out of the operation, particularly since the association was showing a profit from its operation.

They pointed out that the state was getting about $900,000 from horse racing at the fair and the City of Pomona was getting more than $100,000 a year in amusement taxes alone.

R.B. Baird, the county's assistant chief administrative officer, told the board that while the county was losing about $65,000 a year by exempting the fair board from additional property taxes, it was getting about $400,000 in benefits.

He said that in addition to the use of the grounds by the sheriff, the county is given free space for exhibits and about 17,000 free or reduced rate tickets to the fair.

But supervisors Baxter Ward and Kenneth Hahn remained skeptical.

Ward called the figures "arbitrary," designed mostly to offset the property taxes and to convince the county the fair should not pay it. And Hahn said he wanted "a lot more information about the services" before he approved a new agreement.

Continuation of the present agreement is urged by Chief Administrative Officer Harry Hufford, and backed by Supervisor Peter Schabarum. Baird told the board there is similar space available for training work by the sheriff's office at Terminal Island.

Hahn and Ward immediately instructed Baird to investigate the possibility of using that area rather than the fairgrounds in Pomona.

In the course of questioning, Baird told the board the fair association made a $138,564 profit last year.

At Hahn's suggestion, the board put off action on the acceptance of a new contract for three weeks to give Baird a chance to expand his report.

Nab 2 in Ontario bank heist

By TONY AULT
PB Staff Writer

After a fast foot pursuit, Upland and Ontario police Tuesday arrested two men in connection with the 3 p.m. robbery of Crocker Bank in Ontario.

One man had to be pulled from beneath a rug behind an apartment building.

After two men, one armed with a handgun, took approximately $1,000 in $20 and $100 bills from the bank at 735 N. Euclid Ave., in a paper bag, Ontario police broadcast their descriptions as well as a description of their car.

Minutes later, an Upland police officer attempted to stop a car for a traffic violation and the driver tried to lose Officer Tom Fitzpatrick near Washington and Campus avenues.

As he went in pursuit in his patrol car, he heard the Ontario police broadcast on his radio. The car he was chasing matched the car wanted in the Ontario bank robbery.

As he started to relay this information to Ontario, the fleeing car crashed into a parked car in the 1200 block of north Campus Avenue. Two men leaped out and fled in opposite directions, Fitzpatrick said.

He jumped from his car and caught one.

Officers Marty Thouvennell and Ray Ubis of Ontario spotted the second man hiding under the rug at the rear of apartments at 733 Valadez St.

Both men were turned over to Ontario police for questioning. Officers said they found a gun in the car the men had abandoned which resembled the gun used in the bank robbery.

Ernest Roman, 26, 237 S. First Ave., Upland, and Jerry Edward Smith, 32, Pasadena, were booked into West End jail by Ontario police for investigation of bank robbery.

Unsolved murders mark of gang activity

By TONY AULT
PB Staff Writer

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the fourth in a series of five articles dealing with criminal activities of two California prison gangs and particularly their violent lawlessness in the valley.

The body of Arthur Abilez Loza, 34, Chino, a parolee from state prison, found in a ditch last April east of Chino Airport, bore the trademark of gang violence which is becoming more and more prevalent in the valley.

Loza, paroled after being convicted of a felony narcotics violation, was shot twice in the head with a .38-caliber or 9mm handgun at close range, according to the San Bernardino County Coroner's office.

The San Bernardino County sheriff's homicide detail said more than likely Loza had been riding around the valley drinking and joking with "friends."

They theorize he asked the driver of the car to stop so he could urinate at the side of the road early in the morning. He stepped out of the car and two shots rang out. He fell dead in a shallow ditch.

A similar fate awaited Edward Lorenzo Gonzales, 30, of Mira Loma, on June 19, 1976 as he drove around the West End of San Bernardino County with some "friends." His body was found that morning inside his car parked near the railroad tracks in La Verne. He had been shot several times in the head at another location, police said, and his body driven to La Verne and abandoned.

SHIPWRECKED TRIO

Three young people shipwrecked off the Nicaraguan coast and then rescued by an American freighter, the SS American Lancer, stand at the rail of the ship as it brought them to Los Angeles harbor Tuesday. They are, left to right, Robert Campbell, an American, Sandra Corea of Nicaragua, and Joe Almond, a resident of Nicaragua.

Romance blooms in shipwreck

LONG BEACH (AP) — Twenty days water-logged and stranded at sea in a 20-foot fishing boat did not dampened the love of two survivors who have touched land for the first time since July 10.

Robert Campbell, Sandra Corea and Joe Almond arrived in Long Beach Tuesday after being rescued July 30 by the cargo ship American Lancer about 100 miles off the southern tip of Mexico.

"We had a budding romance going for sometime before the fishing trip," said Campbell, 37, of New York City. "Our appreciation of each other increased a lot while we were drifting at sea," he said of Miss Corea, 27, of Managua, Nicaragua.

Campbell, Almond and Miss Corea had left San Juan del Sur, near Managua, Nicaragua, July 10 on a weekend fishing trip. But Campbell's 20-foot vessel swamped after the bilge hatch opened, and the three spent five days clinging to the boat's railing during a storm.

"We had water sores so bad our skin was slowly peeling and floating away," Almond, 29, of Managua said of the ordeal during the storm.

After the storm, the three bailed out the "Momo Tombito" and rigged a sail to stay in the major fishing lanes. While drifting about 500 miles during the next two weeks, the trio said they were passed by 37 boats which failed to see or hear them.

"The Lancer almost ran us over, it passed within 100 yards. It was a miracle they saw us," Almond said, noting that he, Campbell and Miss Corea used the last of three flares to hail the 710-foot cargo ship which passed by under a full moon around midnight July 30.

Firefighters save radio equipment

CLAYTON (AP) — Weary firefighters, their rest interrupted early today when a full crew was called back on the lines at nearby Mt. Diablo to battle flare ups at unburned "islands," apparently have saved radio equipment threatened by the two-day-old blaze.

Communications equipment and towers on top of Mt. Diablo, saved when the lightning-sparked fire first swept through the area late Monday, had been in danger when winds whipped the top of the mountain, according to Richard Hoover, California Department of Forestry.

No equipment was reported damaged, said Nadine Robin, CDF, but several electrical lines burned down.

Military, police and various other agencies have equipment on the 3,850-foot summit of Mt. Diablo, one of the highest points in the San Francisco area.

No homes were in danger, Hoover said. Fifty homes were evacuated early Tuesday when a nine-mile-long line of flames surged across the dry foothills..

Miss Robin said the blaze was 60 per cent "contained" after burning over more than 4,550 acres.

Rent control in La Verne doesn't materialize

By BOB NAGEY
PB Staff Writer

There isn't going to be any rent control in La Verne's mobile home parks — not for at least six months, if ever.

The City Council withdrew Monday night what would have been the only rental regulation ordinance in the state contending the law was not needed because "the people concerned are doing something about their problems."

The mobile home park operators told the council at a packed house in La Verne College that they and their tenants were in the process of signing private agreements for a two-year conditional freeze on rent increases.

Thus ended an eight month controversy during which mobile home owners appealed to the council for help charging that they were being "gouged" by the operators of the city's eight mobile home parks.

But the council agreed to review the whole situation in six months.

Mobile home owners had asked for rent control last December, contending that the park operators had made "outrageous increases" in the rental of the spaces. The mobile home owners said that unless the rents were controlled by law, some of them might have to give up their homes.

Residents of Casitas La Verne had charged that their rents had gone up 110 per cent in the past three years.

The council, yielding to the pressure, had drawn up an ordinance and was going to introduce it July 6 but the park operators said they wanted to work out private agreements with their tenants.

At Monday's meeting, Robert Donath, owner of the La Verne Mobile Country Club, said his park and the owners of six others had worked out agreements with their tenants for the next two years.

The agreements reportedly promised that there would be no raises in rent for the next two years except to cover additional taxes and cost of living increases.

Donath said there wasn't enough time since the last meeting to sign everybody up, but indicated that a large number of tenants already had agreed.

But there were groups of tenants who viewed the agreements as ultimatums and they declined to sign.

Howard Hollister of the Twin Oaks Mobile Home Parks said that if the proposed agreements were not negotiable "then we were capitulating to the owners."

Donath told the council the format for the agreement was worked out among the owners of the seven parks, "and this is the best we can do at this time."

Conspicuous by its absence from the list of participating mobile home parks was Casitas La Verne.

Allan Wilk, owner of that park, reportedly told the tenants that he had no interest in cooperating with the other park owners.

However, he threatened to raise rents by $35 if the council passed the rent control law. He reportedly told the tenants that if the proposal failed he would only raise rents $18 per space.

James Brouwer, chairman of the park's ad hoc committee, called the statement "blackmail." He said the 200 residents of the park had gotten the "worst deal in town."

But the councilmen felt progress was being made to hold the rentals down.

"Maybe it's not 100 per cent of what you want," Mayor Mike M. Morales declared. "But it's something you can take home with you."

And Councilman Allan Mackay contended that while "discussions and dialog is going on I don't want any ordinances hanging over anybody's head." He obtained council approval to review the rent control situation in about six months.

Mackay said he and Councilman Melvin Belcher had met with Wilk last month. He said he was satisfied that Wilk's expenses had risen enough to justify an $18 increase in rent next December.

Claremont council keeps door open for shopping center

By GEORGE MacLAREN
PB Staff Writer

Despite an overwhelming number of people speaking in opposition, the Claremont City Council by a 3-2 vote Tuesday night kept a limited commercial use designation for the area of Base Line Road and Mills Avenue on the city's general plan map.

About 200 persons attended the council meeting at Lyman Hall in the Thatcher Music Building, one of the largest turnouts in recent years.

Their interest was divided between the general plan recommendations from the Planning Commission, and protests over the coming of Chinook International to the city.

The commission recommendations concern general plan amendments for the entire area between Mills Avenue and the county line, and between Base Line Road and Foothill Boulevard.

The commission had recommended that Base Line Road be designated as commercial-professional.

George Carlberg told the council that he didn't favor a shopping center at Base Line Road and Mills Avenue, but could see one going in at Mills Avenue and Foothill Boulevard.

A statement was read for the Claremont Foothill Association which said that a shopping center at Base Line Road and Mills Avenue was not considered appropriate, and questioned a poll taken on the desirability of such a center.

Many said that they shop in the Village business area in Claremont or at a shopping center at 16th Street and Mountain Avenue in Upland.

A representative for the developer of a shopping center told the council that his firm had submitted an environmental impact report on a center a year ago.

"We're prepared to develop a center on six acres," he said.

Councilman Richard Newton noted that many speakers said a shopping center is not needed in that area, but Newton stressed that the need is there because of 1,000 homes which will be built in that area.

Saying that the old general plan was developed with a lot of thought, Newton said he feels the location is best.

But Councilwoman Eleanor Cohen said that she feels the vast majority of residents don't want a shopping center at Base Line Road and Mills Avenue.

Councilwoman Claire McDonald agreed with Mrs. Cohen, and said she was a member of the Planning Commission which drew up the general plan. "It has always been a controversial issue," she said.

Councilman Frank Hungerford agreed with Newton's stand and that of the city staff. He said that there is a need for more tax base.

The swing vote went to Mayor Bertye Smith who called the decision "a tough one. I favor a neighborhood shopping center, but not one that encroaches on the Foothill Freeway right-of-way."

She said it is difficult to vote in face of all the "opposition you hear tonight" and moved to amend the general plan with office-professional along Base Line Road except that the area at Base Line Road and Mills will remain as limited commercial.

The council discussed how the City of Upland sets up a special district for a shopping center to protect the neighboring residential areas.

The council also by a 3-2 vote went along with a recommendation that the area south of the Base Line Road frontage south to the Biddle development be designated as two to six dwelling units an acre and be developed as a planned unit development.

The area includes the Foothill Freeway right-of-way.

City Attorney William Bergman cautioned the council that it could pass a moratorium on home building in the Foothill Freeway right-of-way for four months on a 4-1 vote, but the area must have a usable designation, and not as a transportation corridor as Upland has done.

Mayor Bertye Smith noted that Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. is against completing the Foothill Freeway, and that by October the city should know the future of the freeway.

State briefs

San Francisco election

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — San Francisco voters have rejected efforts to repeal the election this fall of the city's powerful 11-member Board of Supervisors by separate districts, signaling a new era in city politics and vindicating Mayor George Moscone.

Not since the turn of the century have San Franciscans chose the legislative body by individual district elections. Supervisors previously were required to run citywide.

The voters Tuesday trounced Proposition A, designed to repeal last fall's surprising decision by the voters to switch to district elections.

They also overwhelmingly rejected Propostion B which would have trimmed in half the current terms of Moscone, Dist. Atty. Joseph Freitas Jr., Sheriff Richard Hongisto and other major officials.

With nearly all of the vote counted, 97 per cent, Proposition A was trailing 94,017 to 69,929. Proposition B was down 108,398 to 60,463.

The results were interpreted as a vote of confidence in Moscone's liberal administration and a stinging rebuke to Supervisor John Barbagelata, who narrowly lost the 1975 mayor's race to Moscone and became his bitterest foe.

Farr loses an appeal

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Los Angeles reporter William Farr has lost an appeal that would have released him from a court order to name his sources for a 1970 story on the Charles Manson trial.

But Farr, a reporter for the Los Ageles Times, said Tuesday he would appeal the ruling by the 2nd District Court of Appeal to the California Supreme Court.

"Regardless of the consequences, even bankruptcy, I simply cannot answer those questions," Farr said.

Farr, who spent 46 days in jail in 1972 and 1973 for failing to reveal his sources, was ordered last New Year's Eve to disclose the names of attorneys who allegedly gave him information in defiance of a gag order.

Farr used the information in a 1970 story he wrote while working for the Los Angeles Herald-Examiner about an alleged Manson family plot to kill Hollywood celebrities.

Although absolved of criminal liability in the case, Farr and the Times now face a $24 million libel suit filed by two attorneys who have demanded Farr make it clear that they were not the sources for the story.

If Farr loses further appeals and continues withholding his sources, he could be jailed again under civil contempt charges.

State programs to be cut?

SACRAMENTO (AP) — State legislators have been told they will have to make cuts in property tax relief and school finance proposals — $400 million in five years, by one estimate.

And the members of two Senate-Assembly conference committees were given only two alternatives Tuesday: Reductions in state programs, mostly health and welfare benefits for the poor, or a tax increase.

Legislative Analyst A. Alan Post and Roy Bell, Gov. Edmund Brown Jr.'s finance director, agreed that the property tax-school finance package would have to be cut or the state would run out of money within several years.

Neither said how much of a cut was needed. That would depend on how fast other programs and revenues grow, and the provisions that wind up in the final bills.

Power vacuum with death of Makarios

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — Archbishop Makarios, president of this Mediterranean island since independence 17 years ago, died early today of a heart attack, leaving a dangerous power vacuum in a nation seething with tension between Greek and Turkish Cypriots.

A spokesman at the presidential palace said the Greek Orthodox prelate suffered the attack Tuesday night and died at 5:15 a.m. local time, 10 days before his 64th birthday.

The powerful archbishop symbolized the strength of the Greek Cypriot majority in its centuries-old conflict with the Turkish minority, and he cemented together Greek Cypriots of many political tendencies. His death immediately aroused fears of new turmoil.

"Only God can protect us now," said one of 2,000 mourners who gathered outside the archbishop's residence, many of them weeping openly. "He was our father. Now that he is dead the dangers are too big for us."

Greece went into official mourning.

In Ankara, the Turkish government maintained official silence on Archbishop Makarios' death, but many citizens reacted with relief.

"God has finally answered our prayers," a civil servant said.

"Perhaps the Cyprus problem can be solved now," said a shopkeeper.

Makarios was regarded in Turkey as the main obstacle against a Cyprus settlement.

In Britain, which once exiled Archbishop Makarios to the Indian Ocean's Seychelles Islands while Cyprus struggled for independence, flags were ordered flown at half staff.

Lord Caradon, British governor during Cyprus' independence drive, said: "No one could now step into the shoes of the archbishop ... He did his duty in advancing independence, and he never went back on his agreement with us. He kept his word."

U.S. Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance, in Lebanon on a Middle East peace tour, said Makarios "was clearly a strong leader" when asked about the succession.

ARCHBISHOP MAKARIOS

In Nicosia, a spokesman said the Greek Cypriot national guard and police were placed on alert. The national council, grouping all important Cypriot leaders, scheduled a meeting for this morning, the Greek Cypriot radio said.

A presidential palace spokesman said Spiros Kyprianou, head of the all-Greek parliament, would serve as acting president until a successor to Makarios is elected in 45 days.

The Greek Cypriot radio announced 40 days of mourning and played funeral music.

Fire damages home in Chino

Fire raced through a Chino home Tuesday night, causing damages estimated at $52,500.

The 9:20 p.m. blaze gutted the residence at 12842 Wright St. It took 16 firemen about seven minutes to control the fire.

Fire Capt. Forrest Alderman said the cause of the blaze is under investigation. He noted it destroyed the entire inside of the home, but thick outside walls did not burn.

Owner of the home, Jim Frey, was away on vacation. The family, in fact, had left only a few hours before the fire broke out.

Bonita board will consider budget, contract

Public hearing and adoption of the 1977-78 budget and a public hearing on a new contract proposal with the Bonita Unified Teachers Association (BUTA) will come before the Bonita school board for consideration at its regular meeting today at 7:30 p.m. in the Education Center.

The district's new budget is expected to total $13,760,750, up from last year's $12,636,203. The board is also expected to consider a 23 cent hike in the district tax rate to fund this year's program of service.

The BUTA offered its new proposal for a contract for the 1977-78 school year at the board's meeting of July 20. The board is expected to hold a public hearing on the BUTA proposal but to offer no new proposal to the teachers for 1977-78.

Newly-discovered CIA documents

Experiments with the mind

WASHINGTON (AP) — CIA Director Stansfield Turner testified today that newly discovered documents disclosed the CIA sponsored 149 projects involving drugs, hypnosis, shock harassment and even magicians as it experimented with controlling the human mind.

Turner told a joint hearing of the Senate Intelligence Committee and the Health subcommittee that the project, known ultimately as MK-ULTRA, took place from 12 to 25 years ago.

"I assure you that the CIA is in no way engaged in either witting or unwitting testing of drugs today," he said.

Turner told the committee the documents, hitherto unreported to Congress, were found in seven boxes along with financial records in a records center near Washington.

The documents, in the form of fiscal records, do not include status reports or progress analyses of the various parts of the project.

But he said the agency is "now in possession of the names of 185 non-government researchers and assistants who are identified in the recovered material dealing with the 149 subprojects."

"The names of 80 institutions where work was done or with which these people affiliated are also mentioned," he continued.

"The institutions include 44 colleges or universities, 15 research foundations or chemical and pharmaceutical companies and the like, 12 hospitals or clinics ... and three penal institutions."

Adm. Turner did not name any of the individuals or institutions in his prepared testimony.

"Most of the people and institutions involved are not aware of agency sponsorship," he said. "We should certainly assume that the researchers and institutions which cooperated with CIA on a witting basis acted in good faith and in the belief that they were aiding their government in a legitimate and proper purpose. I believe we all have a moral obligation to these researchers and institutions to protect them from any unjustified embarassment or damage to their reputations which revealation of their identities might bring."

Turner said one contribution of $375,000 to a private medical institution's building fund was made through an intermediary to make it appear as a private donation.

He said the institution was not told the true source of the gift.

Turner said the CIA now has information that some unwitting drug testing was carried on in San Francisco and New York City, involving three individuals.

"We also know now that some unwitting testing took place on criminal-sexual psycopaths confined at a state hospital and that, additionally, research was done on a knockout or 'k' drug in parallel with research to develop pain killers for cancer patients."

Turner said he is working with Atty. Gen. Griffin Bell to make available whatever materials Bell may need for any investigation he may decide to begin.

He said he is working with both the attorney general and Joseph A. Califano Jr., the secretary of health, education and welfare, to determine whether it is practical to attempt to identify any of the persons to whom drugs may have been administered unwittingly.

"No such names are part of these records," he said, "but we are working to determine if there are adequate clues to lead to their identification; and if so, how to go about fulfilling the government's responsibilities in the matter."

On Tuesday, the CIA released documents showing the agency conducted a secret 25-year project in which mind-altering drugs were tested on humans to gauge the drugs' ability to disturb memory, change sex patterns and create abberational responses.

Those documents revealed a drug experimentation program far more extensive than the agency has admitted publicly and one which may have been discontinued only recently.

The documents, released under the federal Freedom of Information Act, depict various aspects of drug testing and behavior research.

Carter won't delay welfare program

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter said today that despite congressional suggestions he delay final decisions on his welfare program, he will send the plan to Congress by the end of the week.

Carter told Sen. Russell Long, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, that he would then be ready "to start the long, tough negotiating process with Congress" over the program.

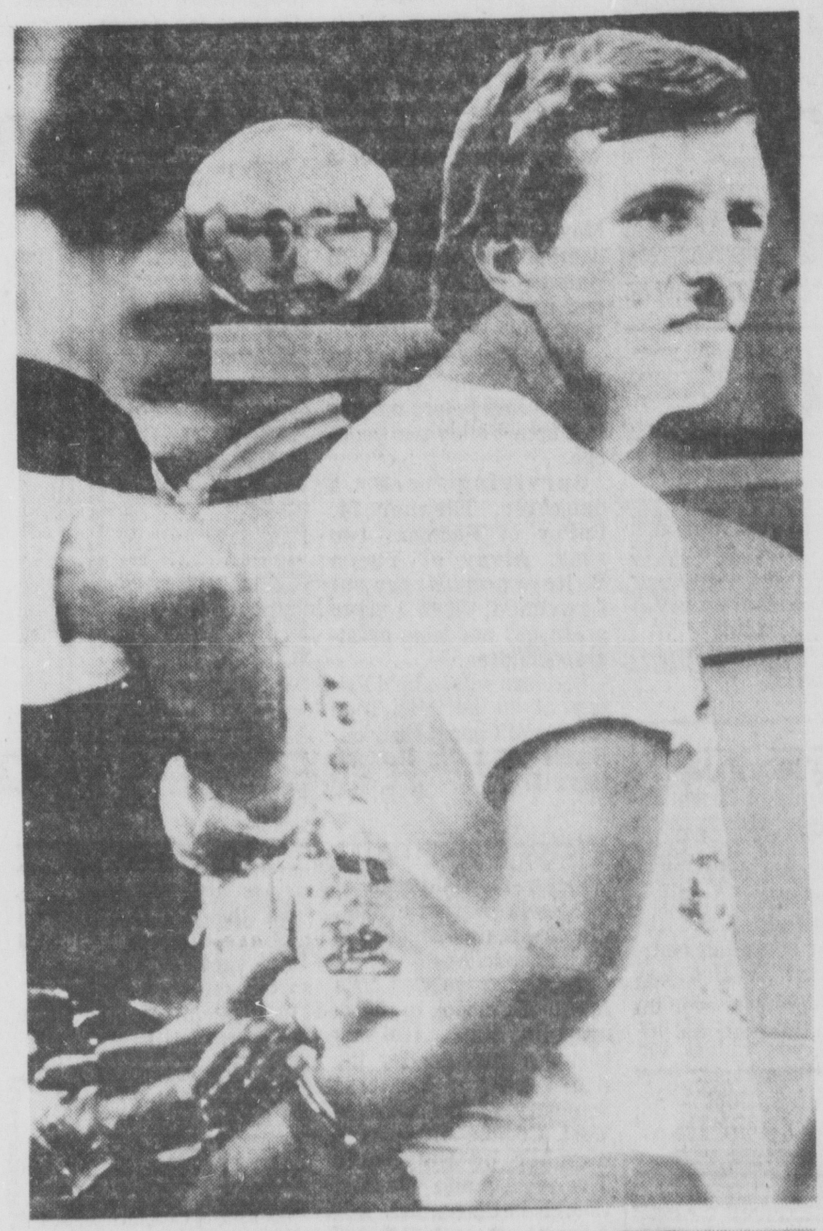

Long, D-La., wanted Carter to postpone sending the program to Capitol Hill until differences over welfare revisions could be worked out with Congress.

But Carter, in a meeting with Long, Vice President Walter F. Mondale, Secretary Joseph A. Califano Jr. of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, and domestic policy adviser Stuart Eizenstat, said he would submit the program "before the end of this week."

Carter told Long before the meeting began that he felt "a lot of progress" had been made in the first six months of his administration on the welfare revision.

Carter reviewed the plan Tuesday with Rep. Al Ullman, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee. Ullman expressed disagreement with a proposal to base supplemental income payments to the working poor on both family size and earned income.

Ullman, whose committee will consider the proposal in the House, also suggested a delay in sending the plan to Congress.

SLAYING VICTIMS AND SUSPECT

CINCINNATI (AP) — The conviction of James Ruppert, accused of killing 11 members of his family at his mother's home on Easter Sunday in 1975, was overturned today by a state appeals court.

The 1st District Ohio Court of Appeals returned the case to the Butler County Common Pleas Court for a new trial.

Ruppert was convicted of 11 counts of aggravated murder in the killings of his mother, brother, sister-in-law, and eight nieces and nephews at his mother's Hamilton home.

The appellate court said Ruppert's waiver of a jury trial was not "knowing, voluntary and intelligent" since he had been informed by counsel and the presiding judge that a three-judge panel's verdict must be unanimous.

Instead of a unanimous decision, Ruppert was convicted by a 2-1 majority by a Butler County Common Pleas Court panel of judges.

Pomona woman raped in yard

A 19-year-old Pomona woman was raped in the backyard of her home early today.

Police said the victim was forced from the master bedroom of her northeast Pomona home by an intruder shortly after 1 a.m.

After attacking the victim, the man fled the area.

He was described as white, about 19 or 20 years of age, 5 feet 9, 145 pounds, with dark, frizzy shoulder-length hair. He wore a cream colored shirt that had an embroidered "W" on the front.

Food on stove sets house afire

A $2,800 fire in a kitchen of a Pomona home Tuesday night was the result of food left on the stove while the resident went outside, according to Pomona Fire Department reports.

Mrs. James Bradford, 1317 Clovis Court, was cooking in the kitchen, but left the meal unattended while she went into the yard. The fire was reported at 7:47 p.m.

It spread from the stove up through cupboards and into the attic. Damage was listed at $2,500 to the structure and $300 to contents.

Chino city workers get pay hike, but employe assn. unhappy

By BOB SWETNAM
PB Staff Writer

Chino city employes got a pay raise offer they couldn't refuse Tuesday night, and most of them aren't going to like it.

Unswayed by arguments that city workers are underpaid and that a state mediator was needed to resolve contract disputes, the City Council unilaterally adopted wage and salary schedules for the 1977-78 fiscal year.

For approximately 100 Chino City Hall employes it will mean pay increases of from 2.5 to 8.5 per cent. But, according to a spokesman for two city employe groups, few will be happy with the settlement.

There is little they can do about it, however, as the City Council's action is the final say on salaries for this year.

Bill Stromberg, a professional negotiator for the Chino City Hall Employees Association and the Service Department Employees Association, charged that city officials had not acted in good faith during recent contract talks.

"We have found absolutely no substantive movement on the part of the city despite the submission of additional facts and statistics and a concerted effort on the part of the associations' negotiating team to modify their position to 'reasonable' terms," said Stromberg.

City employes, excluding management positions and police who negotiate their own contracts, had sought pay and fringe benefit increases of from 8.64 to 9.05 per cent.

They claimed such a raise was justified because Chino pays employes significantly less than the average market level.

"The associations recognize that the city would have to provide total compensation increases surpassing 14 per cent in order to compensate for this discrepancy," Stromberg argued.

City Council members, however, unanimously rejected such claims and returned after an executive meeting to announce the terms of employe contracts.

Custodians, water meter readers, and engineering technologists will get a 2.5 per cent salary increase. Storekeepers, water systems operators, field supervisors and mechanics will receive a 6 per cent pay raise.

Most other employes will receive salary increases of 8.5 per cent.

In addition, the city agreed to assume a 100 per cent of employes' costs for health and dental care, but declined to contribute to health plans for spouses and dependant children.

Some adjustments in sick leave, holiday pay, overtime compensation and other items was also announced by the City Council.

Contacted today, Stromberg said he expected employes to be unhappy with the city officials' decision.

"We will be holding a meeting later this week or early next week to determine what type of action, if any, to take," he said.

"We wanted to take a peaceful approach and not antagonize the council at this early stage of the game, but now that they've gone ahead and adopted a salary resolution its hard to say what association members will want to do."

The Chino City Council is currently involved with a contract dispute with police officers also. The Chino Police Officers Association recently declared an impasse in labor negotiations with city officials.

R.H. worker electrocuted

A Rowland Heights man died Tuesday afternoon in an electrical accident in Santa Fe Springs.

Los Angeles County Sheriff's deputies said Peter K. Lewis, 27, was electrocuted while installing an electrical panel at a new home.

Deputies said Lewis touched two wires together, apparently unaware that power to the home had been turned on.

Paramedics attempted to revive Lewis, but he was pronounced dead on arrival at Whittier Presbyterian Hospital.

Lewis resided at 2041 S. Blandford in Rowland Heights. He was employed by the Southern California Edison Co.

Man robbed in restaurant lot

Upland police this morning were searching for a gunman who robbed a man in the parking lot of Uncle Ned's restaurant-bar at 365 N. Central Ave., Upland, late Tuesday night.

Police said the robber, armed with a handgun, accosted the victim and demanded he hand over his wallet. The robber took the wallet, containing a small amount of cash and credit cards, and fled on foot.

The robber was described as white, 32 years of age, 6 feet 2, 170 pounds, of medium build.

He had sandy hair and was wearing a brown checked shirt and dark pants.

Hospital deaths linked to mixup

NORRISTOWN, Pa. (AP) — Authorities may not know until Friday how many patients died as a result of mislabeled oxygen and nitrous oxide lines in the emergency room at nearby Suburban General Hospital.

Allegheny County Coroner Cyril Wecht, a pathologist hired by the hospital to study emergency room deaths, said Tuesday night that his preliminary findings indicate some deaths apparently were linked to the mixup, but he declined to give a number.

"It is not a great number, but I would not want to express a number," he said. "Quite candidly, I have not in my own mind arrived at such a final judgment."

Wecht said he hoped to deliver a final report by Friday.

"In some instances, there are further records to study such as autopsies. I have looked through the 35 death cases. There are some that I have to spend more time on," Wecht said.

By examining individual records of a patient's treatment and response, Wecht said he hoped to determine whether "the administration of nitrous oxide or deprivation of oxygen was related to that patient's death."

Richard Anderson, the hospital's administrator, said a plumbing contractor had mislabeled pipes while extending existing gas lines into the hospital's emergency room, which opened Dec. 15.

As a result, 11 outlets labeled oxygen actually were carrying nitrous oxide, or "laughing gas," and four lines labeled nitrous oxide were carrying oxygen, hospital officials said.

The error went undetected for almost seven months, until the hospital's chief anesthesiologist, Dr. Leonard Becker, tried to revive a man with oxygen on July 6 and noticed him turning blue, Anderson said.

Hospital officials said 300 of the 9,000 persons processed in the emergency room may have been treated with the wrong gas.

A total of 35 persons died in the emergency room during the seven-month period, but hospital officials noted that not all were treated with gas and some were dead on arrival.

William Walkup, president of the hospital's board, said Tuesday that "a preliminary review by the professional staff at the hospital indicates there will be a maximum of five cases — five deaths" linked to the mixup.

Nitrous oxide, commonly called laughing gas because it makes its subjects giddy, is used as an anesthetic and relaxant but is not a particularly toxic substance, said Wecht.

What concerns probers, said Wecht, is that patients in dire need of oxygen may instead have received nitrous oxide.

William Myrtetus, director of the state's insurance program for medical facilities, said he expected lawsuits stemming from the mixup to be filed against the hospital.

In a strikingly similar case, a state court in Houston awarded $2 million on June 3 to the family of a woman who died in a newly constructed hospital delivery room after she was administered nitrous oxide instead of oxygen.

Alfred Lunt dead of cancer

CHICAGO (AP) — Alfred Lunt, for decades one of the great stars of the American stage, died early today at 84.

He had undergone surgery for cancer of the bladder at Northwestern Memorial Hospital on July 21.

Actress Lynne Fontanne, Lunt's wife and stage partner of more than 50 years, was not at his bedside when he died at 4:05 a.m. Now 90, she had visited him after he entered the hospital July 20, but had remained most of the time at the couple's longtime home at Genesee Depot west of Milwaukee, Wis.

Lunt, born on Aug. 19, 1892, made his Broadway debut as a bit player in the October 1917 production of "Romance and Arabella." A critic for the New York Evening World said Lunt had done "capital work."

It had taken him almost four years to reach Broadway from his first job at the Castle Square Theater in Boston. He had been studying elocution in Boston when he was struck by a job-hunting whimsy.

Two years after his Broadway debut, Lunt landed the title role in the Booth Tarkington play "Clarence." Tarkington had met Lunt before the play was written and had created the part for the young actor, who continued in the role for a two-year Broadway run.

In the summers, Lunt went to the stock theater circuit, which is where he met Miss Fontanne. They appeared together several times.

Miss Fontanne already had established a reputation as an actress of great ability on the London and Broadway stages. The British actress had been appearing in the hit "Dulcy" at the same time Lunt was running in his first major role.

LUNT AND FONTANNE

On May 22, 1922, the two married. They built successful careers separately and together and won the admiration of the theater world both for their artistic abilities and the sophisticated manner in which they lived.

They launched the Lunt-Fontanne legend by appearing together in 1923 in a revival of "Sweet Nell of Old Drury." Later, they appeared together in such memorable performances as "The Guardsman," "The Brothers Karamazov," "Pygmalion" and "The Taming of the Shrew."

The Lunt-Fontanne team made token appearance on the screen and television. Their sole film was "The Guardsman." Lunt said he found films boring. "We can be bought, but we can't be bored," he remarked.

Once, when asked about their teamwork, Miss Fontanne said: "We have been together so long, I can't imagine going on without him."

Although troubled by eye problems, Lunt kept busy with gardening and other activities around the home, including the gourmet cooking at which he excelled.

"Poor Alfred," Miss Fontanne said in a 1972 interview on the occasion of their 50th wedding anniversary. "These days he's working harder than any of us."

"I've had eye problems for years and now I can hardly see at all," Lunt said then, complaining that he'd curdled a Sauce Bernaise for the first time in his life. "It's pretty hard to cook by ear."

In 1970 the Lunts received special Tony awards in recognition of their many stage triumphs. One of their rare public appearances since then was in 1975, when they attended a ceremony at which they presented 20 acres of their wooded land to the Town of Genesee for a park.

San Dimas celebrates birthday with barbecue

San Dimas will celebrate its 17th birthday with a "Round-Up Barbecue" Thursday at 5:30 p.m. in San Dimas Canyon Park.

The city's birthday celebration is being cosponsored by city and chamber of commerce officials. It will feature entertainment continuing until 7 p.m.

Entertainers will include Folklorico de Aztlan, Mexican dancing group, the Shooting Stars and San Dimas High School's drill teams.

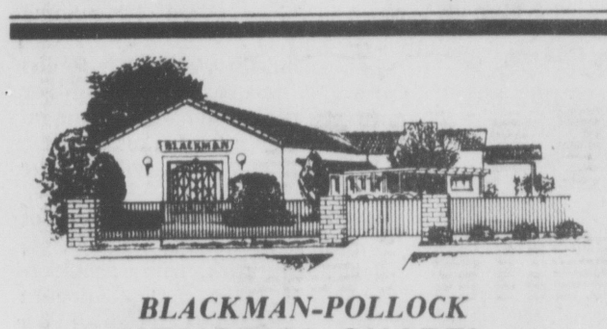

The traditional menu will include barbecued beef, beans, salad, bread, lemonade and birthday cake.

Games and races for all ages are being planned by the 5-to-7-year-old recreation department. A "Little Miss San Dimas" will be selected during the dinner. Displays by the county library, fire department and sheriff's rescue team will be on hand for viewing.

Judge Tom Nuss, a former San Dimas councilman, is chairman of the barbecue.

Tickets for the event are $3 for adults and $1.50 for children under 12. They are available at the City Hall, San Dimas Chamber of Commerce, Bank of America, Crocker National Bank and Pomona First Federal Savings and Loan.

Instruction in how to operate and maintain audiovisual equipment will be given in two eight-hour sessions at CITRUS COLLEGE on two successive Saturdays, Aug. 13 and 20, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Instructor is James Pierce, college audiovisual technician. Those who take the course will learn to operate various types of audiovisual equipment, clean equipment, replace lamps and needles properly and recognize improper operation of equipment. One unit of college credit is offered.

Fee for the course is $2, plus a $3 parking fee if applicable. Persons may enroll now at the admissions office, located in the Administration Building. Students may also register on Aug. 13.

For additional information, persons may call 599-8339.

The largest single bequest to the SCHOOL OF THEOLOGY AT CLAREMONT has been completed. Final payments make the gifts of Mr. and Mrs. H. Dixon Oberdorfer the most total giving ever received from a single family — $868,548.

They were members of the Claremont United Methodist Church and resided at Mt. San Antonio Gardens in Pomona before their deaths in 1973 and 1975. They made lifetime gifts to the school totaling $102,510. Their bequests amounted to $766,038, and have doubled the endowment of the institution.

Mr. Oberdorfer founded the New Castle Products Co., New Castle, Ind., manufacturers of acoustical and modern fold doors.

Their gifts have endowed the H. Dixon and Julia S. Oberdorfer Memorial Scholarship Fund, which will make possible financial aid annually to deserving students planning on careers in the Christian ministry.

A recent article by Margaret C. Gibbs, CITRUS COLLEGE board of trustees member and a resident of Claremont, has been published in the May 1977 issue of "Community," a journal of the California Community and Junior College Association.

Entitled "What's a Trustee For?" the article discusses how community college trustees and district superintendents/presidents in the state of California view their roles.

Dr. Gibbs based many of her observations on a survey mailed to every community college trustee in California. She also attended more than 30 board of trustee meetings in the state before writing her article.

David L. Walkington and Michael H. Clapp were appointed acting dean and acting associate dean, respectively, of the School of Mathematics, Science and Engineering at CAL STATE FULLERTON.

Walkington, associate dean of the school, and Clapp, chair of the mathematics department, received one-year appointments, according to President L. Donald Shields.

Assuming the position as acting chair of mathematics for a one-year period is Harris S. Schultz, department vice chair.

David Alexander, president of POMONA COLLEGE, has been named president of the 42-member board of the Independent Colleges of Southern California (ICSC).

ICSC conducts an annual campaign for unrestricted operating funds for 15 independent colleges and universities. In the campaign completed June 30, ICSC distributed $1,373,000 provided by corporations, foundations and individual donors to its members. Pomona College received $104,176.

Newly elected chairman of ICSC is Robert F. Erburu, president of the Times Mirror Co.

CITRUS COLLEGE will offer a full-time training program in air conditioning and heating in the fall semester which begins Sept. 12.

The class will meet Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. A second, advanced class will be offered in the spring semester.

Students successfully completing the classes should be qualified to enter the field of heating and air conditioning.

Persons wanting to enroll in the course should contact the college admissions office now for an application to enroll and a registration appointment. Registration for all fall semester classes begins Aug. 15.

The program is a new addition to the published fall schedule of classes. Students should ask for "Heating and Air Conditioning Technology 150," ticket number 4300, when registering or requesting information about the course.

Simons presents summer concert

Music of Bernstein, Gershwin and Glenn Miller will be featured at the annual summer concert to be presented Thursday at 7:30 p.m. by summer session bands at Simons Junior High School in Pomona.

The concert, to be presented by more than 100 students in beginners, intermediate and symphonic bands, will be staged in the school gym.

Selections to be played by the beginners band will include the "Marines Hymn," "Soldier Boy," "Merry-Go-Round" and "Krazy Rock."

The intermediate band will play songs by Paul Williams, a Spanish dance and a spiritual, "He's Got the Whole World in His Hands."

Featured in the symphonic band offering will be a "Concerto for Drum Set" with Joe Williams as soloist and a clarinet solo entitled "Ballade and Beguine" with Bob Stebbing as soloist.

Other numbers will include an arrangement of Glenn Miller favorites featuring the sax section, "An American in Paris," a collection of Broadway numbers and "Feelings" sung by Robin McClure.

Admission will be 50 cents. Refreshments will be provided.

Petition signed by 3 property owners

Claremont annexation requested

Three property owners in the Amador Avenue-Foothill Boulevard "county island" have signed a petition asking for annexation to Claremont.

Proposed Annexation 56 has been sent to the Local Agency Formation Commission for processing.

One hundred per cent cooperation among the three owners was obtained by realtor Arthur Steffen who informed the Claremont City Council recently that his client is "between a rock and a hard place."

Steffen explained that the only way his client could tie in with the city's sewer line is through annexation, and that in order to get county permission to build the client must either install a private sanitation system or accept a sewer connection.

"This puts us in a state of animated suspension," Steffen said.

He said that Domenico Andriani who wants to develop his property on Amador Street has no objection to annexation, and that he had been negotiating with owners George Caswell and James Lasagna to annex.

Steffen was able to convince the owners to sign the request for annexation.

The former Lasagna liquor store was owned by someone else in the late 1950s and early 1960s when the city successfully annexed three areas to the west, north and east of the property now part of Annexation 56.

The city of Claremont was dry at that time, and residents did not want a liquor store in the city, so the area was not annexed.

Claremont stayed dry until Griswold's received its liquor license in 1968.

The proposed annexation would bring into the city the liquor store building, Tugboat Annie's, and Colonel Sanders Kentucky Fried Chicken along the Foothill frontage.

SALLY JANDRALL

Pomona High graduate captures essay contest

Sally Jandrall, a 1977 graduate of Pomona High School, has won first place in California in the annual American Legion Auxiliary Americanism Essay Contest for high school students.

The first place award is a $1,000 college scholarship, which Miss Jandrall will apply toward her education at Revelle College, UC San Diego.

A student in Mrs. Ada Jeppeson's 12th grade honors English class, she was sponsored by Pomona's Charles P. Rowe Post 30 American Legion Auxiliary. This is the first time that a high school essay contestant sponsored by the Pomona unit has won state honors.

The subject of this year's contest was "Freedom Demands Responsibility." Miss Jandrall's winning essay, which emphasizes dual responsibility to respect the freedoms of all Americans as expressed in the Bill of Rights, and to ensure that our Government continues to observe and protect these freedoms, will be placed on display at Valley Forge, Pennsylvania.

Boston policeman stands guard over tiny beachgoer at a S. Boston beach where racial tension has erupted into fights over past three weeks. FBI agents looked over situation today to determine if federal rights laws were being violated.

Terror bombs kill 1, hurt 8 in N.Y.

NEW YORK (AP) — Bombs exploded in two midtown Manhattan office buildings today, killing one person and injuring at least eight others. Police began searching other buildings after warnings from a Puerto Rican terrorist band that more explosions would follow.

Communications to police and news organizations from a group called FALN said bombs were planted in as many as five other buildings, including the World Trade Center and buildings housing headquarters of the National Football League and the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith. One FALN note said the bombings were to dramatize the group's demands for Puerto Rican independence.

Police began searching the five buildings, including the two 110-story towers of the World Trade Center. With 35,000 workers, the center is the world's largest office complex. The Chase Manhattan Bank on Park Avenue was evacuated.

The main floor and basement of the Empire State Building were evacuated at midday.

Explosions went off at the Mobil Oil Co. building on busy 42nd Street near Lexington Avenue and at Defense Department offices on the 21st floor of a nearby building at 43rd Street and Madison Avenue.

A Pentaon spokesman in Washington said the New York office is staffed by "investigators who perform security duties in connection with background investigation checks" for security clearances.

No injuries were reported at the building housing the Defense Department office, but one man died and at least six others were injured in the Mobil blast.

Police said one person suffered a heart attack during evacuation of the 45-story Mobil building.

Other evacuations were ordered on the basis of communications from FALN, a Puerto Rican independence group about which police have learned little and which authorities have been unable to penetrate.

Today's blasts bring to 50 the number of bombings connected to the group in the last three years.

"A telephone call has been received claiming that the FALN did it," said Police Commissioner Michael Codd, who said later that authorities had "no specific leads" in locating the persons who planted the bombs.

Sirens wailed on congested Manhattan streets, and police roped off many of them from vehicular and pedestrian midday traffic. Officials said at least three suspicious devices were found in their searches, including a bomb in an American Brands building on Park Avenue.

The New York Post was directed by telephone to a note signed by the "FALN Central Command" which was found at a Central Park statue of Jose Marti, a Latin American independence fighter.

The note said the bombings were to dramatize their "just struggle" for Puerto Rican independence and that targets were "Yanqi" imperialist corporations that exploit Puerto Rico.

The first blast went off at the Defense Department office at about 9:35 a.m., followed about an hour later by the Mobil building blast.

ENERGY

Auto pollution action

WASHINGTON (AP) — A House-Senate conference committee ended the threat of a shutdown by American car makers today, reaching agreement on a major revision of federal air pollution laws.

Members of the committee negotiated for nearly seven hours before finally settling on a formula that will ease federal requirements on auto emission standards for new American cars beginning in 1980.

"This is a reasonable compromise," said the chairman of the conference committee, Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine.

Gasoline shortage

WASHINGTON (AP) — The spectre of future gasoline shortages is being raised by a Carter administration official following warnings by refiners who say they're barely able to meet present demand.

Federal Energy Administrator John F. O'Leary disclosed Tuesday that refiners painted a grim picture of gasoline production capacity in the United States during a meeting with federal officials two weeks ago.

Because of this, the nation may be in danger of gasoline shortages in 1978 and 1979 as refinery capacity is forced to run "all out," O'Leary said in an interview.

Natural gas bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House today approved a modest compromise in President Carter's plan to retain price controls on natural gas, and floor managers of the administration energy program said the vote would help defeat a drive to deregulate the fuel.

With the compromise adopted by a voice vote, the managers of the energy bill turned to their battle to defeat a proposal of Republicans and some oilstate Democrats to free natural gas prices from federal regulation.

White House solar energy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Jimmy Carter may not be fixing to put solar collectors on his roof, but so far everything is looking sunny for the use of solar energy at the White House.

His energy adviser, James R. Schlesinger, asked the Energy Research and Development Administration to study the possiblity of installing solar energy at the White House.

The study, just being wrapped up, found that use of solar energy there, particularly for heating water, is technologically and architecturally feasible and economically promising.

Water project energy

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A coal-fired electric power plant may be built to run the huge State Water Project, a state official says.

APPOINTED — Washington attorney Charles B. Curtis, has been appointed by President Carter as chairman of the Federal Power Commission.

NAMED — President Carter has named James Schlesinger to head up the new Department of Energy. Schlesinger has headed several other departments.

Los Angeles LNG terminal

LOS ANGELES (AP) — An application to build a liquefied natural gas terminal has been filed by Western LNG Terminal Associates, which would prefer that it be in Los Angeles harbor or Oxnard.

The filing Tuesday came one day before Western LNG headed for a legislative hearing to oppose a bill it says would require a site at Point Conception or an offshore site.

Long Beach oil terminal

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The proposed Sohio Alaskan oil terminal in Long Beach is "somewhat more likely now," said state Air Resources Board Chairman Tom Quinn after meeting with Carter Administration officials in Washington.

150 miners trapped

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — About 150 miners were trapped and feared dead today after an explosion in a coal mine in central Mozambique, and nine foreigners were killed in subsequent rioting at the mine, Radio Mozambique reported.

The radio, monitored here, said rescue operations were under way and troops were sent to restore order.

Feud over how much fair will pay county

By BOB NAGEY
PB Staff Writer

A controversy has erupted before the county Board of Supervisors over a $350,000 write-off claimed by Los Angeles County Fair Association in Pomona for the use of the fairgrounds by the sheriff's office.

Fair officials claim that's what they would charge to other agencies if they wanted to use the fairgrounds as much as the sheriff does.

They explained that the sheriff uses the facilities for driver training, riot control practice and other functions. They admitted that other agencies, particularly the California Highway Patrol and occasionally the Pomona Fire Department, also use the 421-acre grounds, but only under the discretion of the sheriff.

"During the off months we lease the grounds to the sheriff's office," Phil Shepherd, executive director of the fair explained. "If the sheriff wants to let others use it, it's up to him."

The write-off was presented to the supervisors Tuesday as part of a $400,000 package to justify why the fair association is not paying anything for the use of the county-owned land.

The fair association is paying the county about $25,000 a year in property taxes, and the supervisors felt they should get more out of the operation, particularly since the association was showing a profit from its operation.

They pointed out that the state was getting about $900,000 from horse racing at the fair and the City of Pomona was getting more than $100,000 a year in amusement taxes alone.

R.B. Baird, the county's assistant chief administrative officer, told the board that while the county was losing about $65,000 a year by exempting the fair board from additional property taxes, it was getting about $400,000 in benefits.

He said that in addition to the use of the grounds by the sheriff, the county is given free space for exhibits and about 17,000 free or reduced rate tickets to the fair.

But supervisors Baxter Ward and Kenneth Hahn remained skeptical.

Ward called the figures "arbitrary," designed mostly to offset the property taxes and to convince the county the fair should not pay it. And Hahn said he wanted "a lot more information about the services" before he approved a new agreement.

Continuation of the present agreement is urged by Chief Administrative Officer Harry Hufford, and backed by Supervisor Peter Schabarum. Baird told the board there is similar space available for training work by the sheriff's office at Terminal Island.

Hahn and Ward immediately instructed Baird to investigate the possibility of using that area rather than the fairgrounds in Pomona.

In the course of questioning, Baird told the board the fair association made a $138,564 profit last year.

At Hahn's suggestion, the board put off action on the acceptance of a new contract for three weeks to give Baird a chance to expand his report.

Nab 2 in Ontario bank heist

By TONY AULT
PB Staff Writer

After a fast foot pursuit, Upland and Ontario police Tuesday arrested two men in connection with the 3 p.m. robbery of Crocker Bank in Ontario.

One man had to be pulled from beneath a rug behind an apartment building.

After two men, one armed with a handgun, took approximately $1,000 in $20 and $100 bills from the bank at 735 N. Euclid Ave., in a paper bag, Ontario police broadcast their descriptions as well as a description of their car.

Minutes later, an Upland police officer attempted to stop a car for a traffic violation and the driver tried to lose Officer Tom Fitzpatrick near Washington and Campus avenues.

As he went in pursuit in his patrol car, he heard the Ontario police broadcast on his radio. The car he was chasing matched the car wanted in the Ontario bank robbery.

As he started to relay this information to Ontario, the fleeing car crashed into a parked car in the 1200 block of north Campus Avenue. Two men leaped out and fled in opposite directions, Fitzpatrick said.

He jumped from his car and caught one.

Officers Marty Thouvennell and Ray Ubis of Ontario spotted the second man hiding under the rug at the rear of apartments at 733 Valadez St.

Both men were turned over to Ontario police for questioning. Officers said they found a gun in the car the men had abandoned which resembled the gun used in the bank robbery.

Ernest Roman, 26, 237 S. First Ave., Upland, and Jerry Edward Smith, 32, Pasadena, were booked into West End jail by Ontario police for investigation of bank robbery.

INJURED FIREMAN

Ron Smith, 25, is treated for injuries suffered when a garage door fell on him while helping to put out a fire at a Cucamonga apartment complex. He was treated at a hospital and later released. The fire was confined to a garage area. (Story on page 9.)

Vance to Lebanon

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — U.S. Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance paid a four-hour visit to this war-torn capital Wednesday and offered $143 million to help rebuild Lebanon.

Vance told reporters after a luncheon meeting with President Elias Sarkis that the funds, which must be approved by Congress, would comprise $100 million in soft loans to rebuild the Lebanese army and $43 million more in humanitarian and reconstruction aid.

The secretary of state, arriving here at noon from Egypt, flew to Damascus in the late afternoon to begin a two-day round with Syrian leaders in his six-nation, peaceseeking tour.

Unsolved murders mark of gang activity

By TONY AULT

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the fourth in a series of five articles dealing with criminal activities of two California prison gangs and particularly their violent lawlessness in the valley.

The body of Arthur Abilez Loza, 34, Chino, a parolee from state prison, found in a ditch last April east of Chino Airport, bore the trademark of gang violence which is becoming more and more prevalent in the valley.

Loza, paroled after being convicted of a felony narcotics violation, was shot twice in the head with a .38-caliber or 9mm handgun at close range, according to the San Bernardino County Coroner's office.

The San Bernardino County sheriff's homicide detail said more than likely Loza had been riding around the valley drinking and joking with "friends."

They theorize he asked the driver of the car to stop so he could urinate at the side of the road early in the morning. He stepped out of the car and two shots rang out. He fell dead in a shallow ditch.

A similar fate awaited Edward Lorenzo Gonzales, 30, of Mira Loma, on June 19, 1976 as he drove around the West End of San Bernardino County with some "friends." His body was found that morning inside his car parked near the railroad tracks in La Verne. He had been shot several times in the head at another location, police said, and his body driven to La Verne and abandoned.

SHIPWRECKED TRIO

Three young people shipwrecked off the Nicaraguan coast and then rescued by an American freighter, the SS American Lancer, stand at the rail of the ship as it brought them to Los Angeles harbor Tuesday. They are, left to right, Robert Campbell, an American, Sandra Corea of Nicaragua, and Joe Almond, a resident of Nicaragua.

Romance blooms in shipwreck

LONG BEACH (AP) — Twenty days water-logged and stranded at sea in a 20-foot fishing boat did not dampened the love of two survivors who have touched land for the first time since July 10.

Robert Campbell, Sandra Corea and Joe Almond arrived in Long Beach Tuesday after being rescued July 30 by the cargo ship American Lancer about 100 miles off the southern tip of Mexico.

"We had a budding romance going for sometime before the fishing trip," said Campbell, 37, of New York City. "Our appreciation of each other increased a lot while we were drifting at sea," he said of Miss Corea, 27, of Managua, Nicaragua.

Campbell, Almond and Miss Corea had left San Juan del Sur, near Managua, Nicaragua, July 10 on a weekend fishing trip. But Campbell's 20-foot vessel swamped after the bilge hatch opened, and the three spent five days clinging to the boat's railing during a storm.

"We had water sores so bad our skin was slowly peeling and floating away," Almond, 29, of Managua said of the ordeal during the storm.

After the storm, the three bailed out the "Momo Tombito" and rigged a sail to stay in the major fishing lanes. While drifting about 500 miles during the next two weeks, the trio said they were passed by 37 boats which failed to see or hear them.

"The Lancer almost ran us over, it passed within 100 yards. It was a miracle they saw us," Almond said, noting that he, Campbell and Miss Corea used the last of three flares to hail the 710-foot cargo ship which passed by under a full moon around midnight July 30.

Firefighters save radio equipment

CLAYTON (AP) — Weary firefighters, their rest interrupted early today when a full crew was called back on the lines at nearby Mt. Diablo to battle flare ups at unburned "islands," apparently have saved radio equipment threatened by the two-day-old blaze.

Communications equipment and towers on top of Mt. Diablo, saved when the lightning-sparked fire first swept through the area late Monday, had been in danger when winds whipped the top of the mountain, according to Richard Hoover, California Department of Forestry.

No equipment was reported damaged, said Nadine Robin, CDF, but several electrical lines burned down.

Military, police and various other agencies have equipment on the 3,850-foot summit of Mt. Diablo, one of the highest points in the San Francisco area.

No homes were in danger, Hoover said. Fifty homes were evacuated early Tuesday when a nine-mile-long line of flames surged across the dry foothills..

Miss Robin said the blaze was 60 per cent "contained" after burning over more than 4,550 acres.

Rent control in La Verne doesn't materialize

By BOB NAGEY
PB Staff Writer

There isn't going to be any rent control in La Verne's mobile home parks — not for at least six months, if ever

The City Council withdrew Monday night what would have been the only rental regulation ordinance in the state contending the law was not needed because "the people concerned are doing something about their problems."

The mobile home park operators told the council at a packed house in La Verne College that they and their tenants were in the process of signing private agreements for a two-year conditional freeze on rent increases.

Thus ended an eight month controversy during which mobile home owners appealed to the council for help charging that they were being "gouged" by the operators of the city's eight mobile home parks.

But the council agreed to review the whole situation in six months.

Mobile home owners had asked for rent control last December, contending that the park operators had made "outrageous increases" in the rental of the spaces. The mobile home owners said that unless the rents were controlled by law, some of them might have to give up their homes.

Residents of Casitas La Verne had charged that their rents had gone up 110 per cent in the past three years.

The council, yielding to the pressure, had drawn up an ordinance and was going to introduce it July 6 but the park operators said they wanted to work out private agreements with their tenants.

At Monday's meeting, Robert Donath, owner of the La Verne Mobile Country Club, said his park and the owners of six others had worked out agreements with their tenants for the next two years.

The agreements reportedly promised that there would be no raises in rent for the next two years except to cover additional taxes and cost of living increases.

Donath said there wasn't enough time since the last meeting to sign everybody up, but indicated that a large number of tenants already had agreed.

But there were groups of tenants who viewed the agreements as ultimatums and they declined to sign.

Howard Hollister of the Twin Oaks Mobile Home Parks said that if the proposed agreements were not negotiable "then we were capitulating to the owners."

Donath told the council the format for the agreement was worked out among the owners of the seven parks, "and this is the best we can do at this time."

Conspicuous by its absence from the list of participating mobile home parks was Casitas La Verne.

Allan Wilk, owner of that park, reportedly told the tenants that he had no interest in cooperating with the other park owners.

However, he threatened to raise rents by $35 if the council passed the rent control law. He reportedly told the tenants that if the proposal failed he would only raise rents $18 per space.

James Brouwer, chairman of the park's ad hoc committee, called the statement "blackmail." He said the 200 residents of the park had gotten the "worst deal in town."

But the councilmen felt progress was being made to hold the rentals down.

"Maybe it's not 100 per cent of what you want," Mayor Mike M. Morales declared. "But it's something you can take home with you."

And Councilman Allan Mackay contended that while "discussions and dialog is going on I don't want any ordinances hanging over anybody's head." He obtained council approval to review the rent control situation in about six months.

Mackay said he and Councilman Melvin Belcher had met with Wilk last month. He said he was satisfied that Wilk's expenses had risen enough to justify an $18 increase in rent next December.

Claremont council keeps door open for shopping center

By GEORGE MacLAREN
PB Staff Writer

Despite an overwhelming number of people speaking in opposition, the Claremont City Council by a 3-2 vote Tuesday night kept a limited commercial use designation for the area of Base Line Road and Mills Avenue on the city's general plan map.

About 200 persons attended the council meeting at Lyman Hall in the Thatcher Music Building, one of the largest turnouts in recent years.

Their interest was divided between the general plan recommendations from the Planning Commission, and protests over the coming of Chinook International to the city.

The commission recommendations concern general plan amendments for the entire area between Mills Avenue and the county line, and between Base Line Road and Foothill Boulevard.

The commission had recommended that Base Line Road be designated as commercial-professional.

George Carlberg told the council that he didn't favor a shopping center at Base Line Road and Mills Avenue, but could see one going in at Mills Avenue and Foothill Boulevard.

A statement was read for the Claremont Foothill Association which said that a shopping center at Base Line Road and Mills Avenue was not considered appropriate, and questioned a poll taken on the desirability of such a center.

Many said that they shop in the Village business area in Claremont or at a shopping center at 16th Street and Mountain Avenue in Upland.

A representative for the developer of a shopping center told the council that his firm had submitted an environmental impact report on a center a year ago.

"We're prepared to develop a center on six acres," he said.

Councilman Richard Newton noted that many speakers said a shopping center is not needed in that area, but Newton stressed that the need is there because of 1,000 homes which will be built in that area.

Saying that the old general plan was developed with a lot of thought, Newton said he feels the location is best.

But Councilwoman Eleanor Cohen said that she feels the vast majority of residents don't want a shopping center at Base Line Road and Mills Avenue.

Councilwoman Claire McDonald agreed with Mrs. Cohen, and said she was a member of the Planning Commission which drew up the general plan. "It has always been a controversial issue," she said.

Councilman Frank Hungerford agreed with Newton's stand and that of the city staff. He said that there is a need for more tax base.

The swing vote went to Mayor Bertye Smith who called the decision "a tough one. I favor a neighborhood shopping center, but not one that encroaches on the Foothill Freeway right-of-way."

She said it is difficult to vote in face of all the "opposition you hear tonight" and moved to amend the general plan with office-professional along Base Line Road except that the area at Base Line Road and Mills will remain as limited commercial.

The council discussed how the City of Upland sets up a special district for a shopping center to protect the neighboring residential areas.

The council also by a 3-2 vote went along with a recommendation that the area south of the Base Line Road frontage south to the Biddle development be designated as two to six dwelling units an acre and be developed as a planned unit development.

The area includes the Foothill Freeway right-of-way.

City Attorney William Bergman cautioned the council that it could pass a moratorium on home building in the Foothill Freeway right-of-way for four months on a 4-1 vote, but the area must have a usable designation, and not as a transportation corridor as Upland has done.

Mayor Bertye Smith noted that Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. is against completing the Foothill Freeway, and that by October the city should know the future of the freeway.

San Francisco election

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — San Francisco voters have rejected efforts to repeal the election this fall of the city's powerful 11-member Board of Supervisors by separate districts, signaling a new era in city politics and vindicating Mayor George Moscone.

Not since the turn of the century have San Franciscans chose the legislative body by individual district elections. Supervisors previously were required to run citywide.

The voters Tuesday trounced Proposition A, designed to repeal last fall's surprising decision by the voters to switch to district elections.

They also overwhelmingly rejected Propostion B which would have trimmed in half the current terms of Moscone, Dist. Atty. Joseph Freitas Jr., Sheriff Richard Hongisto and other major officials.

With nearly all of the vote counted, 97 per cent, Proposition A was trailing 94,017 to 69,929. Proposition B was down 108,398 to 60,463.

The results were interpreted as a vote of confidence in Moscone's liberal administration and a stinging rebuke to Supervisor John Barbagelata, who narrowly lost the 1975 mayor's race to Moscone and became his bitterest foe.

Farr loses an appeal

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Los Angeles reporter William Farr has lost an appeal that would have released him from a court order to name his sources for a 1970 story on the Charles Manson trial.

But Farr, a reporter for the Los Ageles Times, said Tuesday he would appeal the ruling by the 2nd District Court of Appeal to the California Supreme Court.

"Regardless of the consequences, even bankruptcy, I simply cannot answer those questions," Farr said.

Farr, who spent 46 days in jail in 1972 and 1973 for failing to reveal his sources, was ordered last New Year's Eve to disclose the names of attorneys who allegedly gave him information in defiance of a gag order.

Farr used the information in a 1970 story he wrote while working for the Los Angeles Herald-Examiner about an alleged Manson family plot to kill Hollywood celebrities.

Although absolved of criminal liability in the case, Farr and the Times now face a $24 million libel suit filed by two attorneys who have demanded Farr make it clear that they were not the sources for the story.

If Farr loses further appeals and continues withholding his sources, he could be jailed again under civil contempt charges.

State programs to be cut?

SACRAMENTO (AP) — State legislators have been told they will have to make cuts in property tax relief and school finance proposals — $400 million in five years, by one estimate.

And the members of two Senate-Assembly conference committees were given only two alternatives Tuesday: Reductions in state programs, mostly health and welfare benefits for the poor, or a tax increase.

Legislative Analyst A. Alan Post and Roy Bell, Gov. Edmund Brown Jr.'s finance director, agreed that the property tax-school finance package would have to be cut or the state would run out of money within several years.

Neither said how much of a cut was needed. That would depend on how fast other programs and revenues grow, and the provisions that wind up in the final bills.

Power vacuum with death of Makarios

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — Archbishop Makarios, president of this Mediterranean island since independence 17 years ago, died early today of a heart attack, leaving a dangerous power vacuum in a nation seething with tension between Greek and Turkish Cypriots.

A spokesman at the presidential palace said the Greek Orthodox prelate suffered the attack Tuesday night and died at 5:15 a.m. local time, 10 days before his 64th birthday.

The powerful archbishop symbolized the strength of the Greek Cypriot majority in its centuries-old conflict with the Turkish minority, and he cemented together Greek Cypriots of many political tendencies. His death immediately aroused fears of new turmoil.

"Only God can protect us now," said one of 2,000 mourners who gathered outside the archbishop's residence, many of them weeping openly. "He was our father. Now that he is dead the dangers are too big for us."

Greece went into official mourning.

In Ankara, the Turkish government maintained official silence on Archbishop Makarios' death, but many citizens reacted with relief.

"God has finally answered our prayers," a civil servant said.

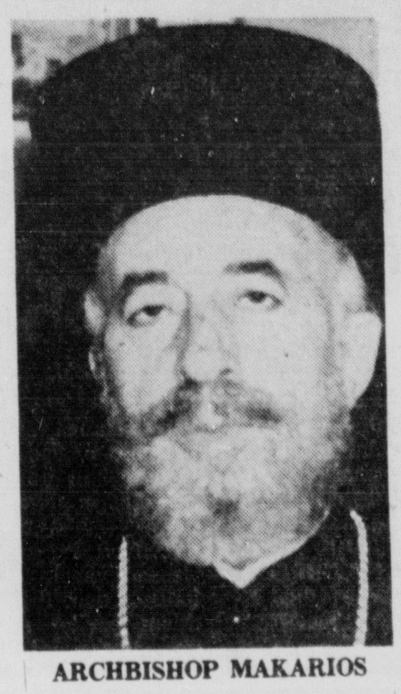

"Perhaps the Cyprus problem can be solved now," said a shopkeeper.

Makarios was regarded in Turkey as the main obstacle against a Cyprus settlement.

In Britain, which once exiled Archbishop Makarios to the Indian Ocean's Seychelles Islands while Cyprus struggled for independence, flags were ordered flown at half staff.

Lord Caradon, British governor during Cyprus' independence drive, said: "No one could now step into the shoes of the archbishop ... He did his duty in advancing independence, and he never went back on his agreement with us. He kept his word."

U.S. Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance, in Lebanon on a Middle East peace tour, said Makarios "was clearly a strong leader" when asked about the succession.

ARCHBISHOP MAKARIOS

In Nicosia, a spokesman said the Greek Cypriot national guard and police were placed on alert. The national council, grouping all important Cypriot leaders, scheduled a meeting for this morning, the Greek Cypriot radio said.

A presidential palace spokesman said Spiros Kyprianou, head of the all-Greek parliament, would serve as acting president until a successor to Makarios is elected in 45 days.

The Greek Cypriot radio announced 40 days of mourning and played funeral music.

Newly-discovered CIA documents

Experiments with the mind

WASHINGTON (AP) — CIA Director Stansfield Turner testified today that newly discovered documents disclosed the CIA sponsored 149 projects involving drugs, hypnosis, shock harassment and even magicians as it experimented with controlling the human mind.

Turner told a joint hearing of the Senate Intelligence Committee and the Health subcommittee that the project, known ultimately as MK-ULTRA, took place from 12 to 25 years ago.

"I assure you that the CIA is in no way engaged in either witting or unwitting testing of drugs today," he said.

Turner told the committee the documents, hitherto unreported to Congress, were found in seven boxes along with financial records in a records center near Washington.

The documents, in the form of fiscal records, do not include status reports or progress analyses of the various parts of the project.

But he said the agency is "now in possession of the names of 185 non-government researchers and assistants who are identified in the recovered material dealing with the 149 subprojects."

"The names of 80 institutions where work was done or with which these people affiliated are also mentioned," he continued.

"The institutions include 44 colleges or universities, 15 research foundations or chemical and pharmaceutical companies and the like, 12 hospitals or clinics ... and three penal institutions."

Adm. Turner did not name any of the individuals or institutions in his prepared testimony.

"Most of the people and institutions involved are not aware of agency sponsorship," he said. "We should certainly assume that the researchers and institutions which cooperated with CIA on a witting basis acted in good faith and in the belief that they were aiding their government in a legitimate and proper purpose. I believe we all have a moral obligation to these researchers and institutions to protect them from any unjustified embarassment or damage to their reputations which revealation of their identities might bring."

Turner said one contribution of $375,000 to a private medical institution's building fund was made through an intermediary to make it appear as a private donation.

He said the institution was not told the true source of the gift.

Turner said the CIA now has information that some unwitting drug testing was carried on in San Francisco and New York City, involving three individuals.

"We also know now that some unwitting testing took place on criminal-sexual psycopaths confined at a state hospital and that, additionally, research was done on a knockout or 'k' drug in parallel with research to develop pain killers for cancer patients."

Turner said he is working with Atty. Gen. Griffin Bell to make available whatever materials Bell may need for any investigation he may decide to begin.

He said he is working with both the attorney general and Joseph A. Califano Jr., the secretary of health, education and welfare, to determine whether it is practical to attempt to identify any of the persons to whom drugs may have been administered unwittingly.

"No such names are part of these records," he said, "but we are working to determine if there are adequate clues to lead to their identification; and if so, how to go about fulfilling the government's responsibilities in the matter."

On Tuesday, the CIA released documents showing the agency conducted a secret 25-year project in which mind-altering drugs were tested on humans to gauge the drugs' ability to disturb memory, change sex patterns and create abberational responses.

Those documents revealed a drug experimentation program far more extensive than the agency has admitted publicly and one which may have been discontinued only recently.

The documents, released under the federal Freedom of Information Act, depict various aspects of drug testing and behavior research.

Carter won't delay welfare program

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter said today that despite congressional suggestions he delay final decisions on his welfare program, he will send the plan to Congress by the end of the week.

Carter told Sen. Russell Long, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, that he would then be ready "to start the long, tough negotiating process with Congress" over the program.

Long, D-La., wanted Carter to postpone sending the program to Capitol Hill until differences over welfare revisions could be worked out with Congress.

But Carter, in a meeting with Long, Vice President Walter F. Mondale, Secretary Joseph A. Califano Jr. of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, and domestic policy adviser Stuart Eizenstat, said he would submit the program "before the end of this week."

Carter told Long before the meeting began that he felt "a lot of progress" had been made in the first six months of his administration on the welfare revision.

Carter reviewed the plan Tuesday with Rep. Al Ullman, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee. Ullman expressed disagreement with a proposal to base supplemental income payments to the working poor on both family size and earned income.

Ullman, whose committee will consider the proposal in the House, also suggested a delay in sending the plan to Congress.

Bonita board will consider budget, contract

Public hearing and adoption of the 1977-78 budget and a public hearing on a new contract proposal with the Bonita Unified Teachers Association (BUTA) will come before the Bonita school board for consideration at its regular meeting today at 7:30 p.m. in the Education Center.

The district's new budget is expected to total $13,760,750, up from last year's $12,636,203. The board is also expected to consider a 23 cent hike in the district tax rate to fund this year's program of service.

The BUTA offered its new proposal for a contract for the 1977-78 school year at the board's meeting of July 20. The board is expected to hold a public hearing on the BUTA proposal but to offer no new proposal to the teachers for 1977-78.

Fire damages home in Chino

Fire raced through a Chino home Tuesday night, causing damages estimated at $52,500.

The 9:20 p.m. blaze gutted the residence at 12842 Wright St. It took 16 firemen about seven minutes to control the fire.

Fire Capt. Forrest Alderman said the cause of the blaze is under investigation. He noted it destroyed the entire inside of the home, but thick outside walls did not burn.

Owner of the home, Jim Frey, was away on vacation. The family, in fact, had left only a few hours before the fire broke out.

Conviction overturned in killing of 11 in family

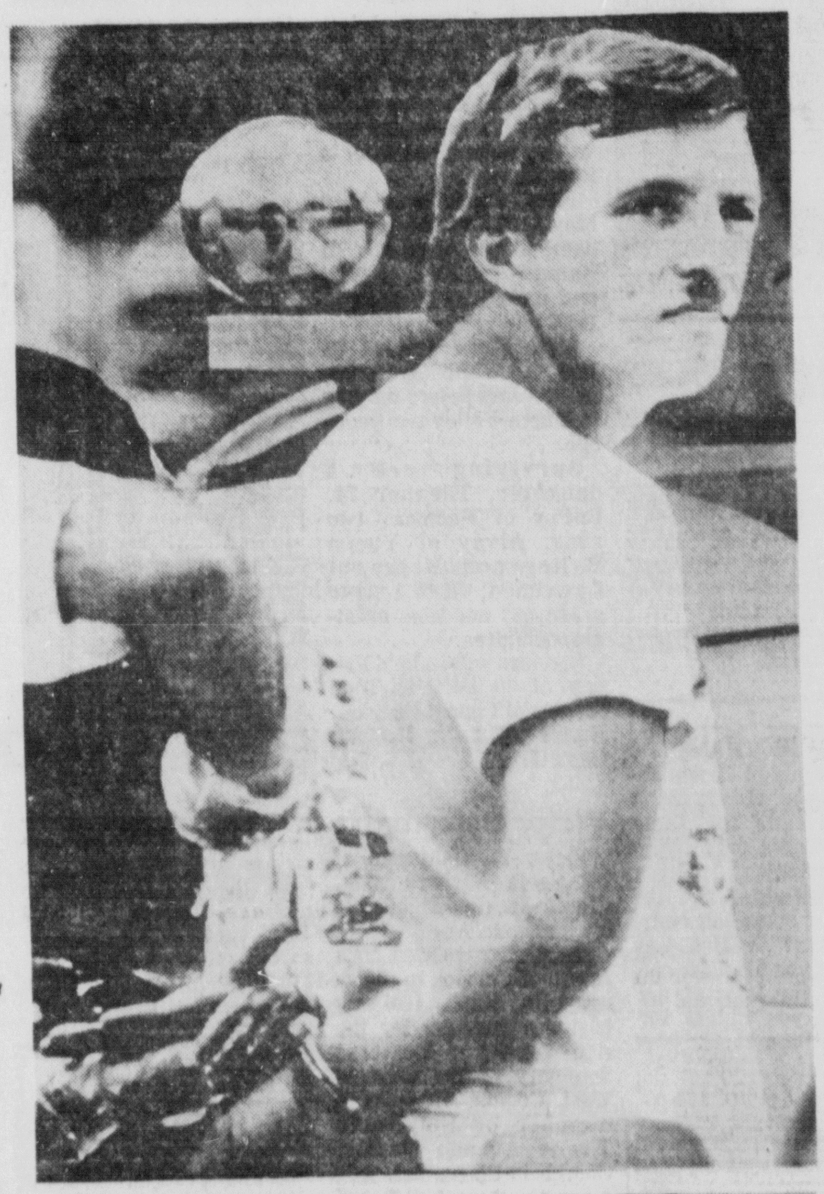

CINCINNATI (AP) — The conviction of James Ruppert, accused of killing 11 members of his family at his mother's home on Easter Sunday in 1975, was overturned today by a state appeals court.

The 1st District Ohio Court of Appeals returned the case to the Butler County Common Pleas Court for a new trial.

Ruppert was convicted of 11 counts of aggravated murder in the killings of his mother, brother, sister-in-law, and eight nieces and nephews at his mother's Hamilton home.

The appellate court said Ruppert's waiver of a jury trial was not "knowing, voluntary and intelligent" since he had been informed by counsel and the presiding judge that a three-judge panel's verdict must be unanimous.

Instead of a unanimous decision, Ruppert was convicted by a 2-1 majority by a Butler County Common Pleas Court panel of judges.

Pomona woman raped in yard

A 19-year-old Pomona woman was raped in the backyard of her home early today.

Police said the victim was forced from the master bedroom of her northeast Pomona home by an intruder shortly after 1 a.m.

After attacking the victim, the man fled the area.

He was described as white, about 19 or 20 years of age, 5 feet 9, 145 pounds, with dark, frizzy shoulder-length hair. He wore a cream colored shirt that had an embroidered "W" on the front.

Food on stove sets house afire

A $2,800 fire in a kitchen of a Pomona home Tuesday night was the result of food left on the stove while the resident went outside, according to Pomona Fire Department reports.

Mrs. James Bradford, 1317 Clovis Court, was cooking in the kitchen, but left the meal unattended while she went into the yard. The fire was reported at 7:47 p.m.

It spread from the stove up through cupboards and into the attic. Damage was listed at $2,500 to the structure and $300 to contents.

Chino city workers get pay hike, but employe assn. unhappy

By BOB SWETNAM
PB Staff Writer

Chino city employes got a pay raise offer they couldn't refuse Tuesday night, and most of them aren't going to like it.

Unswayed by arguments that city workers are underpaid and that a state mediator was needed to resolve contract disputes, the City Council unilaterally adopted wage and salary schedules for the 1977-78 fiscal year.

For approximately 100 Chino City Hall employes it will mean pay increases of from 2.5 to 8.5 per cent. But, according to a spokesman for two city employe groups, few will be happy with the settlement.

There is little they can do about it, however, as the City Council's action is the final say on salaries for this year.

Bill Stromberg, a professional negotiator for the Chino City Hall Employees Association and the Service Department Employees Association, charged that city officials had not acted in good faith during recent contract talks.

"We have found absolutely no substantive movement on the part of the city despite the submission of additional facts and statistics and a concerted effort on the part of the associations' negotiating team to modify their position to 'reasonable' terms," said Stromberg.

City employes, excluding management positions and police who negotiate their own contracts, had sought pay and fringe benefit increases of from 8.64 to 9.05 per cent.

They claimed such a raise was justified because Chino pays employes significantly less than the average market level.

"The associations recognize that the city would have to provide total compensation increases surpassing 14 per cent in order to compensate for this discrepancy," Stromberg argued.

City Council members, however, unanimously rejected such claims and returned after an executive meeting to announce the terms of employe contracts.

Custodians, water meter readers, and engineering technologists will get a 2.5 per cent salary increase. Storekeepers, water systems operators, field supervisors and mechanics will receive a 6 per cent pay raise.

Most other employes will receive salary increases of 8.5 per cent.

In addition, the city agreed to assume a 100 per cent of employes' costs for health and dental care, but declined to contribute to health plans for spouses and dependant children.

Some adjustments in sick leave, holiday pay, overtime compensation and other items was also announced by the City Council.

Contacted today, Stromberg said he expected employes to be unhappy with the city officials' decision.

"We will be holding a meeting later this week or early next week to determine what type of action, if any, to take," he said.

"We wanted to take a peaceful approach and not antagonize the council at this early stage of the game, but now that they've gone ahead and adopted a salary resolution its hard to say what association members will want to do."

The Chino City Council is currently involved with a contract dispute with police officers also. The Chino Police Officers Association recently declared an impasse in labor negotiations with city officials.

R.H. worker electrocuted

A Rowland Heights man died Tuesday afternoon in an electrical accident in Santa Fe Springs.

Los Angeles County Sheriff's deputies said Peter K. Lewis, 27, was electrocuted while installing an electrical panel at a new home.

Deputies said Lewis touched two wires together, apparently unaware that power to the home had been turned on.

Paramedics attempted to revive Lewis, but he was pronounced dead on arrival at Whittier Presbyterian Hospital.

Lewis resided at 2041 S. Blandford in Rowland Heights. He was employed by the Southern California Edison Co.

Man robbed in restaurant lot

Upland police this morning were searching for a gunman who robbed a man in the parking lot of Uncle Ned's restaurant-bar at 365 N. Central Ave., Upland, late Tuesday night.

Police said the robber, armed with a handgun, accosted the victim and demanded he hand over his wallet. The robber took the wallet, containing a small amount of cash and credit cards, and fled on foot.

The robber was described as white, 32 years of age, 6 feet 2, 170 pounds, of medium build.

He had sandy hair and was wearing a brown checked shirt and dark pants.

Hospital deaths linked to mixup

NORRISTOWN, Pa. (AP) — Authorities may not know until Friday how many patients died as a result of mislabeled oxygen and nitrous oxide lines in the emergency room at nearby Suburban General Hospital.

Allegheny County Coroner Cyril Wecht, a pathologist hired by the hospital to study emergency room deaths, said Tuesday night that his preliminary findings indicate some deaths apparently were linked to the mixup, but he declined to give a number.

"It is not a great number, but I would not want to express a number," he said. "Quite candidly, I have not in my own mind arrived at such a final judgment."

Wecht said he hoped to deliver a final report by Friday.

"In some instances, there are further records to study such as autopsies. I have looked through the 35 death cases. There are some that I have to spend more time on," Wecht said.

By examining individual records of a patient's treatment and response, Wecht said he hoped to determine whether "the administration of nitrous oxide or deprivation of oxygen was related to that patient's death."

Richard Anderson, the hospital's administrator, said a plumbing contractor had mislabeled pipes while extending existing gas lines into the hospital's emergency room, which opened Dec. 15.

As a result, 11 outlets labeled oxygen actually were carrying nitrous oxide, or "laughing gas," and four lines labeled nitrous oxide were carrying oxygen, hospital officials said.

The error went undetected for almost seven months, until the hospital's chief anesthesiologist, Dr. Leonard Becker, tried to revive a man with oxygen on July 6 and noticed him turning blue, Anderson said.

Hospital officials said 300 of the 9,000 persons processed in the emergency room may have been treated with the wrong gas.

A total of 35 persons died in the emergency room during the seven-month period, but hospital officials noted that not all were treated with gas and some were dead on arrival.

William Walkup, president of the hospital's board, said Tuesday that "a preliminary review by the professional staff at the hospital indicates there will be a maximum of five cases — five deaths" linked to the mixup.

Nitrous oxide, commonly called laughing gas because it makes its subjects giddy, is used as an anesthetic and relaxant but is not a particularly toxic substance, said Wecht.

What concerns probers, said Wecht, is that patients in dire need of oxygen may instead have received nitrous oxide.

William Myrtetus, director of the state's insurance program for medical facilities, said he expected lawsuits stemming from the mixup to be filed against the hospital.

In a strikingly similar case, a state court in Houston awarded $2 million on June 3 to the family of a woman who died in a newly constructed hospital delivery room after she was administered nitrous oxide instead of oxygen.

Alfred Lunt dead of cancer

CHICAGO (AP) — Alfred Lunt, for decades one of the great stars of the American stage, died early today at 84.

He had undergone surgery for cancer of the bladder at Northwestern Memorial Hospital on July 21.

Actress Lynne Fontanne, Lunt's wife and stage partner of more than 50 years, was not at his bedside when he died at 4:05 a.m. Now 90, she had visited him after he entered the hospital July 20, but had remained most of the time at the couple's longtime home at Genesee Depot west of Milwaukee, Wis.

Lunt, born on Aug. 19, 1892, made his Broadway debut as a bit player in the October 1917 production of "Romance and Arabella." A critic for the New York Evening World said Lunt had done "capital work."

It had taken him almost four years to reach Broadway from his first job at the Castle Square Theater in Boston. He had been studying elocution in Boston when he was struck by a job-hunting whimsy.

Two years after his Broadway debut, Lunt landed the title role in the Booth Tarkington play "Clarence." Tarkington had met Lunt before the play was written and had created the part for the young actor, who continued in the role for a two-year Broadway run.

In the summers, Lunt went to the stock theater circuit, which is where he met Miss Fontanne. They appeared together several times.

Miss Fontanne already had established a reputation as an actress of great ability on the London and Broadway stages. The British actress had been appearing in the hit "Dulcy" at the same time Lunt was running in his first major role.

LUNT AND FONTANNE

On May 22, 1922, the two married. They built successful careers separately and together and won the admiration of the theater world both for their artistic abilities and the sophisticated manner in which they lived.

They launched the Lunt-Fontanne legend by appearing together in 1923 in a revival of "Sweet Nell of Old Drury." Later, they appeared together in such memorable performances as "The Guardsman," "The Brothers Karamazov," "Pygmalion" and "The Taming of the Shrew."

The Lunt-Fontanne team made token appearance on the screen and television. Their sole film was "The Guardsman." Lunt said he found films boring. "We can be bought, but we can't be bored," he remarked.

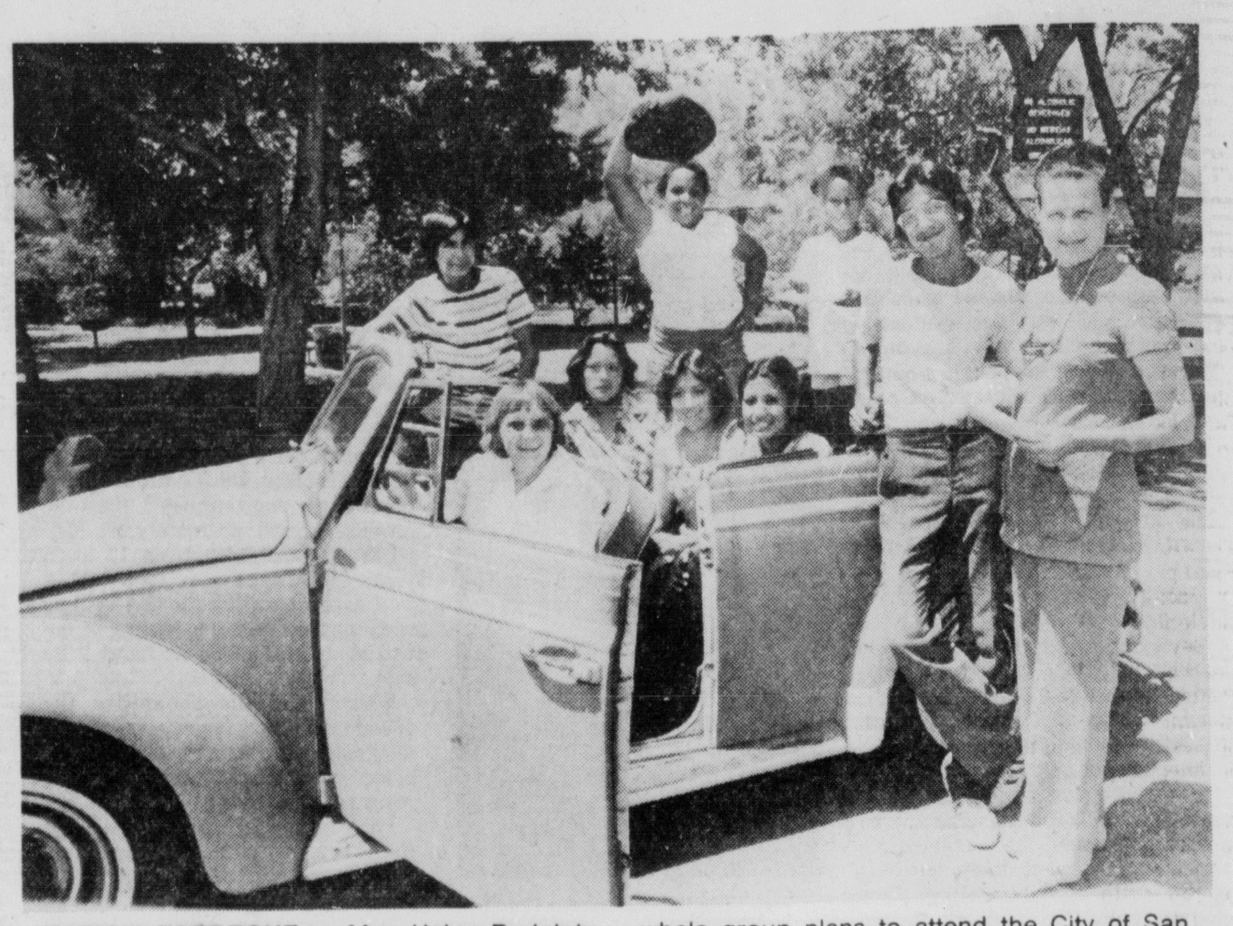

Once, when asked about their teamwork, Miss Fontanne said: "We have been together so long, I can't imagine going on without him."

Although troubled by eye problems, Lunt kept busy with gardening and other activities around the home, including the gourmet cooking at which he excelled.

"Poor Alfred," Miss Fontanne said in a 1972 interview on the occasion of their 50th wedding anniversary. "These days he's working harder than any of us."

"I've had eye problems for years and now I can hardly see at all," Lunt said then, complaining that he'd curdled a Sauce Bernaise for the first time in his life. "It's pretty hard to cook by ear."

In 1970 the Lunts received special Tony awards in recognition of their many stage triumphs. One of their rare public appearances since then was in 1975, when they attended a ceremony at which they presented 20 acres of their wooded land to the Town of Genesee for a park.

FAMILY BARBECUE — Mrs. Helen Rudolph, far right, gathers seven members of her adopted family in a Volkswagen driven by Bonnie Del Pozo. The children are James, Ann, Teresa, Regina, Maria, Brigid and Joseph. The whole group plans to attend the City of San Dimas' family barbecue Thursday at San Dimas Canyon Park. The event will be held in celebration of the city's 17th birthday.

Instruction in how to operate and maintain audiovisual equipment will be given in two eight-hour sessions at CITRUS COLLEGE on two successive Saturdays, Aug. 13 and 20, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Instructor is James Pierce, college audiovisual technician. Those who take the course will learn to operate various types of audiovisual equipment, clean equipment, replace lamps and needles properly and recognize improper operation of equipment. One unit of college credit is offered.

Fee for the course is $2, plus a $3 parking fee if applicable. Persons may enroll now at the admissions office, located in the Administration Building. Students may also register on Aug. 13.

For additional information, persons may call 599-8339.

The largest single bequest to the SCHOOL OF THEOLOGY AT CLAREMONT has been completed. Final payments make the gifts of Mr. and Mrs. H. Dixon Oberdorfer the most total giving ever received from a single family — $868,548.

They were members of the Claremont United Methodist Church and resided at Mt. San Antonio Gardens in Pomona before their deaths in 1973 and 1975. They made lifetime gifts to the school totaling $102,510. Their bequests amounted to $766,038, and have doubled the endowment of the institution.

Mr. Oberdorfer founded the New Castle Products Co., New Castle, Ind., manufacturers of acoustical and modern fold doors.

Their gifts have endowed the H. Dixon and Julia S. Oberdorfer Memorial Scholarship Fund, which will make possible financial aid annually to deserving students planning on careers in the Christian ministry.

A recent article by Margaret C. Gibbs, CITRUS COLLEGE board of trustees member and a resident of Claremont, has been published in the May 1977 issue of "Community," a journal of the California Community and Junior College Association.

Entitled "What's a Trustee For?" the article discusses how community college trustees and district superintendents/presidents in the state of California view their roles.

Dr. Gibbs based many of her observations on a survey mailed to every community college trustee in California. She also attended more than 30 board of trustee meetings in the state before writing her article.

David L. Walkington and Michael H. Clapp were appointed acting dean and acting associate dean, respectively, of the School of Mathematics, Science and Engineering at CAL STATE FULLERTON.

Walkington, associate dean of the school, and Clapp, chair of the mathematics department, received one-year appointments, according to President L. Donald Shields.

Assuming the position as acting chair of mathematics for a one-year period is Harris S. Schultz, department vice chair.

David Alexander, president of POMONA COLLEGE, has been named president of the 42-member board of the Independent Colleges of Southern California (ICSC).

ICSC conducts an annual campaign for unrestricted operating funds for 15 independent colleges and universities. In the campaign completed June 30, ICSC distributed $1,373,000 provided by corporations, foundations and individual donors to its members. Pomona College received $104,176.

Newly elected chairman of ICSC is Robert F. Erburu, president of the Times Mirror Co.

CITRUS COLLEGE will offer a full-time training program in air conditioning and heating in the fall semester which begins Sept. 12.

The class will meet Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. A second, advanced class will be offered in the spring semester.

Students successfully completing the classes should be qualified to enter the field of heating and air conditioning.

Persons wanting to enroll in the course should contact the college admissions office now for an application to enroll and a registration appointment. Registration for all fall semester classes begins Aug. 15.

The program is a new addition to the public services department and is not listed in the published fall schedule of classes. Students should ask for "Heating and Air Conditioning Technology 150," ticket number 4300, when registering or requesting information about the course.

Simons presents summer concert

Music of Bernstein, Gershwin and Glenn Miller will be featured at the annual summer concert to be presented Thursday at 7:30 p.m. by summer session bands at Simons Junior High School in Pomona.

The concert, to be presented by more than 100 students in beginners, intermediate and symphonic bands, will be staged in the school gym.

Selections to be played by the beginners band will include the "Marines Hymn," "Soldier Boy," "Merry-Go-Round" and "Krazy Rock."

The intermediate band will play songs by Paul Williams, a Spanish dance and a spiritual, "He's Got the Whole World in His Hands."

Featured in the symphonic band offering will be a "Concerto for Drum Set" with Joe Williams as soloist and a clarinet solo entitled "Ballade and Beguine" with Bob Stebbing as soloist.

Other numbers will include an arrangement of Glenn Miller favorites featuring the sax section, "An American in Paris," a collection of Broadway numbers and "Feelings" sung by Robin McClure.

Admission will be 50 cents. Refreshments will be provided.

Petition signed by 3 property owners

Claremont annexation requested

Three property owners in the Amador Avenue-Foothill Boulevard "county island" have signed a petition asking for annexation to Claremont.

Proposed Annexation 56 has been sent to the Local Agency Formation Commission for processing.

One hundred per cent cooperation among the three owners was obtained by realtor Arthur Steffen who informed the Claremont City Council recently that his client is "between a rock and a hard place."

Steffen explained that the only way his client could tie in with the city's sewer line is through annexation, and that in order to get county permission to build the client must either install a private sanitation system or accept a sewer connection.

"This puts us in a state of animated suspension," Steffen said.

He said that Domenico Andriani who wants to develop his property on Amador Street has no objection to annexation, and that he had been negotiating with owners George Caswell and James Lasagna to annex.

Steffen was able to convince the owners to sign the request for annexation.

The former Lasagna liquor store was owned by someone else in the late 1950s and early 1960s when the city successfully annexed three areas to the west, north and east of the property now part of Annexation 56.

The city of Claremont was dry at that time, and residents did not want a liquor store in the city, so the area was not annexed.

Claremont stayed dry until Griswold's received its liquor license in 1968.

The proposed annexation would bring into the city the liquor store building, Tugboat Annie's, and Colonel Sanders Kentucky Fried Chicken along the Foothill frontage.

SALLY JANDRALL

Pomona High graduate captures essay contest

Sally Jandrall, a 1977 graduate of Pomona High School, has won first place in California in the annual American Legion Auxiliary Americanism Essay Contest for high school students.

The first place award is a $1,000 college scholarship, which Miss Jandrall will apply toward her education at Revelle College, UC San Diego.

A student in Mrs. Ada Jeppeson's 12th grade honors English class, she was sponsored by Pomona's Charles P. Rowe Post 30 American Legion Auxiliary. This is the first time that a high school essay contestant sponsored by the Pomona unit has won state honors.

The subject of this year's contest was "Freedom Demands Responsibility." Miss Jandrall's winning essay, which emphasizes dual responsibility to respect the freedoms of all Americans as expressed in the Bill of Rights, and to ensure that our Government continues to observe and protect these freedoms, will be placed on display at Valley Forge, Pennsylvania.

Political arena

SEN. ALAN CRANSTON, D-California, has asked the U.S. Justice Department to appoint Herman Sillas as U.S. Attorney for the Sacramento District.

Currently Sillas is director of the California Department of Motor Vehicles.

Cranston selected Sillas, 43, from a list of finalists submitted by the California Judicial Screening Commission set up by Cranston early this year with Sen. S. I. Hayakawa and the California Bar Association.

Sillas is chairman of the California Advisory Committee to the Civil Rights Commission, a founder and former vice president of the Mexican-American Legal Defense Fund and a member of the Spanish-Surname Advisory Committee to the U. S. Census Bureau.

A Pregnancy Freedom of Choice Act, A. B. 1069, sponsored by ASSEMBLYMAN TERRY GOGGIN, D-66th Dist., San Bernardino, has cleared three of its seven hurdles and now is scheduled for consideration by the Senate Health and Welfare Committee early this month.

Some of the strongest opposition to the bill, which would insure that pregnant adolescents receive complete care in maternity homes if they choose to carry their babies to term, will be made during Senate Health Committee hearings.

The bill has the support of St. Anne's Maternity Home, Los Angeles. "A recent Supreme Court decision, indicating that there is no requirement for state or federal financing of abortions, may well cause many more teenagers to carry their babies to term, again requiring the full spectrum of maternity home care to insure that their deliveries are healthy and safe with babies who do not have mental or physical defects, which would place them on the welfare rolls for the next 60 to 70 years," wrote Tom Owenson, administrator of the home.

REP. DEL CLAWSON, R-33rd Dist., Downey, and REP. CHARLES WIGGINS, R-39th Dist., Fullerton, have announced they will not seek re-election in 1978.

Clawson's district takes in Diamond Bar, Walnut, Whittier, La Mirada, Norwalk, Santa Fe Springs and Downey. He is a former Compton mayor. He has been in the House of Representatives since 1963 when he won a special election to succeed Democrat Clyde Doyle. He has continued to win comfortable victories in each election since.

He has served on the House Rules Committee and the House Committee on Budget.

Wiggins, now serving his fifth term in Congress, is a former El Monte mayor. He has served on the House Judiciary Committee and was one of Richard Nixon's strongest supporters during impeachment hearings until the "smoking gun" tape recording was made public. He then withdrew his support and asked Nixon to resign.

REP. BARRY M. GOLDWATER JR., R-20th Dist., Woodland Hills, said the House Republican Task Force on Privacy is being reconstituted. One man on the 10-member committee is REP. JOHN ROUSSELOT, R-26th Dist., San Marino.

Goldwater said the group will identify relevant privacy problems and make general legislative recommendations.

"Americans are deeply concerned about the continuing erosion of their personal privacy by both government and non-government activities," he said.

Goldwater said "a recent Harris Poll indicates that 75 per cent of those polled believe their personal privacy is in jeopardy."

Many of the recommendations of a previous Republican Task Force on Privacy, chaired by Goldwater, were included in the Privacy Act of 1974.

ASSEMBLYMAN DAVE STIRLING, R-64th Dist., Hacienda Heights, said it is clearly apparent the citizens of California are adamant in their desire to see the death penalty restored.

"My offices, in the district and in Sacramento, have been deluged with mail and phone calls urging my vote to override Governor Brown's veto.

"This single issue has by far evoked the largest input of letters and cards to my offices during this session of the legislature."

A recent survey by Mervin Field indicates that 71 per cent of the people of California support reinstatement of the death penalty.

"I hear what the people of California are saying," said Stirling.

"I will vote to override the veto when it comes before the Assembly.

"However, if there are not enough votes in the legislature to accomplish the override, I will not be greatly disappointed because I believe a stronger death penalty statute can be enacted through the initiative process.

"Since Governor Brown has not been responsive to the overwhelming will of the people, and it becomes necessary to go to the ballot to satisfy the wishes of the people of this state, I will be working to that end."

SEN. S. I. HAYAKAWA, R-Calif., said the U. S. Department of Commerce will hold a public hearing in San Diego Aug. 22 on proposed tuna fishing regulation changes.

The National Marine Fisheries Service is proposing that porpoise kill quotas of 51,930 for 1978; 41,600 for 1979; and 31,140 for 1980 be set.

The intent is to achieve a 50 per cent reduction in the number of porpoises killed by 1980.

Singles trip

Valley Community Christian Singles are planning a trip to the Spaghetti Factory in Newport Beach Aug. 6, and welcome all single, formerly married or widowed persons between the ages of 25-45.

For reservations and carpooling information, call 599-3486 or (213) 335-3943.

Walnut dogs licensed

The City of Walnut on July 1 transferred its animal control services to the Pomona Valley Humane Society. To handle the changeover from the county to Walnut city licenses, a number of interim procedures have been established.

Residents now holding valid county dog licenses may transfer to a Walnut City license good through June 1978 on a prorated basis. The Pomona Valley Humane Society requires dog license renewal each year before the last day of June. For example, if your county license expires in September, 1977, then you will pay for ¾ of one year, or from September, 1977, to June, 1978.

California state law requires that when a dog becomes four months of age, it must receive a rabies inoculation and a license. The dog is not illegal and will not receive a citation or a late fee until it becomes five months of age.

Dog licenses may be purchased at Walnut City Hall, 20550 E. Carrey Road, from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday. There will be no late charges enforced until June, 1978, at which time dog owners will have the month of July, 1978 to purchase a license without a late fee.

Wins service award

Dennis R. Smeal, 19, son of Mrs. Raymond Smeal, Ontario, has been selected as the jurisdictional distinguished service award winner for the first term of 1977 by De Molay International.

Smeal is a past master councilor of Old Baldy chapter, has received the order's meritorious service award and is presently serving as president of Citrus De Molay league.

A 1976 graduate of Chaffey High School, Ontario, Smeal was a member of the yearbook staff, the national forensics league and the youth and government club. He served on the Bicentennial, tax-override and police-community committees.

He will return to Claremont Men's College in the fall as a sophomore. He is active in the Claremont economics association, college Republicans and ski club.

Trip to Laserium

A "Teens Only" excursion will be conducted to Laserium, a cosmic light show coordinated with classical and rock music, by the San Dimas Recreation Department.

The trip is scheduled for Aug. 16. The bus will leave San Dimas City Hall at 7 p.m. and will return at 11:30 p.m. The fee is $5, which includes transportation and admission.

Information sheets and permission slips are available at San Dimas City Hall, 245 E. Bonita Ave. and at the playgrounds. For further information, persons may call 599-6713, ext. 40.

Skating party

A trip to Roller City in Glendora for an afternoon of roller skating will be conducted by the San Dimas Recreation Department Aug. 18. The bus will leave San Dimas City Hall at 1 p.m. and return at 5 p.m.

Boys and girls, ages 8 to 15 years, are eligible to participate. A $3 fee will cover transportation, admission and supervision. Participants may bring their own skates or rent them there.

Information sheets and permission slips are available at San Dimas City Hall, 245 E. Bonita Ave. and at the playgrounds. For more information, persons may call 599-6713, ext. 40.

Pinewood Derby

A Pinewood Derby, sponsored by the San Dimas Recreation Department, will be held on Aug. 17 at the Civic Center, with post time for the first race at 1 p.m.

Pinewood racer kits are on sale at recreation sites from the recreation leaders. The cost of the kit is 25 cents. The "track" is an eight-foot incline board. Boys and girls, ages 6 to 15 years, are eligible. Prizes and awards will be given to the fastest, the best customized and the most original cars.

Poster contest

The San Dimas Recreation Department will sponsor a "travel poster" art contest on Aug. 10.

The contest will begin at 10 a.m. at Merchant Park, San Dimas Canyon Park, Shull School, Gladstone School, Lone Hill School, Loma Vista Park, Via Verde I, Ladera Serra, and Pioneer Park. All supplies will be provided.

Boys and girls, ages 6 to 15 years, are eligible to participate. Judging will be divided into three age categories. Ribbons and prizes will be awarded.

For more information, persons may call 599-6713, ext. 40.

Supervisor raps tax

Concern over sharply increased property tax dollars required to support state-mandated Medi-Cal and adult welfare programs has been expressed in a letter to area legislators from county Board of Supervisors Chairman Robert O. Townsend.

"The board is disturbed that, in effect, the county must levy this tax to support what is, in reality, a state property tax," Townsend said in his letter.

Townsend pointed out that while property tax costs for these programs will increase 18.4 per cent in the new fiscal year, the property tax increase for all county-administered programs will be only 3.5 per cent.

"Counties have been placed in the position of increasing their tax levy because of existing law which ties our cost increase to assessed valuation growth regardless of the needs of these programs," he wrote.

Claremont sports park discussion delayed

The Claremont City Council has decided to wait until a meeting with the Parks and Recreation Commission to discuss that group's recommendation that the city's 6.8-acre Grand Avenue site be developed as an active sports park.

Council members said they wish to meet with the commission to talk about the site which the commission feels should have three soccer fields, a baseball diamond, two softball diamonds, four tennis courts, a tot lot, off-street parking, and restroom and snack bar facilities.

The commission also recommended that a gymnasium be given the same high priority rating as the multi-purpose sports park as indicated by City Manager Norman King in an assessment of park facility priorities.

King had suggested that the park would cost from $150,000 to $200,000 to develop, and that a gymnasium would cost $1 million if built by the city, but less if a joint project by the school district or the YMCA.

In other actions, the council:

—Went along with a Traffic Safety Commission agreement that no additional traffic controls be installed at Indian Hill and Foothill boulevards, and that continuation of the Foothill Freeway be encouraged to alleviate the problem at the busy intersection.

—Approved a final map for a tract of 104 homes on 40 acres east of Bonnie Brae Avenue and south of Miramar Avenue.

—Approved a final map for a tract of 54 homes on 21 acres.

—Awarded a $139,294.18 contract to All-American Asphalt of Orange for the resurfacing of Bonita Avenue, San Jose Avenue, and various other streets.

—Accepted a letter of resignation from Bim Jollymour on the traffic safety commission.

Table tennis club, shuffleboard offered

The Montclair Recreation Department and Chaffey College Community Services are offering a table tennis club and shuffleboard for senior citizens this summer.

Any adults interested in receiving free table tennis lessons can attend meetings in the multipurpose room at Monte Vista School on Tuesdays and Thursdays. The meetings are held from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m.

Those wishing additional information on the club may call Darryl Salisbury, 626-0124 after 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday.

All senior citizens are welcome to play shuffleboard at the shuffleboard building in the Civic Center on Tuesdays and Wednesdays. The activity is held from 10 a.m. to noon.

Oliver Strong is the instructor.

Person-to-person

GENE R. HUBLER, Alta Loma, has been elected a state director of the United States Association of Firearm Instructors and Coaches.

Hubler will be responsible for coordinating USAFIC activities in California and assist with instructor training programs.

Presbyterian Church may make decision soon

Homosexual ordination issue studied

By PHYLLIS CANNON
Asst. City Editor

The ordination of homosexuals is a major issue in the United Presbyterian Church of the United States of America.

A decision may be made at a meeting of the general assembly next spring in San Diego.

Moderator (president) John T. Conner of the general assembly, speaking Tuesday afternoon at a National Presbyterian Mariners Cruise (conference) in Claremont, said a blue-ribbon task force was completing a two-year study of the homosexual issue.

"I would like to see as many churches as possible participate in this study," said Mr. Conner, youth minister at Oregan State University at Corvallis.

If church members are divided on the question, "it could make the Angela Davis controversy look like a Sunday School picnic," he said.

During the 1960s, congregations splintered from the main body of the church when the general assembly agreed to provide financial assistance to Miss Davis' legal fund.

"It would be grossly negligent of Presbyterians to let this come upon us," said Mr. Conner who stopped short of stating whether he favored ordaining homosexuals into the denomination's ministry.

This denomination, the ninth largest in the nation with 2.7 million members, began ordaining women into its priesthood several years ago.

Mr. Conner, elected to the top leadership position of the church last June during a general assembly meeting in Philadelphia, Pa., told the Mariners Tuesday that he was determined to "plough new ground" by appointing to leadership commissions and equal number of males and females, an equal number of laypersons and clergymen, and an equal number of ethnic minority representatives and handicapped individuals.

Speaking informally before an afternoon panel discussion, Mr. Conner said he wanted to "strengthen the Presbyterian family" financially, with an emphasis on missionary and evangelic efforts.

"Also, I want to strengthen the hunger program. We have barely begun there," he said. The goal of the hunger program is to alleviate world hunger.

There is a charismatic movement in some groups within the church, Mr. Conner said. It was reported to the general assembly in 1970. It consists of the speaking in tongues and the interpretation of tongues, and some healing services.

"This called for an openness . . . .God speaking in a variety of ways," explained Mr. Conner. "It is to avoid a statement that God is limited in the ways He speaks."

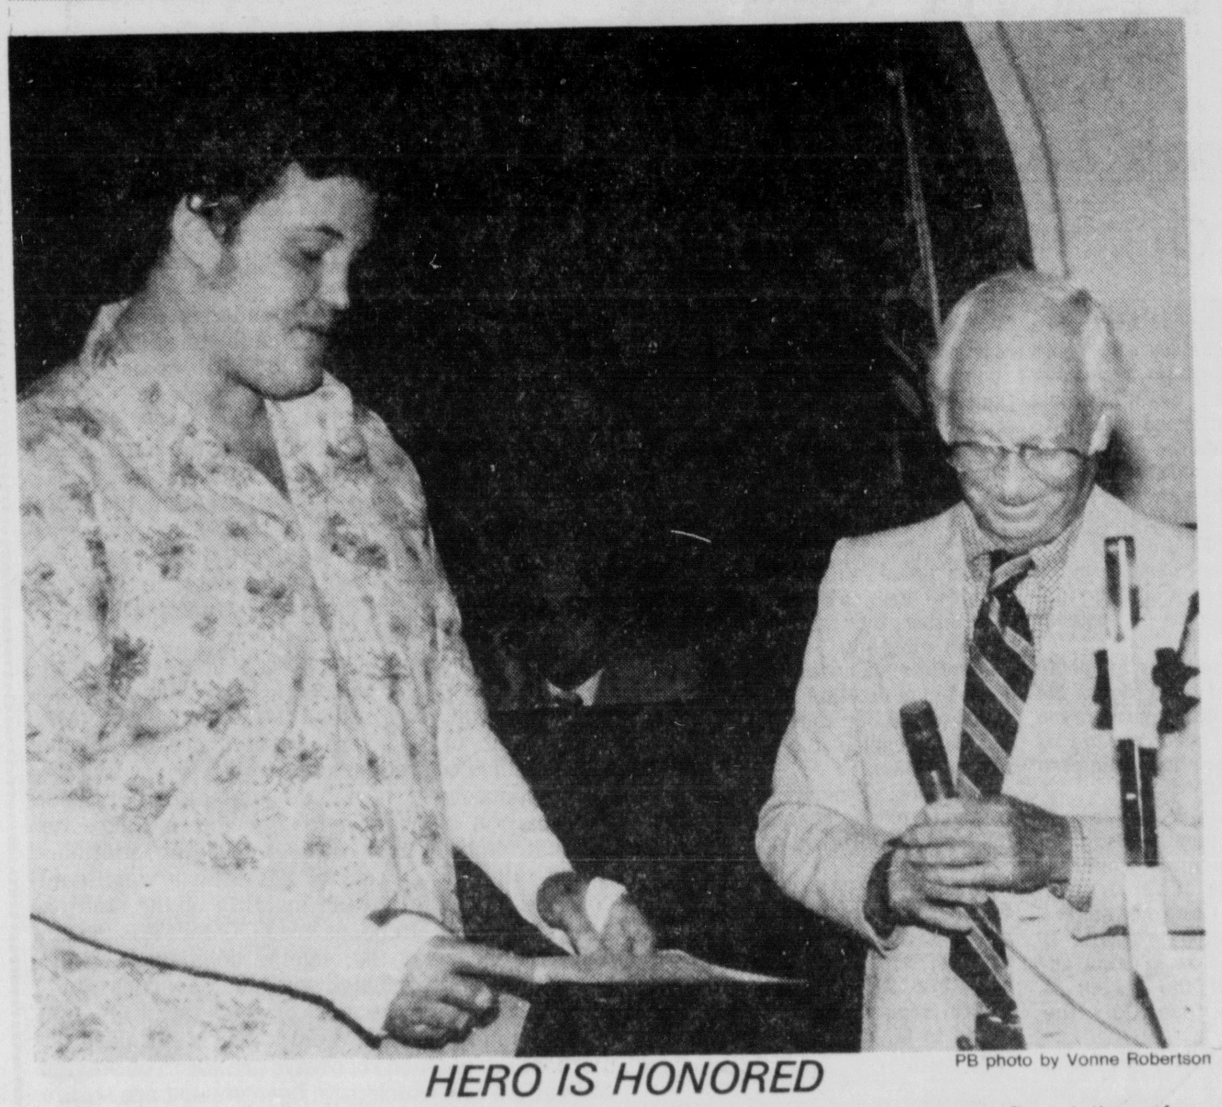

The church, he continued, has like other churches become too much a church of old people. "With the declining birth rate we have experienced a decline in baptisms. Like the entire society, we rapidly are becoming a church of people over 25."

Is the church doing anything to appeal to young people, to draw them in?

"You better believe it," said Mr. Conner.

He spoke Tuesday night at a cruise session on the subject, "All in the Family."

Louis H. Evans, founder of the Mariner organization, was to address the group today. The cruise ends on Friday.

HERO IS HONORED

His arms still bandaged, Richard Rothschild, 20, listens to the praise of Upland Mayor George Gibson at City Council meeting. Rothschild received a resolution from the city in recognition of his attempt to save five victims of a plane crash in the city on June 7. The young man was burned seriously when the plane's fuel tank exploded.

Rothschild honored by Upland council

Richard Rothschild, 20, badly burned June 7 when he attempted to rescue five victims from a crashed plane in Upland, was able to personally accept a resolution from the Upland City Council this week.

Rothschild was still a patient in the burn center of San Bernardino County Medical Center being treated for burns over 40 per cent of his body when the council passed the resolution honoring him several weeks ago.

"Richard is a true example of concern for others, even though his attempt to save the victims failed," said Mayor George Gibson, in presenting the resolution.

"He ran to the victims' aid without regard for his own safety," Gibson added.

The council also voted $100 toward Rothschild's medical expenses.

"I'm feeling really good," said Rothschild, "but it may be a couple of months before I can return to work."

Rothschild was returning home from work at Frito-Lay Co. early on the morning of June 7 when he saw the private plane crash into the apartment complex on Springfield Street where he resides.

"I think I'm the only person who really saw the whole thing," recounts Rothschild. "The plane split in two as it hit the ground.

"There was no sound from the five passengers, and I could not see anyone inside. I assume that they were all jammed down onto the floor.

"I ran to the plane to see what I could do, but the fuel tank exploded just as I got near it," recalled Rothschild.

All five passengers in the plane were killed and several residents of the apartment complex, in addition to the young man, were injured.

"I had barely worked at Frito-Lay long enough to qualify for medical insurance, which was fortunate for me, but I have no idea what my bills have been to date."

Rothschild is now out of the hospital, but still bandaged and faces an extended treatment, including the possibility of some plastic surgery.

Standing 6 feet 4, the husky young man is cheerful and pleasant.

He is staying with his father and stepmother in San Marino for a while but plans to return to the Upland apartment shortly.

The Upland City Council also presented a resolution to Steven M. Scott, whose athletic ability as a track star has led him to many honors. Scott is now competing in Europe, so his award was accepted by his parents, Dr. and Mrs. Gordon Scott.

The resolution recognizes the city's pride in the accomplishments of the former Upland High School athlete who also won many meets while attending UC Irvine.

Fireman injured when garage door collapses

A Foothill Fire District fireman suffered neck injuries Tuesday night fighting a fire in a garage-storage room at 9900 Placer Court, Cucamonga.

Fireman Ronald Smith, 25, was injured when a garage door charred by fire fell on top of him. He was given treatment and later released from San Antonio Community Hospital in Upland. He is resting at home today.

Fire inspectors said the fire apparently started in some dry brush behind the garage which was used by tenants of the Turner Terrace Apartments.

Witnesses told firemen that just prior to the outbreak of the fire several juveniles were seen running from the rear of the structure.

The fire severely damaged two garages containing lawn mowers and maintenance equipment. Loss estimate was set at $7,500 and included $2,500 to the structure and another $5,000 to contents.

In the cleanup operation, firemen found an object resembling a pipe bomb which today was being examined by the county fire department's bomb squad.

Pomona board slates busy schedule tonight

Public hearing and adoption of the 1977-78 budget, the possible appointment of a superintendent for business affairs and the appointment of new assistant principals will highlight the meeting of the Pomona school board today at 7:30 p.m. in the board room of the Education Center.

The board will also consider the hiring of an additional maintenance mechanic and a maintenance expediter to assist with the district's growing maintenance needs.

Also to be considered will be the rejection of bids for modifications and remodeling of the Park High School site at 1540 W. Second St. in Pomona in the former Gas Co. offices.

The bids came in significantly higher than the $350,000 budgeted for the remodeling. The project has been under discussion now for well over a year.

The board will also consider the hiring of a new district architect following recent criticism of the district's present architect by several trustees.

Entering a period of rapid growth in the district, the architect will be kept busy with work on elementary schools on the Phillips Ranch, modifications to Hamilton and Westmont elementary schools, a new warehouse and shop area at the Education Center and conversion of the old gymnasium at the Education Center to a new storate and office facility.

Oral reports on the proposed Phillips Ranch elementary school site and the district's data processing needs will also be presented.

Kiwanians to hear about solar energy

Arthur J. Blake, supervisor of solar marketing for Southern California Edison Co., will explain all presently known applications of solar energy to members of the Claremont Kiwanis Club Thursday noon at Griswold's.

David E. Martin, Edison's area manager for Claremont, La Verne and San Dimas, will accompany Blake and will make clear that Edison presently is not selling solar energy as Blake's title might suggest.

With Edison as a consultant and engineer since 1958, Blake's present role is to expedite use of solar energy with Edison customers where mutual benefit is indicated.

Shows 'deficit financed' at $1.2 million

Audit of Chino school budget taken

By JON MORRIS
PB Staff Writer

A special audit of the Chino school district's budget for 1976-77 shows the district "deficit financed" to the tune of $1.2 million.

School trustees received the gloomy report Tuesday night while approving a $19.4 million final budget for 1977-78 that calls for a 38-cent increase in the tax rate.

The audit was not a complete surprise, as Supt. Duane Stiff estimated two weeks ago the district had spent at least $800,000 more than it received in revenues for 1976-77. Trustees at that time allocated $1,000 for a special audit by Downey accountant Warren H. Baker.

Baker's report showed the district "deficit financed" by $1,278,811.

For that reason, reserves in the 1977-78 budget of $387,890 are depleted and "dangerously low," said Stiff.

And because of low reserves, Stiff has argued the board has no choice but to boost the general purpose tax rate by a whopping 38 cents (from $4 to $4.38 per $100 of assessed valuation.)

Stiff acknowledged some deficit spending noted in the audit report represented money taken from undistributed reserves. He said 95 per cent of the "underbudgeting" was in employes' salaries.

About $465,390 — the cost of retroactive teacher salary raises given recently — was not budgeted under general expenditures but provided for in reserves. Another $813,000 was just not budgeted for empioye salaries.

The audit showed "underbudgeting" occurred due to a greater number of new teachers being hired than earlier estimated. Also, average salaries paid the teachers was greater than estimated. And wages for team leaders, some administrators and librarians were "inadequately budgeted."

The district's ending balance for 1976-77 was only $82,000 — compared to the $420,000 estimated by administrators.

Stiff said the district "came within $82,000 of going into receivership." (That occurs when the state takes over the district's finances.) "That's coming awfully close to sheer disaster."

The superintendent blamed "poor management practices" for what he called "deficit spending."

He added it forces the board to take a "very conservative stance" in the 1977-78 budget.

Some board members disagreed with Stiff's assessment of last year's budgeting practices. (The board lowered the tax rate 29 cents in 1976-77 and Stiff has made it clear he was unhappy with that. He said by not levying the maximum general purpose rate, the board "lost" some $369,000.)

Trustee Al McCombs claimed the board approved a "balanced" budget last year, "not a deficit budget." He added, "We felt we could lower the tax rate and still keep a balanced budget."

Stiff answered that he was "not indicting the community or Board of Education." The fault lies in bad management practices (under a different regime) and "no accountability."

Board Chairman Pete Vander Poel supported the district's decision to lower the tax rate in 1976-77. He added, however, that because of low reserves it will now be a "period of austerity."

The $19,474,305 budget includes reserves of $387,890 and a projected ending balance for June, 1978 of $130,000.

Chino residents will be paying higher tax bills even without the 38-cent school rate increase. Assessed valuation in the district has jumped 31.4 per cent over last year.

Only one resident — Chino Realtor Vern Riphagen — protested the 38-cent increase Tuesday night. He noted the cost of homes in Chino had skyrocketed and the average home now costs $46,112.

Vander Poel asked Riphagen if he had lowered the commission he receives on home sales. He said he had not.

Supervisors still deadlocked on salary raises for employes

The Los Angeles County Board of Supervisors remains locked over salary raises for its 78,000 employes.

The supervisors tried for the second straight week Tuesday to approve a tentative agreement for an average of 5.8 per cent, but with board member James Hayes on vacation wound up in a 2-2 deadlock.

Supervisors Peter Schabarum and Baxter Ward oppose the wage increases, contending they go against the county's current austerity program. Supervisors Ed Edelman and Kenneth Hahn favor it.

The contracts, approved last month after lengthy bargaining between county negotiators and 47 of the county's 51 labor organizations, were to take effect as of July 1.

The board is expected to try to break the impasse when Hayes returns from his vacation next Tuesday.

Sounding the alarm on arson

It has always been a mystery why the FBI issues quarterly statistics on larcenies and auto thefts but says nothing about the growing army of pyromaniacs who burn down buildings in the United States.

The number of deliberately set fires has more than tripled since 1965. As many as 1,000 people (including up to 45 firemen) are killed and 10,000 injured in such fires each year. Yet arson never has been listed along with murder, robbery and rape as serious crime in the quarterly reports.

That may change, however, if Congress approves a bill by Sen. John Glenn, D-Ohio, to require the FBI to issue arson statistics. It also would offer federal aid to states and cities that conduct anti-firebug campaigns.

The bill hasn't attracted much attention. And there is good reason to approach a new federal aid program with caution.

But the country should know that arson — especially in big cities — has reached epidemic proportions. And that community cooperation is needed to help bring it under control.

Privileged parkers

No matter what else you do to him, don't try to make a congressman pay to park his car on Capitol Hill.

That seems to be the lesson learned the other day by Sen. Gary Hart, D-Colo.

Hart, forgetting that rank has its privileges, proposed that henceforth all House members, senators, staff assistants and newsmen who share 8,563 free parking spaces near the Capitol should pay a fee ranging from $10 to $50 a month.

As expected, the Senate promptly tabled the motion by a vote of 66 to 28, which means it may be reconsidered in the 21st century or when hell freezes over, whichever comes first.

Hart's idea made sense, of course. Why should congressmen park free? Why should congressional aides and newsmen park free? Why don't they ride the subway? Or take a taxi? Or pay a parking fee like other folks?

Why, in fact, should anyone who works in a polluted, congested city like Washington be given an inducement to bring his car to work?

Elbow, anyone?

Now that yellow fever and polio have been conquered, we are indebted to Dr. Willbald Nagler of New York City for telling us how to eradicate tennis elbow.

One small trouble with Dr. Nagler's advice — put forth in a publication called American Family Physician — is that some of us may not be quite up to carrying it out.

Dr. Nagler suggests that weak-armed tennis players lift a 3-to-10-pound dumbbell off a table 15 times a day for six weeks, buy a lighter racket with a larger grip and use light tennis balls when possible.

But, even worse, the doctor also recommends that we save our sore elbows by hitting the ball where it's supposed to be hit — in the middle of the racket. and how many of us weekend contortionists are able to do that?

Joyce Hifler

Think on these things

Making someone else look good is not exactly what we had in mind, is it? There's too much competition, too much fear that we'll create a monster that will eat us. So why put ourselves in a position to have to contend with something we're not sure we can handle?

We do it all the time. We divide ourselves and set them against each other — one side telling the other to do something or not to do something. Don't eat that, it'll make you fat, don't have such wild thoughts, you know it's wrong. Warning, always warning, but never supporting the good in ourselves. But once we get the idea that we are also our own best friend, there's hope for progress — and evidence of it.

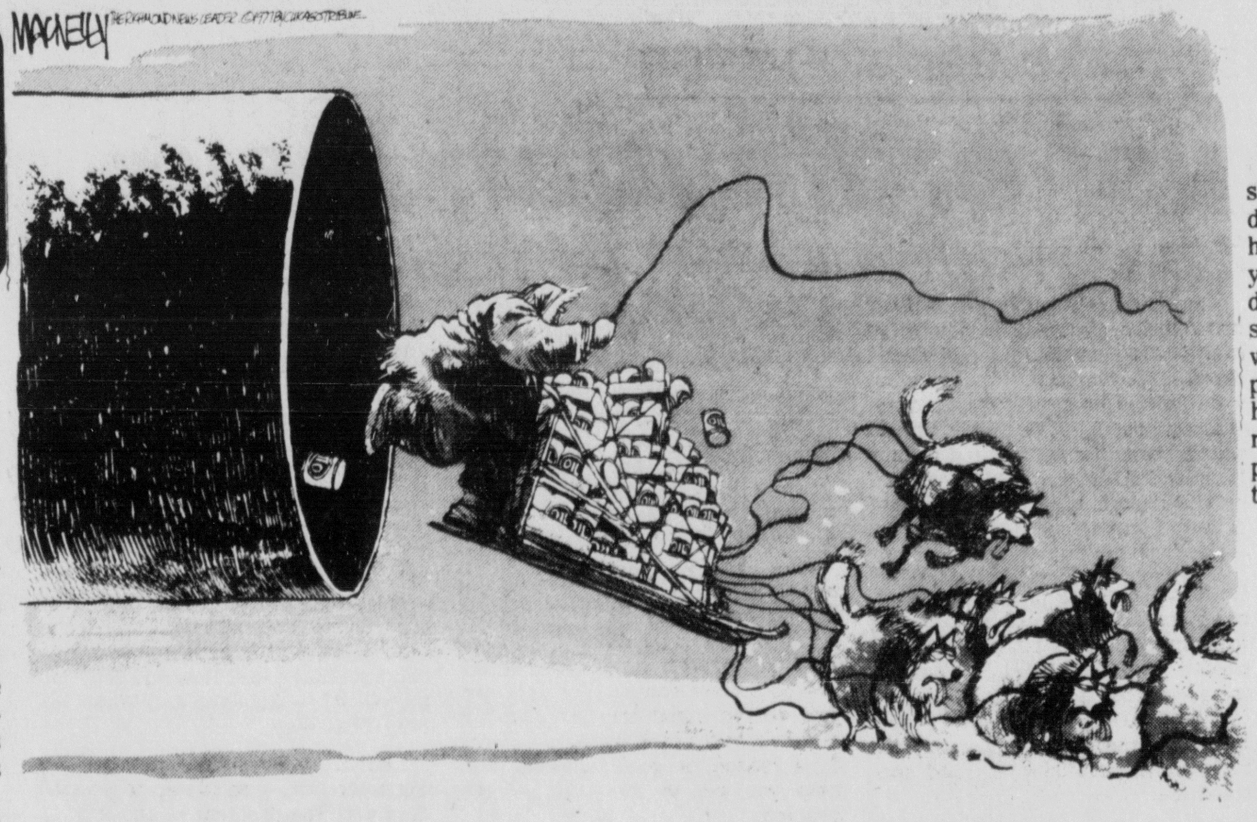

* * *

Should you find yourself in darkness, don't let it worry you. It simply means the dawn is coming.

There are degrees of darkness, different severities, but to the one standing in it, dark is dark and sufficient to the time. Persons outside that shadow cannot understand what all the fuss is about and have little compassion. But the one who has been there knows — and remembers — and can say with great gentleness that the light is coming.

The part he often fails to tell is that the night will pass more quickly when we allow it. In our confusion we believe it is necessary to stand confined to the longest night — but even that cannot hold back the dawn.

Feds close in on Teamsters

WASHINGTON — Federal investigators are quietly tightening the vise on the tumultuous Teamsters Union which, they claim, is the most corrupt in the country.

The FBI and Labor Department have joined forces to crack down on the alleged corruption. Their investigation isn't aimed at the rank-and-file truck drivers, a rugged but solid breed, who are known for their square dealing. The targets are a few free-wheeling Teamster leaders who allegedly have chiseled the drivers out of union money.

Some Teamster bosses, according to the investigative files, have diverted union funds to finance their high living. We have had access, for example, to the confidential files on Teamster local 911 in Long Beach, Calif. The files charge that the boss of the local, A. Dotson Bennett, ran his union into the ground and then embezzled nearly $200,000 to make up the losses.

The supreme irony is that local 911 represents policemen. It has already signed up 1,200 San Diego policemen and is trying to organize the Las Vegas police force.

The charges against the engaging Bennett claim he has been living beyond his union budget ever since the local was organized two years ago. He began allegedly by leasing expensive cars for union officials and, in at least one case, for the wife of a Teamsters aide.

The files also alleged that the local "purchased a nine-passenger, two-engine DeHaviland airplane for $121,000." The $3,000 monthly payments allegedly were carried on the books as legal expenses, and the full-time pilot was listed as a "business agent."

Bennett's extravagance allegedly plunged the local into debt. He negotiated two $80,000 loans from the Bank of San Pedro, according to FBI documents, in a desperate attempt to keep the union solvent.

Then he siphoned off about $200,000, the documents allege, to pay union debts. The money allegedly came from the Labor Department's Comprehensive Employment Training program. It had been deposited in a union account to pay half the wages of minority workers placed by the Teamsters.

None of these financial difficulties, apparently, slowed down the affable Bennett. He arrived in grand style last year at the Teamsters convention in Las Vegas and reserved two suites at the fashionable Riviera Hotel.

Declares one investigative report: "Bennett, his wife and two children occupied one suite, while his mother-in-law and father-in-law occupied the other suite."

The union officials who accompanied him also lived it up. Altogether, they ran up a $9,000 bill, which allegedly was never paid. Meanwhile, Bennett hasn't called a local union meeting since May 1976, because, the documents state, "he is unable to explain the union's financial condition."

Footnote: Bennett declined to comment on the charges. A lawyer for local 911 also had no comment.

UNFRIENDLY SKIES — Corporations constantly complain about too much government regulation. But most of the nation's airlines are privately fighting for continued federal regulation, because they're afraid to take their chances on the open market.

White House tour tickets

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House is receiving so many complaints from members of Congress about the difficulty of getting constituents on "VIP tours" of the White House that a new method of distributing tour tickets is being adopted.

Rejected, at least for the present, is a suggestion from the office of Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., that the early morning tours — not to be confused with regular public tours — be abolished.

Instead, tour office director Nancy Willing met Monday with Frank Moore, President Carter's assistant for congressional liaison, and decided to try a new system of ticket distribution that hopefully will make it easier for senators and House members to claim their weekly allotment of tickets.

Roy Greenaway, Cranston's administrative assistant, said the old system was inequitable and required time-wasting letter writing and phone calling between Capitol Hill and the White House.

Instead of soliciting individual ticket requests, Moore and Miss Willing said, each congressional office now will fill out request forms once a day, which will be picked up daily by White House messengers. On the following day the messenger will return with names of constituents being given tickets, along with a notation of the day and time they will be expected at the White House.

This should sharply reduce the flow of letters and phone calls, Moore said, and give Miss Willing's staff more time to deal with special requests over and above each Congress member's weekly allotment.

House members routinely get 10 tickets a week, senators 15 to 20. They are coveted because they convey an element of status. Moreover, ticket holders do not have to stand in long lines and, once inside the White House, receive better guide service than regular visitors. They also see the China Room, named for its display of dishes from many administrations, which is not included on regular tours.

Miss Willing said an average of 1,300 visitors a day take the VIP tours, Tuesday through Saturday. The tours were initiated during the presidency of Dwight D. Eisenhower.

The Moore-Willing solution may not eliminate one problem of which Greenaway complained. He said there is such ticket demand from Californians that July tickets were parceled out in March.

Rep. Elwood Hillis, R-Ind., wrote Carter about his own ticket problems, saying his constituents "indicate there has been a vast curtailment in the number of visitors" admitted for both VIP and regular tours.

Miss Willing said there has been no cutback, and reported that on some days the number of visitors has exceeded the year-earlier figure.

Concern over FBI's choice

By MARTHA ANGLE and ROBERT WALTERS

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Confidential documents in the files of the Federal Bureau of Investigation raise serious questions about the competence and independence of the man favored by the FBI hierarchy to be the bureau's new director.

John A. Mintz, an FBI assistant director and its chief legal counsel for more than three years, has emerged in recent weeks as the choice of other senior officials within the bureau to lead the organization.

But the bureau's own secret files show that when Mintz was in charge of an internal investigation of a potential FBI scandal in late 1975 he failed to aggressively pursue leads indicating that his colleagues may have misappropriated government property and violated the bureau's written policies.

At the center of the probe was the U.S. Recording Co., a Washington electronics firm which sold the FBI more than $2.6 million worth of tape recorders, electronic surveillance gear and other audio equipment from mid-1970 to mid-1975.

In a number of cases, the equipment was supplied by other firms, sold to U.S. Recording and then secretly transferred to the FBI — a "cut out" arrangement common in intelligence work.

Some FBI officials wanted the "cut out" to shield from the original suppliers the identity of the bureau as the actual purchaser — those firms might provide criminals or foreign intelligence agents with information about the type of equipment used by the FBI.

There also were public allegations that the "cut out" arrangement was a source of kickbacks from U.S. Recording to high-ranking FBI officials, but the three-man FBI investigating committee headed by Mintz said it couldn't find evidence of any such corruption.

The committee did find that U.S. Recording took a 14 per cent markup on items which it purchased from a Maryland electronics firm, then immediately transferred to the FBI. But the committee found nothing unusual about providing U.S. Recording with a healthy profit for very little work.

Mintz concluded that U.S. Recording did receive "favored treatment" and he found that John P. Mohr, the third-ranking FBI official during most of J. Edgar Hoover's directorship, maintained a "close personal association" with Joseph X. Tait, the president and sole owner of the U.S. Recording.

Mintz also reported that in 1963 Mohr ordered "no recorders are to be purchased by the bureau outside U.S. Recording" — an apparent direct violation of the FBI's formal, written policy requiring competitive bidding when procuring all electronic equipment.

That 1950 policy statement specifically rejected the use of "cut outs" in electronics purchases. According to FBI records, Mohr was present when that decision was made, but he told Mintz's committee he had no recollection of it. The committee's final report failed to resolve any of those conflicts affecting Mohr.

In another case, Mintz's committee was told by a retired FBI special agent that a former official of the FBI laboratory might have taken home some electronic equipment owned by the federal government.

After the suspected official was interviewed and denied any wrongdoing, Mintz's committee apparently dropped that inquiry. Six months later, after the Justice Department had taken over the investigation, two station wagons full of electronics equipment were seized at the suspect's home.

The search committee appointed by President Carter to recommend five candidates for FBI director specifically rejected Mintz as a contender, reportedly because of his reputation as an apologist for the bureau.

The newly disclosed documentation appears to reinforce those concerns, but those resistant to reform within the FBI continue to press the White House to select Mintz — a move which would be a disservice to both the bureau and the country.

Just in jest

Government officials are never hesitant about showering us with advice regarding what we should do to help alleviate shortages. Unfortunately, however, it turns out that you're not only damned if you don't follow that advice — you're usually damned if you do. To help conserve water, for instance, one group of government experts suggests we should store rinse water and later use it to water plants around the home. But that little helpful hint had hardly been launched before along came a notification from another group of government experts. Storing rinse water, they warned, could be the means of breeding mosquitoes.

Road upkeep not keeping up

By EARL G. WATERS

Does riding down the highway give you the feeling of traveling over a washboard? If it does it is not surprising. For, despite the boasts over many years that California has the best and most modern highway system in America, the roadways are beginning to deteriorate.

The operative word is maintenance and it is becoming rapidly clear to even the casual motorist that the state is falling behind in its maintenance programs.

To understand why this is happening, it is necessary to know the gigantic nature of the job of keeping the state highways up to standard.

Total mileage of all highways within the state system adds up to more than 15,000 and represents an investment in excess of $15 billion. Since the start of that investment dates back to 1920 the replacement value of the roads at today's dollar is estimated in excess of $50 billion.

Yet, for the maintenance of this huge capital investment the state will spend only $150 million this year and about $180 million in the next fiscal year. While that is a 20 per cent increase in the maintenance budget in one year, it remains that the total represents less than one-half per cent depreciation allowance, far too low a figure for adequate upkeep even without constant inflation.

And inflation, of course, has been a significant contributing factor to the inability of the state to keep up with maintenance needs. In fact it is the underlying cause for the ongoing debates as to the adequacy of current highway fund revenues.

With all the vast network of freeways and highways in the state system, there is still need for more. Many planned roadways are yet to be started and quite a few which have been started are still to be completed. Yet, Transportation Department officials, headed by its director, Adrianna Gianturco, are constantly telling the public there isn't enough money.

Although charges have been flying that Gianturco, admittedly an advocate of mass transit and far from an ardent supporter of more highways, has been hoarding highway funds, the facts seem to be that even if surpluses are existent, they are still far short of what is needed.

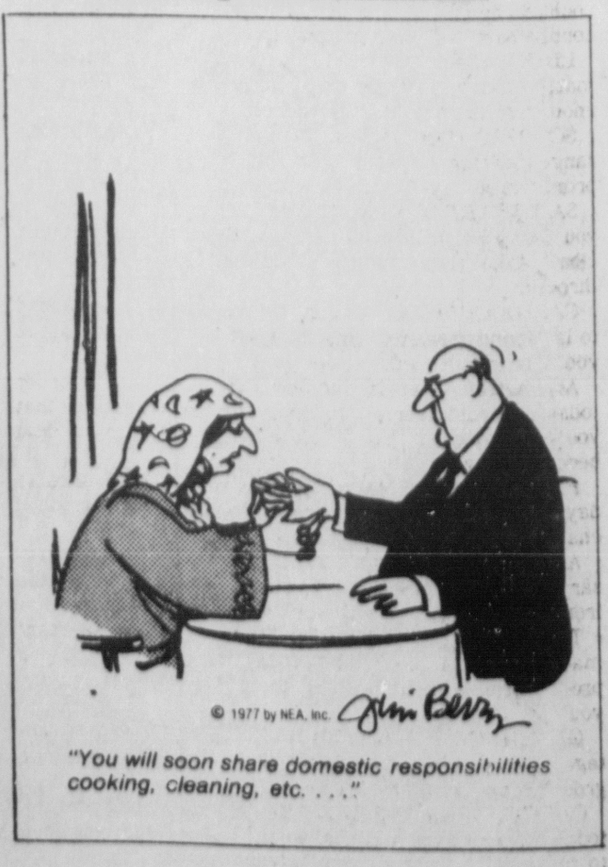

True, the dollar yield from the gasoline tax has been growing yearly as more and more cars hit the road but the tax, assessed on gallons, has been constant and thus doesn't reflect inflation as it would had it been assessed on dollar sales. Construction and maintenance costs have been drastically changed by inflation and that is the real rub.

Other factors contributing to the enlarging gap between available funds and maintenance needs have been arbitrary limitations set by the legislature on amounts to be spent on road repairs and the added mileages of newly constructed roads. Also, not inconsequential, has been the truckers' ability to lobby legislation permitting them full use of all lanes and a substantial weight increase in loads.

Ironically, while the total impact of highway wearing has not yet registered with the public, the truckers, whose contribution to the highway breakdowns is far greater than the motorists', are the ones presently complaining the loudest.

And, although some insiders in the highway department predict the roads will get worse before they get better, Assembly and Senate Transportation committees chairmen Walter Ingalls and Robert Preston both express great concern and are taking action to provide more money for road upkeep. Already the limits for maintenance spending have been removed and Ingalls is pushing legislation to give the legislature full control over highway money budgeting.

Ann Landers

Woman dying from her fat

Dear Ann Landers: This is a letter from a dying woman. I know I am dying because I am killing myself. With food, that is.

I started my suicidal kick when I was about ten years old. They called it "baby fat" in those days. When I married I weighed 125 pounds but was fighting every inch of the way. What a battle! I gained only 15 pounds with my first pregnancy because I felt rotten. After my third child was born, it hit me like a ton of bricks. I was 60 pounds heavier.

There were lots of excuses at the time and I used them all. I was older, my metabolism had changed. Caring for three kids was exhausting and I needed food for energy. I was a mediocre cook and had to depend on fast foods and a lot of junk. I was a long way from home and lonely for my parents and friends. Food consoled me.

I went on every diet that came along. I also bought all the books. They were worthless. The weight came right back on. Now I'm 35 years old and weigh 200 pounds (I'm 5-3) and believe me, that's dying.

I die every time I look in the mirror. I die worse when I go to buy a dress and look in a 3-way mirror. I die when I try to exercise and can't bend down because I'm so fat it's exhausting. I don't know how long my heart can stand the strain.

Wouldn't you think all this would be enough to keep me away from the refrigerator? Well, it isn't. I am addicted to food. You've written a lot about alcoholism and drug addicts. Please say something about Foodaholics. We are just as bad — if not worse. — I Need A Miracle

Dear Friend: Don't wait for a miracle or you WILL eat yourself into an early grave. DO something.

I have two suggestions and I hope you will try either one — or better yet both: Get some counseling and find out why you are trying to kill yourself with a fork and spoon. There IS a reason. A good therapist will help you get to the heart of the problem.

Next give Weight Watchers or Overeaters Anonymous a chance. Many people have had great success with these groups. (Look in the phone book.) There is something extraordinarily effective about the fellowship and encouragement of others who share the problem. (Same approach as A.A. and Recovery, Inc.)

Drop me a line after you have gone into therapy and/or attended your first meeting. I'd love to hear from you.

Dear Ann Landers: I am a 17-year-old guy. About three months ago my best friend told me he was gay. I accepted it and nothing changed — until last week when he told me he is in love with me and wants a sexual relationship.

He stares at me all the time and makes me uncomfortable. I don't want to lose his friendship but I just can't go that route. How do I get him to cool it? — Straight And Want To Stay That Way

Dear S.: Your gay friend is not going to cool it — so it's up to you to deal with the problem — and it IS a problem, make no mistake about it. See your friend only when others are present. Eventually he'll establish a love relationship with someone else. You will then be off the hook without feeling you've abandoned him.

Think of H_2O for wild friends

WATERLESS WARNING

In drought areas, water will become increasingly precious for the preservation of our wild friends. Provide a "watering hole" for wild animals, if any, and at least keep a drinking fountain full for the birds. Increasing thirst and, finally, death by dehydration is an agonizing end. Do your part to prevent it.

DEAR DR. MILLER: Bones, our beagle, has always been a meat-eater, strictly. He's taught Cranky, our part-Siamese kitten, the same trick — hold out 'till you get meat. I've always given Bones vitamin D for his bones. I suppose the kitten should get some, too? If so, more or less? — T.E.

DEAR T.E.: That all-meat diet won't do it in the long run for Bones beagle, and Cranky kitten can't even make it in the short run on this deficient diet. You're right in assuming both would need supplementation, particularly for the bones, but vitamin D not only wouldn't do it, but is also toxic. Calcium's the crying need for both of them, and de-mineralization of their bones due to the low-calcium and high-phosphorous content of meat would be the problem.

Cranky's calcium need would be particularly acute; without it, the bones could quickly be de-mineralized, particularly those of the spine and legs. These calcium-depleted bones become so fragile they collapse with normal activity. The result is inevitably painful and, not infrequently, fatal. (The process is similar to that of osteoperosis in aging humans.) You should get both of these animals in to the doctor (Cranky's need is urgent) to get this dietary problem straightened out. The goal would be a basically good diet, though supplementation high in calcium (and low in phosphorous) is probably indicated now.

DEAR DR. MILLER: Susie has slept beside me for nine years, quietly. Lately, she's keeping me awake by her snoring. Why, after all these years? — F.E.

DEAR F.E.: Either your hearing's becoming more sensitive or, more likely, snoring Susie's not the silent sleeper she once was. Susie's sonorous sounds could be caused by partial obstruction of the air passage, possibly caused by polup, tumor, foreing body, chronic infection, or even an allergy. Susie (whatever her species) should be checked out by her doctor to determine the best approach to sound(less) sleeping for both of you.

Cashing in on the big robbery

Because every man has a little larceny in his heart, people the world over read with relish the account of the recent hijacking of a French truck containing 17 tons of newly minted coins. Parbleu! I have as much — perhaps a little more — larceny in my heart as the next man, so I read the details with keen interest, and led an animated discussion of l'affaire banque porcine (piggy bank) over at Dr. Andy's outpatient clinic. Our conclusion: the hijackers have found themselves between a rock and a hard place.

Weened, as I have been, on England's Great Train Robbery, Brinks armored car heists and various bank tunnelings in several European countries, I have grown a trifle jaded — never trouble myself about a robbery or burglary under $1 million. But this Bank of France caper weighed in at $3.54 million, which certainly warrants the attention of every right-minded thief — er, citizen. This is the Kentucky Derby of larceny.

The details of the caper are familiar, uninteresting and sordid, fraught with luck, both good and bad, a clumsy operation that Marty Feldman is probably already writing a movie script on. Truck picks up load at airport, hijackers trail in car, second truck stalls in front of the loot, gunmen swarm out to do their thing. You see better cops-and-robbers shows on TV every night.

The real issue, however, since the robbers eluded the gendarmes with predictable ease, is what do you do with 17 tons of coins. It's the $3.54 million question. Presumably your swag is still in the truck, covered with hay in a barn on a lonely farm. There are 1,770,000 glittering new bronze coins worth $2 each. How do you go about converting them into new cars, estates, fancy clothing, weekends at Monte Carlo, without arousing the suspicions of the Surete? For that matter, how do you lift it? A few hundred dollars would give you a hernia.

At numerous bars, bistros, cafes and news stands, witty customers hand over a 10-franc coin and say, "This is right off the truck." A nation of clowns. However, 50 million Frenchmen are now puzzling over the plight of the hijackers — getting the coins was a snap (un snap) compared to the problem of getting rid of them. I don't know the details of the technology needed to melt them down and cast them in bars (I cast a lot of money in bars, too) but it might be difficult to find a fence who would handle 17 tons of bronze.

To bring the problem closer to home, picture yourself with a cellar containing 7,080,000 silver dollars — stolen. Hi Yo, Silver! Could you bank a few thousand, chuckling to the teller about your great luck at Vegas last weekend? How often would the grocery clerk accept your 10 new silver dollars for that pound of coffee before he dialed the sheriff's office? What would the car salesman think when you handed him a suitcase full of silver dollars for a new Cadillac? (Now HE's got the hernia.) Wouldn't the real estate agent have some misgivings when you proffered a couple of barrels of silver dollars as down payment on a new house?

Probably your safest bet would be to drive your truck to Las Vegas, (assuming it could get up the Cajon Pass) and join the merrymakers at the gaming tables. The casinos don't care where you get your money; they just want to be sure you leave it with them. And that's what you'll do, if my own experience has any value, but you'll have one helluva weekend!

Dr. Lamb

Watch your high cholesterol

DEAR DR. LAMB — I have high cholesterol, 336, and was given no medication. I have since heard that lecithin is sometimes prescribed for this condition. Is this a harmless medication? Would you recommend it for this condition?

DEAR READER — It is both harmless and useless. Your digestive system will digest the lecithin before it ever gets through the intestinal wall into your blood stream.

If you were choline deficient the resulting choline could be used by your liver to manufacture the lecithin that is in your blood stream. The chances are that if you are eating anything like a normal diet you will already be getting plenty of choline.

If your cholesterol is persistently that high you do need to make some changes. Your doctor may not have wanted to do anything about it because you are a woman and women are less prone to heart attacks and fatty-cholesterol deposits than men — until a few years after the menopause. But I think it would be a good idea not to let you run that risk.

Your first step would be to reduce, if you have any tendency to be overweight, and go on a low-fat low-cholesterol diet. I am sending you two issues of The Health Letter that can help you, number 1-3, Diet, Preventing Athersoclerosis, and number 4-7, Weight Losing Diet. Others who want either can send 50 cents for each plus a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for mailing to P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019. If these measures are not successful then your doctor may want to consider medicine but it is proper to try to adjust your living habits first.

You should also try to increase your physical activity if you are not already fairly active. That will also help you with your weight control diet. While I am in favor of the low-fat low-cholesterol diets for this purpose I should add that no diet is successful in this regard unless excess body fat is eliminated.

DEAR DR. LAMB — My problem is black rings around my eyes. Could it be indicative of something wrong? I always thought it made me look bad. Can anything be done to remove these black rings? I am 30 years old, otherwise healthy and with good eyesight. I was born in India.

DEAR READER — No they are not a sign of poor health. One often sees them in people who are thinner. Why? Because the person who is thin may not have a normal thickness of the natural fat pad around the eye.

The veins around the eye can be seen in the absence of fat and increase the appearance of dark circles around the eyes. Also, some people have increased pigmentation in that area and it is just a natural characteristic, the same as having black, blonde or red hair.

You don't need to concern yourself about your health because of these. If you were a woman and didn't like the appearance you could use eye makeup to cover most of the area.

(Because of the volume of mail Dr. Lamb cannot answer your letters personally but he will answer representative letters of general interest in his column.)

WHY CLOTHES

Protection, modesty and decoration, those are the three basic purposes of clothes. And decoration is the most important. Or so says a scholar who makes a study of such things. What, you don't believe decoration is the most important? Then how do you account for the fact that a number of primitive societies were made up of people who wore no clothes, but none known failed to decorate their bodies with paints, trinkets or whatever?

For Thursday, Aug. 4, 1977
Your Birthday, August 4, 1977

There's a strong likelihood you'll be on the go a lot this coming year. If there's a distant place you've longed to travel to, lay plans early. Something could come up to make it possible.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) A friend you consider to be enterprising and knowledgeable can contribute a lot to you today. An exchange of ideas will serve as an inspiration. Find out more about yourself by sending for your copy of Astro-Graph Letter. Mail 50 cents for each and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Astro-Graph, P.O. Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify your birth sign.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) In joint ventures today, it could be helpful to be a little bolder and more firm. Your counterpart will take his cue from your actions.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) In analyzing an important matter today, look for the positive aspects. There are enough of them to assure success.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Conditions having a long-range bearing on your work or career are especially promising today. Try to view them in light of the future.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Promises made to you today by influential persons have the ring of truth. Don't take them lightly. Eventually they will come through.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You should begin today to lay foundations for something vital to you and close to you. The results will please you.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Put your house in order today regarding correspondence or communications that you've neglected. You'll close some gaps that could become canyons.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) This could be a profitable day for you in two diverse areas. One is through previous channels, the other is something unique.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) If you should find it necessary to assert yourself today, wear a velvet glove over the iron fist. Diplomacy will work wonders.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) The control of important matters is not in your hands today, but don't fret. If you prod others without pushing them, they'll perform for you.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) It's definitely to your advantage to circulate today. Don't tie yourself down to one group. Make as many scenes as you can.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You're in a strong position today for acquiring material wealth. Keep your eyes open to make full use of all your advantages.

One of the worst complexes a bridge player can acquire is the no trump complex. Everyone likes to play no trump, but no matter how well you play that contract you can't bring it home if you have some real weakness and the opponents are unkind enough to attack you there.

South has a book two notrump response to his partner's opening spade bid. Thirteen high-card points, a balanced hand and all suits stopped.

Many players would throw the book away and respond two diamonds rather than bid this two no trump, but we aren't going to criticize that first bid by South. It was his second bid that showed a complete lack of partnership understanding.

North had opened the bidding with one spade and rebid three spades over South's two-no trump response. This three-spade rebid should have warned South that North didn't like no trump. Hence, South should have raised to four spades instead of repeating his previous no trump call.

North might have insisted on spades, but North had bid the suit twice so North passed to three no trump. West opened a club and North was down two. Five spades would have made easily.

Local slayings match those in other cities

Pattern emerges statewide in string of murders

Peter Hernandez Jr., 30, was walking in the 350 block of west 11th Street in Pomona when several shots were fired from a passing car. Hernandez died of bullet wounds fired from a .38-caliber or similar handgun on Jan. 23.

That same weekend, Carlos N. Rodriquez, 42, Pomona, was writing a letter to a friend he had met in state prison. He heard a knock at the door. He opened the door and several blasts from a shotgun felled him.

Each of the murders to date remains unsolved.

But police investigations have revealed that the methods of assassination or execution used by the perpetrators resemble a series of similar shootings reported in the past year in Sacramento, Fresno, Modesto, Lancaster, East Los Angeles and San Diego.

Each of the victims had been shot with a large caliber handgun or shotgun. Each was either an ex-convict or had relatives in state prison.

Each had had brushes with the law in connection with suspected narcotics trafficking. Each previously had been identified by law enforcement authorities of either being members or associates of the Mexican Mafia (Eme) or La Nuestra Familia (NF).

In addition, the prime suspects in the cases, who later were released for lack of evidence, previously had been identified by police as having connections with either or both the Eme or NF.

Law enforcement officers said the large amount of data being collected on the two prison gangs by federal, state, county and local agencies while highly informative, has not greatly enhanced their efforts to gain convictions of suspected gang members involved in local crime.

One of the main reasons cited by organized crime investigators for the lack of convictions is the strongly enforced "code" of rules set down by the organizations, not only in the prisons, but on the streets.

The NF "Street Use Only" portion of their constitution outlines how members of the gang leaving the prison should establish regiments. The constitution suggests that each member contribute a share of his money earned from illegal drug trafficking, robberies and other street crimes to the NF "Main Bank" and to their regimental banks. The regimental banks, according to the constitution, should contain no less than $1,000.

"Main Bank" money is used to purchase "front" or legitimate businesses, while regimental bank money is used for payrolls, attorneys' and doctors' fees and bail money for NF members.

Police believe that some of the gangs' members in the local area brought the wrath of other gang members in prisons, mainly in Northern California, when they were not following the constitution and contributing the proper share of the narcotics and robbery money to the main bank.

Police said one of the difficulties encountered in the investigation of local organized gang activity was the gangs ability to finance the travels of "hit men" back and forth from Northern California to Southern California.

As a recent example of this ability was the arrest of an Ontario man, David Cervantes, 29, in Bakersfield on murder charges May 29.

Cervantes, according to Bakersfield police authorities, was one of 12 men involved in a shootout in Bakersfield. Refugio Martinez, as far as authorities can determine, was an innocent victim of the shootout between NF members battling over illegal narcotics profits. He died as a result.

Authorities believe that Cervantes was given a "hit contract" by NF leaders and sent to Bakersfield to fulfill it. Instead Cervantes was also critically wounded. Today he remains hospitalized until such time as he can be brought to trial on conspiracy charges.

Authorities in Bakersfield also believe that a prospective witness to the shootout was killed in Monterey County. The prospective witness, Gracie Marie Hernandez, 24, of Bakersfield, was found shot and stabbed to death near her burned-out car on July 18.

Local authorities believe that on the other hand, Loza and possibly Rodriguez were killed by gang members from Northern California.

Valley police agencies, because of the types of slayings, shootings and robberies, and the interrelationships of the suspects and victims either on the streets or inside the prisons, can only conclude that some criminal organization exists between them.

Daily evidence mounts that prison gangs are in control of much of the valley street crime, or are rapidly gaining that control.

"There are just too many coincidences," said one investigator.

(Next: The gangs control illegal prison rackets and much of the narcotics trafficking, fencing and extortion rackets are controlled by street gangs in California's Mexican-American barrios.)

THIS SYMBOL of La Nuestra Familia, a prison gang striving to control narcotics trafficking in the state prisons as well as on the streets throughout Southern California was found in an Ontario residence being searched by local police investigating a series of robberies. The logo was carefully printed on two pieces of posterboard and signed by a number of persons suspected of having ties to the prison gang.

Pediatrics hospital

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — Construction is under way in Buenos Aires of a National Pediatrics Hospital which will be completed in 1980.

HOT NEW FIGHTER — The U.S. Navy/Marine Corps F18 Hornet, a new high-performance tactical fighter, takes off in Los Angeles during its first public demonstration in the U.S. It had been seen several months ago at the Paris Air Show. The plane has a one-man crew and is powered by two General Electric engines. Northrop is the manufacturer.

Garmatz indicted in bribery

BALTIMORE (AP) — Former Democratic Rep. Edward A. Garmatz has been indicted on federal charges of accepting bribes from two shipping companies in exchange for allegedly working for legislation that would have aided the firms.

Garmatz, 74, a 25-year veteran of Congress, was indicted Monday in the courthouse named in his honer.

"The bitter irony of being tried in a building named in my honor makes the ordeal of this prosecution all the more difficult," Garmatz said in a statement released by his attorney, Arnold Weiner.

The indictment charges that Garmatz, a member of the House of Representatives from 1947 through 1972, accepted $10,000 from James R. Barker, president of Moore McCormack Lines, Inc., and $5,000 from Edward J. Heine, president of United States Lines, Inc.

Garmatz allegedly accepted the money between November 1971 and August 1972, while he was chariman of the House Merchant Marine and Fisheries Committee.

Garmatz, who did not run for re-election in 1972 on grounds of poor health, denied the charges.

7,000 steel workers face layoff

JOHNSTOWN, Pa. (AP) – Bethlehem Steel Corp. says it will lay off 7,000 employes in this flood-shattered community if it is forced to carry out pollution control projects while trying to rebuild its damaged plant.

Some 3,500 persons will be laid off even if the firm obtains a two-year moratorium on environmental programs, officials said.

Last month's flood caused an estimated $200 million in damages in Johnstown and surrounding communities.

"They suffered a great loss here," said Dr. George Walter, a City Council member. "At this point, I think Bethlehem was very sincere. I can't believe they would blackmail the community at this time."

But labor leaders said the layoffs may have been planned before the flood.

"We understand Bethlehem had made a determination on decreasing operations even before the flood," said Paul Lewis, director of United Steelworkers District 15. "The steel business isn't that good in the country right now."

Bethlehem chairman Lewis Foy outlined the plan for reopening the mill at a meeting of state and federal representatives in Washington.

It called for a suspension of environmental projects during a two-year reconstruction period.

Foy said pollution controls at Johnstown in the past have cost $74 million. Future environmental spending would amount to $162 million, including $122 million between 1977-79.

He said the company just reported a pre-tax loss of $75 million for the first six months of 1977, although it had a net profit of approximately $10 million after a tax credit of $85 million.

The poor earnings performance coupled with the financial impact of the cleanup and continued spending on environmental controls could not be absorbed, he said.

Gov. Milton Shapp, Sens. Richard Schweiker and John Heinz, and Greg Schneiders, President Carter's director of special projects, attended the session.

Schweiker and Heinz said later they support Bethlehem's request.

"Basically, in our judgment, it is the only way to keep Johnstown from becoming a ghost town," Schweiker said.

ZOO POPULATION INCREASED — Although these fluffy kittens may look like tame house cats, they are actually very rare Pallas Cats born recently at the Los Angeles Zoo. Their forebears are from the frozen steppes of Siberia. The cats have never been domesticated.

Free after 37 years in prison for shoplifting

WOODLAND, Calif. (AP) — Louis Buckner sits these days on the wide front porch of a Woodland rest home, enjoying his freedom after serving a 37-year prison term for a $12.74 shoplifting conviction.

Buckner, a native of the Mexican mountain town of Puebla, is one of the estimated 1,100 to 1,300 California prison inmates who will be freed this year under a new law reforming prison terms.

Speaking in halting, imperfect English, the 70-year-old Buckner clearly repeats important dates in his case.

Buckner's story was pieced together from court records and interviews with old-timers in this Sacramento Valley agricultural community by the Woodland Democrat.

The newspaper reported that on Nov. 7, 1940, Buckner, then 33, quit his job at a sugar beet camp because he said he couldn't keep up with the pace of the work.

Buckner walked into town with two possessions, 25 cents in change and a blanket to ward off the chilly autumn weather. Minutes later, he was captured on his hands and knees in a local department store with four dresses stuffed in a paper bag.

His record showed two previous convictions, burglary of a home in Idaho in 1931 and the theft of a woman's $16 overcoat in Stockton in 1934.

On the basis of two previous convictions, Buckner was sentenced for his misdemeanor shoplifting conviction to life in prison.

That law was repealed five years later, but Buckner remained in prison, with periodic transfers in and out of state mental hospitals for treatment. Authorities said he spent a total of 29 years in the hospitals.

Confidentiality laws prohibit the hospitals from discussing Buckner's treatment, but he has receipts showing that he was assigned to various work crews.

He was finally released under a law setting specific terms for various crimes, and putting new restrictions on the incarceration of convicted persons in mental hospitals.

Buckner told the Woodland paper, "I'd like to go to Stockton to get a job." At another point, he said his goal is to return to his native Puebla.

But the law which finally required Buckner's release imposed one condition. He is required to put in three years of supervised parole time in the Woodland area before he will be eligible to move.

Imported peanut

The peanut, native to the Americas, was imported into Africa by Portuguese traders and returned again in the 18th and 19th centuries on ships transporting slaves. Primarily intended as food for the slaves during the long ocean crossing, the peanuts that were left over from these voyages were planted around the slave cabins. This was the beginning of one of the most important crops in the United States.

Airlines asking cut-rate fares

WASHINGTON (AP) — Four major airlines, facing a challenge by a private British air carrier, are asking for permission to offer cut-rate air fares on transatlantic flights that offer a minimum of frills.

The rapidly escalating competition for thousands of potential overseas airline passengers began with approval of a low-cost, no-frills New York-to-London flight schedule for Laker Airways, a privately owned British company.

The Laker Airways proposal was accepted by the Civil Aeronautics Board in June and four U.S.-based carriers, concerned over the competition, have requested authority to adopt similar budget passenger rates.

Trans International Airlines, the world's largest charter carrier, and Trans World Airways are the latest to succumb to the Laker Airways pressure. Both have asked the CAB to approve low-cost transatlantic fares similarto those sanctioned for Laker.

Trans International, based in Oakland, Calif., thus joined TWA, Pan American and Nationwide Leisure, another charter carrier, in bidding for transatlantic economy-rate passenger business.

There was no immediate indication when the board would act on the rate schedules proposed by the four U.S. carriers.

Beginning in September, Laker Airways will offer a daily, no-frills, nonreservation "sky train" service between New York and London at roundtrip prices of $236. That compares with a $631 roundtrip price for a regular 14-to 21-day summer excursion.

Trans International wants a no-frills "Skybus" service between 14 U.S. cities and Brussels, Belgium. Fares would be less than half the cost of economy tickets on existing scheduled flights. For instance, one-way fares would be $139 from New York and $229 from California.

These compare with regular one-way coach fares of $411 between New York and Brussels and $584 between Los Angeles and Brussels.

The cheapest fares currently available, the so-called Apex fares which require roundtrip booking 60 days in advance, are $477 for New York-Brussels and $637 for Los Angeles-Brussels.

TWA is trying to match two low-fare New York-to-London services proposed last week by Pan American, which filed its rate request after Laker Airways won approval of its Skytrain service.

Donald M. Casey, a TWA vice president, said his company was reluctant to compete for the low-cost overseas travel business.

"While we feel the Pan American fare is ill-conceived and will result in lower revenues rather than generate new passengers, we are matching it for purely competitive reasons," he said.

TWA and Pan American propose roundtrip standby flights at $256, or $20 more than the no-frills service provided by Laker Airways. British Airways, the government-owned air carrier, is offering a $290 roundtrip flight.

Laker Airways' no-frills flights will not offer free meals or free in-flight entertainment.

REGGIE AND FANS

New York Yankees' Reggie Jackson signs autographs for fans at Anaheim Stadium Tuesday night before Yanks' win over Angels. A charge of criminal harrassment was filed in New York Tuesday against Jackson for allegedly kicking a fan following the All-Star Game.

NEW YORK — The Dodgers' righthanded power helped them maintain their dominance over lefthanded pitchers Tuesday night.

The 7-2 victory over the New York Mets was their 20th against only eight losses vs. Southpaws this year. Jerry Koosman (8-11) took the defeat.

Ron Cey continued his hot hitting with his 22nd home run and a double to give him 91 runs batted in.

Steve Yeager, playing with a very sore lower back, snapped a horrendous 0-for-13 streak in which he had struck out eight times. His two-run, bases-loaded single in the Dodger seventh gave John (12-4) a two-run cushion after Koosman had walked Dusty Baker to force in a run and break a 2-2 tie.

Yeager was in the game only because Johnny Oates, the only other catcher, has a charlie horse and cannot play at all.

"It's incredible I can even throw," admitted Yeager. When I play I constantly irritate it. It hurts throwing, running, swinging (the bat), everything I do.

"I think if Oates wasn't hurt, they'd probably send me home to get treatment, rest and get well."

Asked how he felt about the hit, Yeager replied, "I feel good about everything, even making contact. I haven't been hitting a bleeping thing."

John flashed unusual form, striking out 10, the only time he's been in double figures other than his Dodger career-high of 13 against Cincinnati in 1972.

"The humidity helped," John explained. "The heavy air made the ball bite. I was surprised at the number of strikeouts.

"I think T.J. (John) was off his game," quipped Cey. "He was getting strikeouts when he usually gets a lot of ground balls."

The Dodgers took a 1-0 lead in the third inning on Steve Garvey's 26th homer and 87th RBI.

John helped his own cause with two hits including an RBI single in the sixth following hits by Baker and Glenn Burke.

That tied the game, 2-2 because the Mets had taken a 2-1 lead in the fifth on Mike Vail's infield hit, Doug Flynn's double and Lenny Randle's two-run single.

The Dodgers broke it open in the seventh.

Reggie Smith got a one-out single, Cey doubled and Garvey was intentionally walked loading the bases for Baker and Yeager.

Cey added insurance in the ninth when he cracked his 22nd round-tripper following a leadoff walk to Joe Simpson who had taken over for Smith.

"I just wanted to get something going," sayd Cey of his seventh-inning double. It didn't give me any more satisfaction then the homer. I should have had a double last night. But I wasn't thinking about that."

A scorer's ruling deprived Cey of a double Monday night as an error was charged to the Mets' leftfielder, Steve Henderson.

Cey now is 5-for-11 including two home runs, a double and a triple with eight runs batted in so far in the two games here.

"I don't think I'm hitting any better than I was on the homestand," he said. "I was hitting line drives then, 11, believe me I counted them. They just weren't falling in."

DODGER DATA — Doug Rau (12-2) was to face Jon Matlack (6-12) in today's series and season windup between the two clubs. It's another battle of lefthanders.

The Dodgers now are 8-3 against the New Yorkers. But Rau is only 4-6 lifetime against the Mets while Matlack is 12-5 against the Dodgers.

John has allowed only 12 earned runs in eight starts (64 innings since June 12, the date of his last loss). He has won six in a row.

Henderson had one hit in four at-bats Tuesday. He is 8-for-19 against the Dodgers. The single off John gives him 26 hits in his last 66 at-bats for a .403 average with 11 extra base hits, 22 RBIs and 16 runs scored. He has hit in 14 of the last 16 games.

Tommy Lasorda received his All-Star game ring Tuesday.

"How about that," he exclaimed. "Who ever would have thought a humpty-dumpty lefthanded pitcher would ever get an All-Star ring?" Lasorda was the third base coach for the National League.

"You never thought I'd get to manage the greatest team in the big leagues for the greatest organization," he yelled at New York writer Dick Young. "You always thought one of the stars would be the manager."

Lasorda says he lost his chance to be making more money then even one of his players when the Dodgers dealt away Rick Auerbach. He was flashing around a long wire service story about himself. What's that a New York writer asked. "His earned run average," cracked an L.A. writer.

LIFE IN THE BIG APPLE — One of the N.Y. papers is running a daily box comparing the stats of Steve Henderson and Tom Seaver. Seaver is 3-2 with the Reds with a 3.08 earned run average.

Columnist Paul Zimmerman, finishing his two-part piece on the Olympics: "The Olympic Games have become too expensive, too unwieldy, unworkable, unprofitable and unrewarding. The N.Y. study group says it will cost $426 million including $75 million to turn Shea Stadium into an Olympic track facility.

"The stadium will have to be recountoured to accomodate an eight-lane track which will be ripped up after the games. A practice track is tentatively planned for the parking lot. After the games, that, too, will be ripped up and the lot restored. Permanent value to the city — zero."

Monday's rainstorm knocked out electric power briefly in 17,000 homes and businesses.

As if the city didn't have enough trouble, the Bureau of Animal Affairs has placed N.Y. on a "Bat Alert." August and Sept. are the height of the bat season.

The U.S. Labor Department says N.Y.C. is a "youth employment disaster" with only 21.9 per cent of its teenagers at work.

The story about the 2,800 pounds of marijuana plants discovered on the farm of Yankee pitcher Don Gullett was headlined in one paper as, "Yankee farm crop: pot."

New Yorkers mug Angels

By BILL LANGLEY
PB Sports Editor

ANAHEIM — The Angels should have had a white flag handy Tuesday night.

Surrender would have been a safer decision than going ahead with the game against the New York Yankees.

If anything, the Yanks simply mugged the heck out of their California opponents in the safety of Orange County as the New Yorkers took out a lot of their frustrations by pounding out 19 hits in a 9-3 whipping of the Halos.

The defending American League champions, who are in the midst of a great pennant race with the Boston Red Sox and Baltimore Orioles in the East, knocked four Angels' pitchers senseless in evening the series at one game apiece.

It's hard to point to one Yankee as the big hero Tuesday.

For instance, there is the lovable Reggie Jackson, who quieted some of the jeers with three singles and two RBIs. Or take ex-Angel Mickey Rivers, who also added three hits including a lead-off triple to open the first inning.

Catcher Thurman Munson contributed a single and double for two RBIs. First baseman Chris Chambliss, a former UCLA star, added a single and a two-run homer.

Shortstop Bucky Dent also had two singles and a double.

It's easy to get the total picture as all nine Yankee batters got into the hit parade against Angel pitchers Paul Hartzell, rookie lefthander Fred Kuhaulua, Mike Barlow and Dyar Miller.

Chambliss, who entered the game in a slump with only one hit in his last 16 at bats, explained it simply.

"Things are starting to click offensively for us," he said. "This should help our pitching and defense relax."

The Angels certainly won't argue with that logic after Tuesday's beating which was their fourth loss in five games on this homestand against the three top American League East teams.

It's hard to believe for the Angels once enjoyed a lead in Tuesday's rout.

Bobby Bonds hit a two-run homer - his 22nd - in the first inning to give the Halos a brief 2-1 margin.

But Yankee righthander Mike Torrez (10-10) was able to coast to a complete game victory as he allowed only a meaningless homer to Don Baylor — his 15th — in the ninth inning.

ANGEL ANGLES — The Yankees make their final appearance at Anaheim Stadium tonight with lefthanded rookie Ron Guidry (8-5) facing Nolan Ryan (14-10).

After a day off Thursday, the Angels will host the Baltimore Orioles over the weekend.

Shortstop Rance Mulliniks couldn't play Tuesday because of a strained left shoulder. He will likely also miss tonight's contest with Dave Chalk moving over from third base and Ron Jackson filling in at third.

Pitcher Doug Thomson of La Verne College has been promoted by the Angels from Quad City (Midwest League) to Salinas (California League). He was 8-2 at Quad City.

Pitcher Mike Walters of Chaffey College is 2-0 at Idaho Falls (Pioneer League) after beating Calgary, 14-3.

German team ends stay

By BRENT SHYER
PB Correspondent

A 22-player soccer team from West Germany visited Claremont this past week to play three games during its tour of some of the United States.

The squad is comprised of players from three cities in W. Germany, including Solingen, Langenfeld, and Leichlingen. The team arrived in the U.S. in early July and will be traveling to Las Vegas, Nevada today and then to San Diego prior to returning home in mid-August.

The West German players and their chaperones were housed by residents of Claremont, Pomona, and La Verne.

Marilyn and Dick Tipping are Claremont residents who hosted Thomas Engelhard, a 15-year-old German boy.

"Thomas speaks English pretty well — for what he does speak — although he doesn't understand all of the slang terms that we use," said Mrs. Tipping.

"Our kids have really enjoyed having him here. They talk about rock groups, movies, and television. Thomas knows about a lot of the movie stars."

The players have been able to do a great deal of sightseeing while on this trip. They have been to such places as Disneyland, the Music Center, Hollywood, Olivera Street, and the beach while in Southern California.

Another Claremont resident, Bill Pitts, had the opportunity to house Georg Lipinski during the Solingen team's stay in the area.

"Georg speaks English well because he's taken it for four years in school," said Pitts. "I've gotten to know Georg and Thomas (Englehard) and they are both really nice boys."

The boys are 15 to 19 years of age, and they raised money to come to America. Their first stop was in New York, and that city was a little harsh on them as they were greeted by the big Blackout.

Some of the players were staying at the Plaza Hotel on the 15th floor and they had to climb up the stairs with candles. Others followed with water, as the pumps weren't in working order.

On Tuesday, the team went to Los Angeles and was officially welcomed by the L.A. Board of Supervisors.

Otto Rieger and Bim Jollymour arranged everything for the Solingen players while they were traveling on the West Coast.

Rieger, who is Claremont High's athletic director, said of the Claremont soccer fans, "Those people who are involved are just super. We appreciate everything that those fans and people have done.

"I'm disappointed though in the city of Claremont. They wanted as little to do with the whole thing as possible. The only welcome was from the President of the Chamber of Commerce, Nick Quackenbos."

A Claremont team defeated the Solingen team Tuesday evening at Webb School, 4-3, as Billy Pitts scored three goals.

Doug Jollymour added the other tally for Claremont.

Englehard and Lipinski took turns scoring goals for Solingen, and teammate Udo Klimach booted home the third to complete the scoring.

HILMER LODGE . . . MSAC Relays founder

Hilmer Lodge, 63, drowns at home

PALA — Hilmer Lodge, founder of the Mt. San Antonio Relays and an influential figure in U.S. track and field for the past three decades, died Wednesday at his home here. He was 63.

Lodge, who was the first track coach in MSAC's history and was the manager of the U.S. Olympic Team in 1968, apparently drowned in the swimming pool of his home in Pala, said Don Ruh, the current track coach at MSAC.

Lodge, Ruh added, had not been well recently following a cataract operation a month ago, and his death is believed to be related to complications which developed from this operation.

A graduate of Stanford, Lodge became head coach at the Walnut campus when the school opened in 1947. He began the Relays 12 years later and guided that event into the largest meet on the U.S. track circuit.

Lodge also attended the Claremont Graduate School, Loyola University Law School and UCLA.

During his tenure as head coach of the Mounties, Lodge produced several conference championship squads and two state junior college champions, in 1957 and 1962. He retired as a coach at MSAC in 1963 to devote full-time to the Relays, his duties as an official with the International Amateur Athletic Federation, and his citrus ranch in Pala.

Pala is a small farming community northeast of San Diego.

Lodge was a coach and administrator for many U.S. teams in international competition during the 1960's and 1970's. He also served as the track and field chairman of the AAU in the early 1960's.

His efforts enabled the MSAC Relays to annually draw many of the best track and field athletes in the world to the meet. The Relays recently celebrated their 20th successful season.

"He was a great man who is going to be missed in track and field," said Ruh, who had worked under Lodge as an assistant coach and as co-promoter for the Relays in recent years.

Lodge is survived by his widow, Dorothy; three daughters, Betsy, Margaret, and Rosemary; and two sons, Eric and Raymond.

Funeral services will be held Saturday at 2 p.m. at the St. Francis Episcopal Church in Pauma Valley, located on Highway 76 just north of Escondido.

Singer expensive for Blue Jays

TORONTO (AP) — Pitcher Bill Singer is not only the biggest disappointment for the Toronto Blue Jays — he's the most expensive. And that may be a matter for American League President Lee MacPhail to settle.

Singer, the highest-price player drafted by the new major league baseball club last fall, has been hampered by arm trouble and is in Santa Ana, Calif., for an operation on a ruptured disc in his back.

What Blue Jays General Manager Peter Bavasi didn't know when he drafted Singer was that the 33-year old righthander had signed a new contract with the Minnesota Twins guaranteeing him $100,000 a year through 1979 whether he pitches or not.

Singer, a former Pomona High star, had an $80,000 contract with the Texas Rangers for 1976.

"What apparently happened was that after Texas traded him to Minnesota a year ago June (they) the Twins signed him to this new contract for 1977 through '79" Bavasi says.

"I suppose Minnesota took one look at it and decided they'd get what they could out of him that year and then dump him into the expansion draft."

Bavasi adds that he didn't know about the new three-year pact when Singer was drafted. All he had been shown was the one-year agreement with Texas.

"So we're arguing that the Minnesota club is obliged to pay part of Singer's salary," Bavasi said. "We've been in touch with Lee MacPhail as well because we think the league has some responsibility in this case.

"I'm satisfied the whole thing will be ironed out at the administrative level without legal action.

"But, of course, the perfect solution would be if when Bill comes to camp next spring, he could pitch well enough to be a bargain at the price."

Singer, who has a record of 118 wins and 127 losses since coming up to the majors with the Los Angeles Dodgers in 1964, is 2-8 with the Blue Jays. He was 13-10 with Texas and Minnesota last year.

His best season was 1969 with the Dodgers when he was 20-12 with an earned-run average of 2.34.

Whatever happens, Singer will get his money. "We stand behind that regardless "says Bavasi. "But we feel we should get help with it. His contract was misrepresented to us by the Minnesota Twins."

Sports briefs

Navratilova honored

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Martina Navratilova was named World Team Tennis Player of the Week Tuesday, the WTT announced.

The Boston Lobsters' star overtook Chris Evert for the women's singles lead and extended her unbeaten string to 13 straight matches during the week ending last Saturday.

She also leads the league in total offense and, with Greer Stevens, leads in the women's doubles category.

Deem top qualifier

REDMOND, Wash. (AP) — Paul Deem of San Pedro, Calif., was the top qualifier Tuesday for the senior men's 4,000-meter individual pursuit in the U.S. National Cycling Championships.

Deem clocked a time of five minutes, 9.65 seconds to lead the 26 persons competing for the eight qualifying spots at the Marymoor Park Velodrome.

In three separate qualifying rounds for the midget boys' one-mile race, Grant Foster of San Diego, his brother, Gregory Foster, and Glen Driver of San Diego walked away with the top spots. Paul Dahlke, 8, of Richland, Wash., also qualfied for the finals on Thursday.

On Wednesday, two final races will be held, the junior women's individual pursuit and the senior men's kilometer time trial final.

Williams' son signs

MONTREAL (CP) — Lefthander Ricky Williams, the 20-year-old son of Montreal field manager Dick Williams, was signed to a professional baseball contract Tuesday by the National League Expos.

Williams, 6-foot-1 and 185 pounds, previously pitched for the University of Southern Alabama.

Court fight vowed

MIAMI — Miami Dolphins owner Joe Robbie, saying the integrity of professional football may be at stake, has vowed a court fight against a ruling that two players—suspended after being arrested on cocaine charges—be reinstated, traded or waived.

The Dolphins refused to reinstate and failed to trade the players, resorting to waivers on starting defensive linemen Randy Crowder and Don Reese. They players were not claimed by any other NFL team and thus became free agents.

Reese and Crowder had been suspended pending settlement of the drug-selling charges, the trial of which is set to begin Oct. 17.

The National Football League's Player-Club Relations Committee, composed of two players and two owners, had ordered the Dolphins last Friday to trade, waive or reinstate the two. That's the order Robbie vowed to fight.

Halder surprises

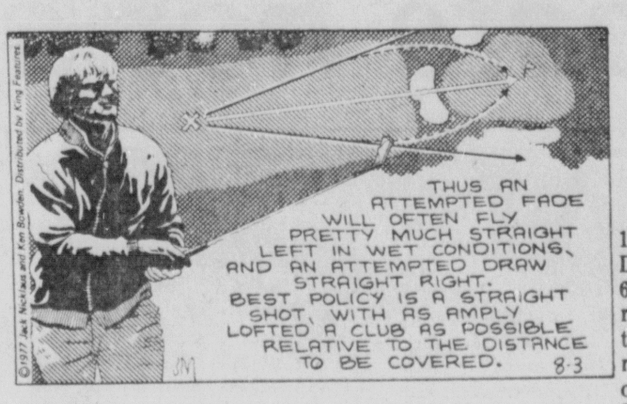

NORTH CONWAY, N.H. — Unknown Canadian Greg Halder eliminated third-seeded Raul Ramirez 6-4, 2-6, 6-4 in the second round of a $125,000 international tennis tournament.

The 21-year-old from Toronto, who has played in only three major tournaments in his tennis career, said he hitchhiked to North Conway on Saturday to qualify for the tournament.

Second-seeded Brian Gottfried had more trouble than expected but won his secondround match against South Africa's Jan Yuill, 6-3, 7-6.

D.A.V. (Southwest No. 1) will meet the Northwest Dodgers Thursday night at 6:30 p.m. as both squads recorded victories over their opponents Tuesday night in the loser's bracket of the Pomona City Senior Division Little League Tournament.

D.A.V. scored two runs in its last at bat to down the Pomona Police squad, 6-5. And the Northwest Dodgers overpowered Taco-Rita with a nine run explosion (9-0). The two squads, D.A.V. and the Dodgers, will play their contest on the Northwest diamond at Ralph Welch Park.

The Elks squad will meet the Straw Hat entry in the tourney in the winners bracket semifinal game at 6:30 p.m. Thursday on the Southwest diamond. There are no games tonight.

D.A.V. entered the seventh stanza trailing the Pomona Police squad, 5-4. However, the Southwest entry loaded the bases and scored two runs when a base hit off the bat of Brad Carrow skipped by centerfielder Robbie Kato. Shane Turner crossed to plate with the winnning tally as Kato chased after the rolling ball.

The Pomona Police had jumped off to a 4-1 lead in the first two frames but D.A.V. knotted the score at 4-4 in the fourth on three hits and three walks. The Police squad took a 5-4 advantage in the fifth on four walks and a sacrifice bunt.

It was a game of base on balls as there were 16 free passes handed out by the two squads. The Police squad had nine batters walk as Steve Barnes held the American No. 2 squad to just three hits.

Barnes collected two hits in three at bats for the D.A.V. squad. Darren Calderon led the Pomona Police squad's three-hit attack with two hits in four at bats.

The Northwest Dodgers chewed up Taco-Rita's pitching for nine runs and eight hits in coasting to a seven-run decision over the Southwest No. 2 squad.

Donnie Carter pitched a five hitter as he struckout eight batters and drove in two runs with a double and single. His bases loaded double put his squad ahead 3-0 in the third inning. The Dodgers led 5-0 before Taco-Rita scored two sixth inning runs off of Carter.

SW Louisiana off probation

LAFAYETTE, La. (AP) — The four-year probation imposed on the University of Southwestern Louisiana has been lifted by the National Collegiate Athletic Association, school officials said Tuesday.

The school, found guilty of basketball recruiting violations, was forbidden to play intercollegiate basketball for two years and put on probation in all sports for four years. The probation meant the school was ineligible for any postseason tournaments and could not appear in any televised contests.

Former Baron joins Kings

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Los Angeles Kings have signed free-agent left winger Charlie Simmer, formerly with the Cleveland Barons, the club announced Tuesday.

Simmer, 6-3, 195, "is a good, heavy checker who is rough in the corners," said Kings' General Manager George Maguire. "Cleveland tried to make a center out of him, but we feel he is primarily a left winger."

Simmer was sent to Cleveland's farm club in Salt Lake City and became a free agent when the team released all its players due to financial problems.

Fight results

OKLAHOMA CITY — Tony McMinn, Quapaw, Okla., knocked out Alfonso Aguirre, Mexico, 2, middleweights.

SACRAMENTO, Calif. — Pete Ranzany, 147, Sacramento, outpointed Babs McCarthy, 146, Seattle, 12.

Red Sox get shot in first

By Associated Press

The Boston Red Sox pulled off a successful run-and-hit play in the 10th inning and ran themselves right into first place in the "hop-scotch" American League East Division race.

Denny Doyle opened the 10th inning with a single and, one out later, raced to third on Rick Burleson's run-and-hit single. Doyle then scored on Fred Lynn's sacrifice fly to give the Red Sox a 3-2 victory over the Seattle Mariners.

"We were just running to stay out of the double play situation. We caught a little break—the guy leaned a little," said Boston Manager Don Zimmer of Seattle shortstop Craig Reynolds.

When Doyle broke for second, Reynolds moved to cover the bag and Burleson lined his single right behind the shortstop into left field.

"Eight out of 10 times Burleson hits it to the right side of the diamond," Zimmer said.

The victory gave Boston a .001 lead over idle Baltimore in the AL East battle. The New York Yankees defeated the California Angels 9-3 to pull to within 1½ games of the top.

Twins 9, Royals 4

A three-run homer by Butch Wynegar and Dan Ford's round-tripper powered Minnesota's victory over Kansas City. Right-hander Dave Goltz increased his record to 13-6, giving up 11 hits before Tom Burgmeier came on to get the final out.

Wynegar slammed his home run in the fifth inning off losing pitcher Andy Hassler, 6-4, as the Twins captured their 13th victory in their last 17 games.

Al Cowens knocked in three of the Kansas City runs with three singles.

Rangers 9, White Sox 8

Willie Horton's double drove home Bert Campaneris in the ninth inning as Texas rallied from a 7-0 deficit to nip Chicago. Campaneris led off the ninth with a single, moved to second on a sacrifice bunt and scored on Horton's double into the right-field corner.

The White Sox jumped to a 2-0 lead in the second inning following a one-hour, 45-minute rain delay. They eventually increased their lead to 7-0 in the sixth as Richie Zisk blasted his 22nd homer of the year with a runner on base in the fifth.

But Texas rallied with two runs in the seventh, then exploded for six more in the eighth, highlighted by Dave May's three-run homer. Chicago tied the game 8-8 in the bottom of the eighth, setting the stage for the Rangers' ninth-inning exploits.

Indians 9-7, Brewers 2-4

Bill Melton scored three times and drove in three runs to lead Cleveland over Milwaukee in the second game of their doubleheader. The Indians won the first game behind the seven-hit, 10-strikeout pitching of Dennis Eckersley, 10-8, and two RBI apiece by Buddy Bell, Rico Carty, Andre Thornton and Frank Duffy.

Padres 4, Phillies 2

Dave Kingman's two-run homer and the combined six-hit pitching of Bob Owchinko and Rollie Fingers gave San Diego its victory. Kingman's third-inning blast off loser Jim Kaat, 4-7, put the Padres ahead to stay.

Fingers came on in the eighth to preserve Owchinko's fourth victory against seven losses. Fingers entered with runners at second and third and none out and surrendered just one run on Mike Schmidt's sacrifice fly.

Cubs 5, Reds 2

The Cubs rallied for five runs in the eighth inning to beat the Reds and Mario Soto, the rookie who pitched a complete game against the Cubs in his major league debut last week.

With Cincinnati ahead 1-0 in the eighth, Soto walked Bill Buckner with two out. After Jerry Morales singled, Soto also walked Bobby Murcer and Steve Ontiveros to force in the tying run. He then walked pinch-hitter Jose Cardenal to force in the go-ahead run.

Chino, Pomona teams ready for Sectional

By JIM McCONNELL
PB Staff Writer

SAN BERNARDINO — The All-Star squads from the Chino National and Pomona American Little Leagues will try to take one more step towards Williamsport, Pa. this week as they open play in the Section 6 Tournament here at LL Western Regional Headquarters.

Chino National, champions from District 23, will open sectional play tonight at 7 p.m. vs Bassett, the District 60 winners.

Pomona American, which drew a bye in opening round action in the sectional, will meet Northview of Covina at 7 p.m. Friday in its opener.

Northview rallied to eliminate Alta Loma 4-3 on Tuesday night in the first game of the Sectional. Alta Loma, the District 21 champs, held a 3-0 lead after one inning but the Covina squad (the District 19 titlists) battled back for the victory.

Sectional finals are set to go Saturday at 7 at the Regional Headquarters diamond.

Winner of this week's Sectional will advance to a bi-divisional game next Monday at 7 p.m. vs. the winner of the Section 7 Tourney, currently being held in Barstow.

Both manager Joe Galindo of Chino National and manager Dick Clark of Pomona American plan no major changes in their starting lineups for the Sectional.

"Pitching is the key to it right now," commented Chino's Galindo. "If we get the pitching, and we should, and avoid mental mistakes, we'll do all right.

"We should be emotionally ready for Bassett," Galindo continued.

Galindo indicated that Robert Calley will start on the mound tonight vs. Bassett. Calley won two games in the District Tourney and also led his team in hitting with a 9-for-14 performance.

The rest of the National lineup consists of Ron Hodges, catcher; Bobby Martinez, first base; Gary Stouder, second base; Rick Perez, shortstop; Craig Hightower, third base; and Marc Alvo, Todd Wester and Mike Scarminach, outfielders.

Pomona American manager Dick Clark, a veteran of 16 years tutoring Little League squads, agrees with Galindo that the team which receives the good pitching and can avoid errors figures to be the Sectional winner.

"I think we should get good pitching," Clark said. "The key for us will be to not give in to the other team on defense. If we give our pitchers solid defense we'll be okay.

"We plan to go out there and give it our best shot, that's all you can ask of the kids. If we lose, we lose, but we don't want to be giving a game away at this stage in the season."

Clark plans to go with Edgar Ballesteros on the hill Friday vs. Northview. Ballesteros paced Pomona to the District 20 crown with a pair of shutout wins, including a no-hitter.

The rest of the American lineup shapes up as Richie Williams, catcher; Pat Trejo, first base; John Kandcer, second base; Joey Lelko, shortstop; Kenneth Hendricks, third base; and Brett Handy, Victor Lara and Gary Liberty, outfielders.

Corso dislikes Big Ten slate

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP) — The Big Ten conference needs to move forward with new ideas and concepts, according to Indiana University Coach Lee Corso.

Corso, concerned by empty seats at late-season conference football games, said Tuesday that reducing the number of league games could help fill those seats.

"People will come out to see a football game if you have a winning record," said Corso. "But it's difficult to get a winning record in our conference because most of the teams are balanced in strength and knock each other off.

"Changes are necessary to keep the league going financially," he added. "Ohio State and Michigan won't die. They're selling tickets. But the other schools need help."

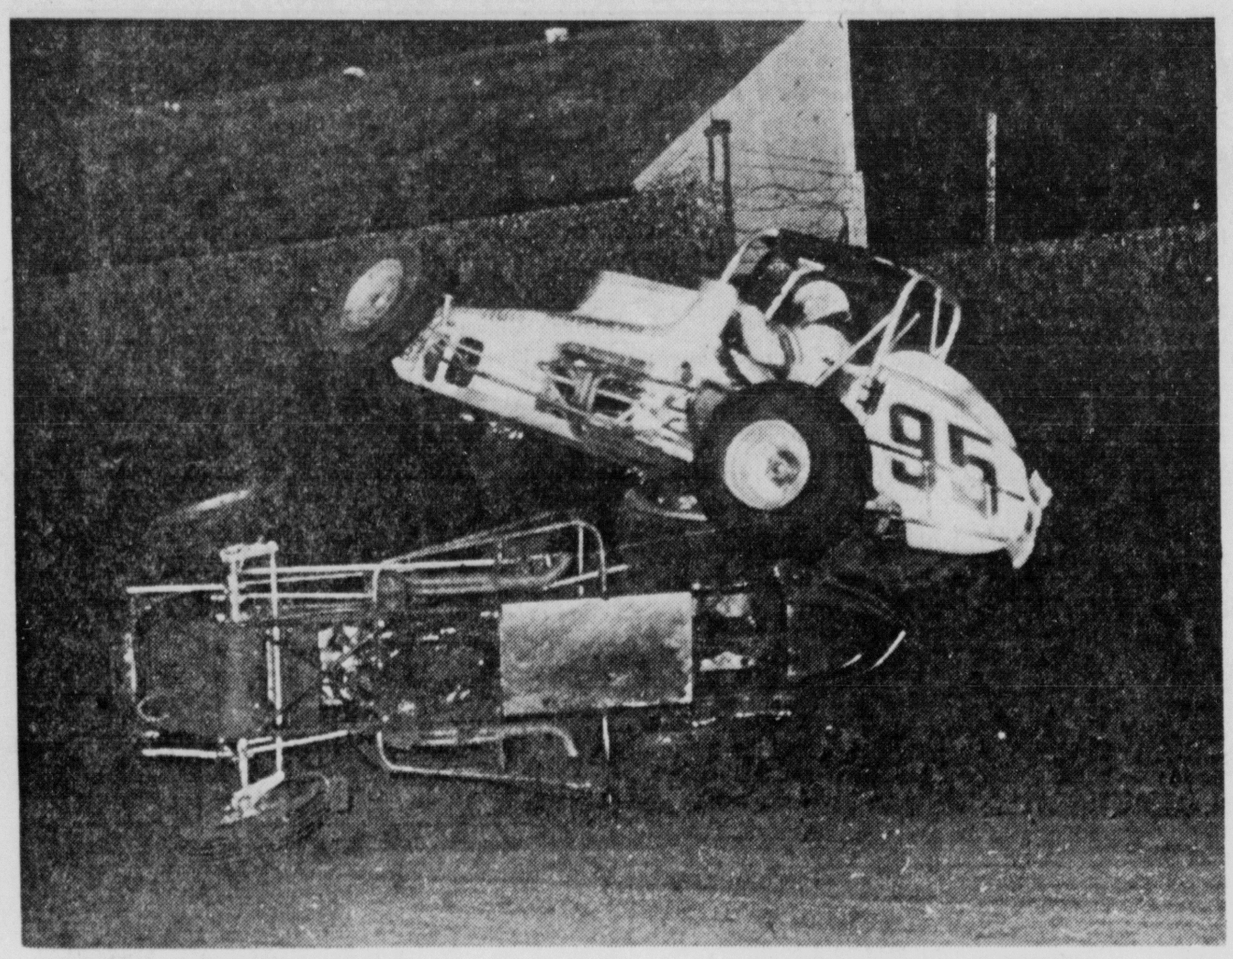

The Big Ten currently requires members to play eight conference games. And all nonconference games must be completed within the first four weeks of the season.

However, in 1980, nine conference games will be required of Big Ten members.

Corso would like the league schedule cut to six games, with the five nonconference games permitted any time during the season.

"We'd play Notre Dame and Kentucky whenever we could," Corso said.

CBS to air Grand Prix

Auto racing

LONG BEACH — CBS Sports will broadcast the Long Beach Grand Prix in each of the next four years (through 1981) as a result of an agreement between Lirol Productions of Burbank, and the Long Beach Grand Prix Association. Live coverage of the Grand Prix, run through the streets of Long Beach, will be broadcast yearly in the late March-early April time period.

Lirol Productions, who produced the first three highly rated broadcasts had already picked up the third year option of their original contract to produce the April 2, 1978 event.

Cristopher R. Pook, President of the Grand Prix Association said, "Signing a long term contract is very unusual, emphasizing the importance of our event here in Long Beach and proving its growth in stature." He added, "Last year's ratings, which netted 16-million viewers in the United States and Canada and grossed over 53-million viewers worldwide, proved to the television industry that an event as unusual as 200-mph Grand Prix cars racing through the city streets will attract such a large audience."

This year's coverage by CBS on April 3 marked the first live start-to-finish broadcast of a Grand Prix event.

Barry Frank, Vice President, CBS Sports said: "This agreement is another step in our increased commitment to auto racing in general, and to the classic sport of Formula One racing in particular."

Petty moves ahead

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Richard Petty has taken the lead in the points race of the National Association for Stock Car Auto Racing.

The six-times champion, moved eight points ahead of defending champ Cale Yarborough by finishing second in a 500-miler at Pocono, Pa., Sunday. Yarborough finished sixth.

Ricky Rudd drove to seventh place, his best of the season, and took a one-point lead over Sam Sommers in the rookie-of-the-year standings.

After 18 races on the 30-race $4.5 million Grand National circuit, Petty has 2,958 points and Yarborough 2,950.

Benny Parsons, who won at Pocono, is third with 2,723, followed by Darrell Waltrip 2,670; Buddy Baker 2,428; Richard Brooks 2,302; Cecil Gordon 2,136; Richard Childress 2,045; Bobby Allison 2,035, and James Hylton 1,966.

Yarborough continues to lead in money won with $252,105. Petty has $227,055. Then come Parsons $160,411; Waltrip $152,383; Baker $116,480; David Pearson $99,911; Brooks $83,100; Dave Marcis $64,920; Neil Bonnett $58,040, and Gordon $54,545.

Sprint car film to be shown

The Ontario Motor Speedway Victory Circle Restaurant will host the first West Coast Showing of the color action film "Dirt Track Racing — Hoosier Style" Friday night.

The film, which features several past and present USAC driving stars in wild, crash-filled footage, is part of an evening of racing entertainment planned by the California Racing Association.

Also on tap for the program will be several additional racing films, live music and dancing, door prizes and racing celebrities.

Tickets will be available at the door for $4. Doors will open at 7 p.m. with "Dirt Track Racing — Hoosier Style" showing at 8 and 10 p.m. Free parking is available immediately outside the restaurant in the main terrace at OMS.

The California Racing Association (CRA) is staging the event as part of its 1977 promotional campaign to introduce more area residents to sprint car racing.

Further information may be obtained by calling CRA at (714) 737-0918.

Forster takes lead

GARDENA — Bob Forster, Jr., of Pomona took over the top spot in the points standings for the Winston Modified Series at Ascot Park last weekend.

The Pomona driver placed second to Castaic's Conny Burdett in a 30-lap feature race for NASCAR stock cars, giving him 188 points thus far. Highland's Rick Becker and Santa Maria's Dan Simkins are tied for second with 178 points and Burdett stands fourth with 170.

Forster will continue his fight for the $1,000 bonus from the R.J. Reynolds Tobacco Co. Winston racing team Friday night at Ascot at 8:30 p.m.

The modified drivers will stage a "Kids' Ride Night." Children under 14 will be allowed to take a trip around the Ascot half-mile with their favorite drivers.

Southland racing

SAN BERNARDINO — USRC midgets will make their monthly visit to the Orange Show Speedway Saturday night, sharing the doubleheader program with the hobby stocks starting at 7:30 p.m. Alta Loma driver Danny McKnight, who has scored two main event wins and a second-place finish in the three nights of 1977 midget competition at the speedway, will be back in his Rimco Miller Volkswagen powered midget. Time trials begin at 6 p.m.

CORONA — Flat track motorcycle racing is scheduled for tonight at 7:30 and motocross will go Friday at 7:30 p.m. at Corona Raceway. Figure 8, super stocks, novice figure 8 and street stocks are all on Saturday night's program along with a destruction derby. Action begins at 7:30 p.m.

GARDENA — Super midget competition will get under way tonight at 8 at Ascot Park with CMC motorcycle racing scheduled for Thursday at 7:30 p.m. NASCAR Winston Modified Stock Car Series will continue with "Kids Ride Night" Friday at 8:30 p.m. and CRA sprint cars will go Saturday at 8 p.m. Jimmy Insolo of Mission Hills will be among the drivers for Sunday's Winston West Grand National for NASCAR late-model stock cars, which will begin at 8:30 p.m.

SAUGUS — Street stocks will compete in two 20-lap main events, heat races, a semi-main and a trophy dash while figure 8 drivers will run two 20-lap mains, heat races and a trophy dash Saturday at Saugus Speedway. There will also be a destruction derby. Time trials begin at 6:30 p.m. with the first race at 8 o'clock.

VALENCIA — AME motocross summer series, AME mini-motocross and SFVKC go kart racing are all scheduled for Friday beginning at 8 p.m. CRC motocross will begin at 9 a.m. Sunday, as will ATC Fun Day Meet on the All-Terrain Track.

Shero sets rules for players' wives

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Philadelphia Flyers' coach Fred Shero is noted for his frequent and often philosophical messages to his players posted on the National Hockey League team's bulletin board. Now the eccentric mentor has messaged his players' wives.

Shero sent the following eight-point memorandum to the 23 wives this week:

TO All Hockey Player Wives

RE Ice Rules for Hockey Wives.

How can you as Mrs. Hockey Player become a member of the hockey club without ever scoring a goal?

1. Talk about other players only as you want heard about your own husband.

2. Don't let the ups and downs of your husband's career or the way he is going on the ice, at any given time, affect your behavior.

3. No error is funny because your man has 80 games a year in which to duplicate it or maybe make a worse one.

4. Fans may upset you but as long as he is on the ice, he belongs to the team and to the game, not to you.

5. Trades are made by the front office. Though good friends are leaving, the merits of a trade belong in the front office. No trade is ever approved by Good Housekeeping.

6. Since your husband is in the NHL, he is a star. The life of the wives of the stars is a happy one. The paydays have been healthy and regular for a long time. Your husband plays every game and every night seems like Academy Award Night. Your biggest question may be deciding what products to endorse. The wives of the stars must become the natural leaders of the hockey wives society. You must be careful not to form a tight clique or the hockey club could find itself in a struggle between the high-rent district and the middle class instead of one for the title.

7. Tell your husband you don't play hockey, you WORK at hockey. The true hockey wife knows that hockey is not a game when your paycheck depends on his ability to perform.

8. Your husband is something special to us and to you. Help us care for him.

Sincerely,
Fred Shero,
Head Coach

Franks gets new contract

CHICAGO (AP) — The contract of Chicago Cubs Manager Herman Franks has been extended through the 1978 season, the club announced Tuesday.

"We are extremely pleased with the job he has done on the field this year and wanted to give him this vote of confidence," Bob Kennedy, vice president of baseball operations, said.

The Cubs moved into first place in the Eastern Division of the National League on May 28.

Benitez, Auguello on fight card

NEW YORK (AP) — Wilfredo Benitez, the champion of a shrinking world, and Alexis Auguello, a champion before he got too heavy for his world, fight tonight in Madison Square Garden.

Benitez, of Puerto Rico, will fight Jose Guerrera Chavez, a Venezuelan living in Montreal, in a scheduled 15-rounder sanctioned by the New York Athletic Commission as being for the junior welterweight title.

Benitez won WBA title recognition by outpointing Antonio Cervantes March 6, 1976, but was then stripped by the WBA for not defending against Cervantes within a prescribed time after he had been given one postponement because of an auto accident. The World Boxing Council recognizes Sansak Muansurin of Thailand as champion.

The 19-year-old Benitez, who plans to leave the 140-pound class soon to start campaigning as a welterweight (147), goes into the fight with a record of 29-0-1, with 22 knockouts. Chavez is 29-6-2, with 15 knockouts.

Arguello, of Nicaragua, who gave up the title of the featherweight or 126-pound class, will fight Jose Fernandez of New York in a scheduled 10-round junior lightweight (130) bout.

The 25-year-old Arguello, who stands 5 feet 9, exceptionally tall for a fighter of his weight, is campaigning for a shot at the WBC junior lightweight championship held by Alfredo Escalera of Puerto Rico.

Arguello has a record of 51-30, with 42 knockouts. Fernandez, who was stopped in the 13th round by Escalera Feb. 20, 1976, is 29-8-3, with 17 knockouts.

An eight-rounder on the show will match unbeaten lightweights Julio Valdez of New York and Marcus Barahona of Nicaragua. Valdez is 17-0-1, with 17 knockouts and Barahona is 7-0-0, with one knockout.

Joyce Brothers

Beastly to beauties

DEAR DR. JOYCE BROTHERS: Like most men, I just can't resist a pretty girl. Unfortunately, I have married and divorced three and am now wed to a fourth. As soon as I can afford the alimony, she will be an "ex" too. In a sense, I suppose a lot of trouble is my fault, but it seems that after a few years these women got impossible. They were spoiled and vain. I don't think any man could satisfy them. Two of my three former wives have remarried, and are now divorced again. There's small comfort in that for me, however, in my present state. — G.D.

DEAR G.D.: I don't know whether you've got a penchant for marriage or are only using the eyes in your head instead of your brains.

Certainly most men appreciate a pretty woman, but they look for other qualities as well. There are men, and I suspect you are one, who prefer an attractive woman as a sop to their egos. They feel such women are status symbols and they use them to impress others and to add to their own stature. That attitude reflects an adolescent outlook, more concerned with surface gloss than with substance.

Men who are consistently drawn to beautiful women rarely develop more than a limited relationship with them. They tend to view such women as sex objects, someone to be enjoyed and displayed. Though they may like the women, they are inclined to have exaggerated expectations regarding marriage. Having never fully explored the woman's personality beyond a superficial enchantment with their beauty, such men are most apt to enter marriage with all sorts of fantasies, only to have them dashed early on.

There's another side to the story, as well. Studies indicate that most beautiful women are not happy. Men either shy away from an overly beautiful woman, fearing rejection, or they feel uncomfortable with the sexual aggression suggested by the woman's appearance and in time come to resent it.

As you have found out, beauty is not always its own reward.

DEAR DR. JOYCE BROTHERS: There is a 10-year gap between my husband and myself. During our 15 years of marriage I didn't feel that it mattered, but lately I have reason for concern. I must admit that I have never fully enjoyed the sexual intimacy of marriage, although I always attempted to please and accommodate my husband. Now, at 40, I find that my interest and desire are increasing while my husband's seem to have declined. He finds all manner of excuses not to have relations. I know there is no other woman; he just seems turned off. Nothing I do apparently attracts him sufficiently to approach or make love to me. I'm starting to climb walls. — Frantic at 40.

DEAR FAF: The greatest attraction you could offer your husband at this point is understanding. It is one of the ironies of life that male and female sexual maturity peaks at different times. A man's sex drive is strongest from about age 18 to 25 while a woman's intensity does not begin until the mid-30s or early 40s. This may explain why so many older women now are turning to younger men for companionship and sex.

Most people do not realize that men experience a menopause. They undergo a decided decrease in sexual function, if not a total loss or impotence. Usually it's only a temporary state.

If you can be patient, help your husband hold on to his self-confidence and self-esteem, he will gradually pass through this period of turmoil, self-doubt and anxiety. He is undoubtedly as frustrated by this mid-life impotence as you are. If you can weather this storm together, you are sure to come to a better understanding of each other and a closer relationship later on. There are many rewarding, sexually satisfying years ahead, if you appreciate his problems and avoid making too many sexual demands.

Couple observes 35th anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. H. Allen Curtiss of Pomona celebrated their 35th wedding anniversary at a reception and renewal of vows ceremony performed by Dr. John Black at Trinity Methodist Church. The reception was held in the home of their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Hendrix.

Assisting the host and hostess were the Curtisses' other daughters, Anita Curtiss and Lynne Curtiss.

During the church ceremony the couple's daughters stood as attendants and their son-in-law served as best man.

Mr. and Mrs. Curtiss were married July 25, 1942, at Dillon, S. C. They have resided in this area for 19 years.

Mr. Curtiss is retired from Southern California Gas Co., after 28 years service. They are members of Trinity United Methodist Church and Mrs. Curtiss is a member of Mt. Baldy Council, Camp Fire Girls. Mr. Curtiss is active in Community Alert Patrol and the Wilderness Society.

Fragemans mark golden anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. John H. Frageman of Pomona recently celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary.

The Fragemans were married July 20, 1927, in Pleasant Hill, Mo. After living in Indiana until 1950, they moved to Pomona.

Mr. Frageman owned and operated a Western Auto store in Attica, Ind., then became semi-retired in Pomona, where he has owned an apartment complex on East Holt avenue.

The Fragemans have one son and three grandchildren and are members of Trinity Methodist Church.

Personalized gift awarded by columnist

Readers of Polly Pointer columns which run on Sunday in the Progress Bulletin are encouraged to send in items for the column.

For those whose items are selected for publication in "Polly's Pointers" column Polly has a blue and white "Clipit" with a message inscribed. The gift is used as a handy newspaper/coupon clipper.

One such subscriber who will see her item in print on Aug. 14 is Mrs. Isabell Tranchard of Pomona.

Geriatrics

"Americans suffer from a personal and institutionalized prejudice against older persons," according to the director of the National Institute on Aging, who urged that geriatric medicine be introduced into the curriculum of medical schools, intern and residency training, and into programs of continuing education.

Claremont Singles schedule meeting

Claremont Adult Singles will hear a talk by a member of the Chaffey College faculty when the group meets at 8 p.m., Aug. 12, in the Round Room of the Claremont United Methodist Church.

Speaker will be Clifford Sumrall and he will discuss esoteric psychology and a new approach to politics.

Mr. Sumrall is director of speech and forensics at Chaffey College and is a candidate in the Republican primary in the 35th District. He is a native candidate and resides in Etiwanda. He has been named twice as Teacher of the Year.

Further information on the meeting may be obtained by calling Jim Buntain, 822-3053, after 4:30 p.m.

Un-roughing it

Walking barefoot on the beach can help rid your feet of the rough spots you accumulated during the winter. If it doesn't work entirely, then use a pumice stone in the bath.

Search, destroy

To get rid of bothersome houseflies, eliminate their breeding places, keep them out of the house and kill those that manage to get inside.

"Keep garbage containers clean and tightly sealed, and clean up dog droppings and food scraps in the yard," suggests Leslie Wood, Johnson Wax consumer information specialist. She also advises keeping screens in good repair and using an airborne insecticide such as Raid Flying Insect Killer, when flies get into the house.

Food for adventuresome Americans

Fruitful salad with Athenian red dressing is 'zesty' fare

Americans love globe-trotting, and they travel with the same zest and spirit of adventure as Jules Verne's fabled Phineas Fogg in his fabulous balloon. Whether off on a fantastic eighty day trip, or a jet streaking week, one's bound to bring back many a happy memory and some treasured mementos, too. Of the many rewards of travel, the discovery of delectable new dishes is one of the most delightful, and it's especially pleasing when one can add them to their recipe repertoire to enjoy at home.

Here are three delectably different cranberry recipes with a foreign flair you may have enjoyed abroad. If not, once you make them they're bound to become favorites of family and friends.

From Greece, "Fruitful Salad with Athenian Red Dressing" can serve as a refreshing luncheon, or as an accompaniment to a poultry or beef dinner. This exotic salad combines sliced oranges, diced apples, grapes, melon, figs, greens and a sprinkling of sesame seeds. It is anointed with a tangy dressing prepared with salad oil, orange rind and juice, crystallized ginger, cranberry juice cocktail and jellied cranberry sauce.

From India comes a recipe gem, "Calcutta Curry with C/anberry Orange Chutney." This flavorsome curry combines butter, chopped onion, and apple, flour, chicken broth, cranberry juice cocktail, cream, and curry powder with whole shrimp and diced chicken. Serve the curry with saffron rice and a piquant chutney easily made with cranberry-orange relish, prepared mincemeat, crystallized ginger and Italian dressing. Round out your meal with a salad of crisp greens and raw vegetables, and a pitcher of thirst-quenching iced tea mixed with cranberry apple drink.

From the glorious cuisine of France comes a superb dessert, "Cranberry Gateau Parisien." The use of prepared cake mix eases the preparation of this elegant recipe. Also, for added convenience, the layers for the cake might be made a day or two ahead and kept well wrapped and refrigerated. When ready to create the gateau, whole berry cranberry sauce is spread on the cake layers, and then the sides are decoratively covered with meringue. The cake is baked for a short time till the meringue is lightly browned. After cooling, it is sprinkled with orange liqueur, topped with peach halves and a fluff of whipped cream. Certainly a wondrous confection which would make any dining occasion very special.

These "out of this world" recipes from around the world are sure to be greeted with enthusiasm every time you make them.

FRUITFUL SALAD WITH ATHENIAN RED DRESSING

Fruit Salad:
- 2 navel oranges, peeled and cut into thin slices
- 2 cups diced unpeeled apples
- 2 cups stemmed seedless grapes
- 2 cups diced, peelgd honeydew melon
- 1½ cups drained canned kadota figs
- Bite-size salad greens
- ¼ cup toasted sesame seeds

Dressing:
- 1 cup salad oil
- Grated rind of 1 orange
- ½ cup orange juice
- 2 tablespoons finely chopped crystallized ginger
- ½ cup cranberry juice cocktail
- 1/3 cup jellied cranberry sauce
- Salt

Arrange fruits in clusters on a platter lined with salad greens. Sprinkle sesame seeds over fruit. Combine all dressing ingredients. Beat until smooth and thick. Serve salad and pass the dressing. Spoon dressing over each serving, as desired. Serves six.

CALCUTTA CURRY WITH CRANBERRY ORANGE CHUTNEY

Indian Curry:
- ¼ cup butter or margarine
- 1 onion, chopped
- 1 apple, peeled, cored and chopped
- ½ cup all-purpose flour
- 1 to 2 tablespoons curry powder
- 1 can (10¾ ounces) condensed chicken broth, undiluted
- 1 cup cranberry juice cocktail
- 1 pint (2 cups) half-and-half
- 1 pound shrimp, cooked, shelled and deveined
- 2 cups diced cooked chicken or turkey
- Salt and pepper
- Hot saffron rice from a mix

Cranberry Chutney:
- 1 cup cranberry-orange relish
- ½ cup prepared mincemeat
- 2 tablespoons chopped crystallized ginger
- ¼ cup Italian salad dressing

In a large saucepan, melt butter and cook onion and apple until soft, stirring occasionally, about 5 minutes. Stir in flour and curry powder. Gradually stir in chicken broth, cranberry juice and half-and-half. Cook stirring constantly over low heat until sauce bubbles and thickens. Stir in shrimp and chicken. Season to taste with salt and pepper. Simmer again until bubbly. Serve hot spooned over saffron rice. Serve with Cranberry Chutney. To prepare chutney, combine all chutney ingredients and stir until well blended. Serves six.

CRANBERRY GATEAU PARISIEN
- 1 package (17 ounces) poundcake mix
- 3 egg whites
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- 1 cup sugar
- 1 can (1 pound) whole berry cranberry sauce
- 1/3 cup orange liqueur
- 6 canned cling peach halves, well drained
- Whipped cream or dessert topping

Prepare poundcake mix according to package directions. Bake cake in a greased and floured 8 inch square baking pan for 1 to 1¼ hours. Cook cake in pan 10 minutes, unmold cake and finish cooling on a rack. Split cooled cake into two equal layers. Place 1 layer on a cookie sheet lined with foil. In bowl with fork mix cranberry sauce well. Spread layer with ¾ of the cranberry sauce. Top with second layer. In a bowl, beat egg whitgs and salt until stiff. Beat in sugar 1 tablespoon at a time, beating until stiff and glossy and sugar is completely dissolved. Spread most of this meringue over the sides of the cake only. Place remaining meringue into a pastry bag with a large star tip. Decorate the top edges and sides of the cake. Bake meringue in a preheated slow oven (275 degrees) for 40 to 45 minutes or until meringue is hard and crusty and beige in color. Remove cake from oven and cool. Carefully loosen cake and place cake on platter. Sprinkle top of cake with orange liqueur. Top cake with peach halves rounded side up. Spoon remaining cranberry sauce around peach halves. Decorate with whipped cream. Serve at once. Makes one 9-inch square cake.

Rainbow trout, halibut with international flair

By Aileen Claire
NEA Food Editor

Rainbow trout Scandinavian and halibut Peking style are two dishes that will get you out of the barbecued hamburgers, chicken or steak rut.

The trout is a definite departure from pan-frying or simple baking of fish since it is dipped in an egg-and-grated-cheese batter, then dredged with toasted bread crumbs and baked.

Serve with your favorite potatoes and a fresh garden salad.

RAINBOW TROUT SCANDINAVIAN
- 6 pan-dressed rainbow trout or other small fish, fresh or frozen
- 1 teaspoon salt
- Dash pepper
- 1 cup chopped parsley
- ¼ cup butter or margarine, softened
- 1 egg, beaten
- ¼ cup milk
- 1 teaspoon salt
- ¾ cup toasted dry bread crumbs
- ½ cup grated Swiss cheese
- 3 tablespoons melted fat or oil

Thaw frozen fish. Clean, wash and dry fish. Sprinkle inside with salt and pepper. Add parsley to butter and mix thoroughly. Spread inside of each fish with approximately 1 tablespoon parsley butter. Combine egg, milk and salt. Combine crumbs and cheese. Dip fish in egg mixture and roll in crumb mixture. Place on a well-greased cookie sheet, 12, 15 inches. Sprinkle remaining crumb mixture over top of fish. Drizzle fat over fish. Bake in 500-degree oven, for 10 to 15 minutes or until fish flakes easily when tested with a fork. Serves 6.

HALIBUT PEKING-STYLE
- 1 egg white
- 3 teaspoons corn starch
- 1 pound halibut steak
- ½ cup corn oil
- ½ cup chicken broth
- ¼ cup dry sherry or apple juice
- 1 tablespoon dark corn syrup
- ¼ teaspoon salt

Mix egg white and a teaspoon of the corn starch until blended. Thaw fish steak if frozen and dip fish steak in egg mixture, coating all sides. Heat corn oil over medium heat in large skillet. Add fish steak and sear on both sides, about 2 minutes. Remove fish from skillet. Mix together broth, sherry, corn starch and salt. Pour into skillet. Bring to boil over medium heat, stirring constantly, until thickened. Place fish steak in skillet and cook about 2 minutes on each side or until fish flakes easily when tested with fork. To serve, remove fish from sauce, place on platter and pour sauce over fish. Makes 2 to 3 servings.

For today's health-conscious society

Grape blintzes, custard pie provide nutritious desserts

In today's health-conscious society, desserts must contain more than sugar, fat and starch to justify their existence on family menus.

Nutritious desserts that help round out a meal are the kind most families are choosing today. Fruit is always a good choice for dessert and probably the simplest and least fattening dessert you can find. Fruit juice is another good choice and can be made into a refreshing dessert. Just pour undiluted frozen concordgrape juice over crushed ice and you have a purple iceberg. Or heat the grape juice and serve over vanilla ice cream.

Meals that are low in dairy products can be balanced by putting milk, ice cream, yogurt or cottage cheese in the dessert course. Suggested here are three desserts that do just that. Grape Blintzes contain six ounces of cream cheese, sixteen ounces of cottage cheese and three-fourths cup of milk, as well as sour cream. Concord Custard Pie has two and one-half cups of milk. And Yogurt Deluxe is made with sixteen ounces of yogurt. All three recipes are flavored with delicious, energy-giving concordgrape products.

GRAPE BLINTZES

2 packages (3 ounces each) cream cheese, softened
1 container (8 ounces) small curd cottage cheese
1 egg, slightly beaten
¼ cup golden raisins
2 teaspoons grated lemon peel
⅛ teaspoon salt
1 cup sifted flour
¼ teaspoon salt
¾ cup milk
2 eggs, well beaten
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
Sour cream
Grape jelly
Finely chopped pecans or walnuts

For filling, combine cream cheese, cottage cheese, egg, raisins, lemon peel and ⅛ teaspoon salt.

For batter, sift together flour and ¼ teaspoon salt. Stir in milk and eggs; beat until smooth.

Heat buttered crepe pan or 7-inch skillet. Pour enough batter into pan to cover bottom. Cook until golden brown. Remove from pan and keep warm. Repeat making 8 pancakes. Divide filling among pancakes. Roll up folding in sides to make neat packages.

Heat 2 tablespoons butter in large skillet. Add blintzes and brown on all sides. Serve hot topped with sour cream, grape jelly and sprinkled with nuts. Makes 8 servings.

CONCORD CUSTARD PIE

4 eggs
2/3 cup sugar
½ teaspoon salt
2½ cups milk
1 teaspoon vanilla
¾ cup shredded coconut
1 unbaked 9-inch pastry shell
1 can (6 ounces) frozen grape drink or juice concentrate, undiluted
1 tablespoon cornstarch
2 tablespoons slivered lemon peel
¼ cup drained crushed pineapple

Beat eggs lightly with rotary beater. Add sugar and salt and beat until thick and lemon colored. Gradually beat in milk and vanilla. Strain through fine sieve. Add coconut. Pour into prepared pastry shell. Bake at 425 degrees for 15 minutes. Reduce heat to 350 degrees and bake 12 to 15 minutes longer until knife inserted midway between center and rim comes out clean. (Center will set upon standing.) Do not overbake. Cool on wire rack to room temperature.

Meanwhile, combine grape drink and cornstarch in saucepan. Bring to boil, stirring, until thickened and smooth. Stir in lemon peel and pineapple. Serve, cooled, over pie. Makes 8 servings.

YOGURT DELUXE

½ cup grape juice
1 tablespoon unflavored gelatin
3 cups concordgrape preserves or jam
2 containers (8 ounces each) unflavored yogurt
1 teaspoon grated lemon peel
1 teaspoon almond extract
Sweetened whipped cream

In saucepan, combine grape juice and gelatin. Cook, stirring, over low heat, until gelatin is dissolved. Stir in grape preserves, yogurt, lemon peel and almond extract. Chill until slightly thickened. Beat over ice until creamy. Spoon into dessert dishes. Chill until set. Garnish with whipped cream. Makes 6 servings.

Orange banana flambe

According to 17th century French lore, Louis XIV, an insatiable gourmand, had problems besides love affairs and problems of state. Every dish intended for him had to be carried down long, drafty halls from distant kitchens. It then had to be first taste-tested by his attendant courtiers. Consequently, the King's food was usually cold! Oranges were a special favorite with Louis, because their flavor never suffered from being cold.

Surely King Louis would consider you lucky to live in an age of informality, modern cooking conveniences, and fresh western citrus fruits so readily available and plentiful in the markets. Dishes like Easy and Elegant Orange Banana Flambe bring flair 'n flourish and freshness to the table in a chafing dish. Orange segments and banana pieces are simply combined in a refreshing syrup, heated, then set aflame with brandy. Voila! A dessert to please your diners that's both simple, elegant and warm.

"EASY & ELEGANT" ORANGE BANANA FLAMBE

3 large oranges
3 large, very firm bananas, peeled
2 tablespoons fresh squeezed lemon juice
2 tablespoons sugar
½ cup seedless raspberry jam
1 teaspoon fresh grated orange peel
¼ cup fresh squeezed orange juice
3 tablespoons Courvoisier, Grand Marnier or dark rum

To remove orange peel easily, soak fruit in hot tap water about 3 minutes. Score peel into quarters and remove with fingers. Separate oranges into natural segments; set aside. Split bananas; cut crosswise into 4 pieces. Combine with lemon juice in medium bowl, stir with fingers to coat each piece with juice. Cover with oranges; sprinkle oranges with sugar. Cover with saran; refrigerate at least 30 minutes but can be held up to 6 hours. At dessert time, combine raspberry jam, orange peel and juice in chafing dish or large skillet. Heat until bubbly; add brandy and set aflame. Bubble a moment longer then add fruit mixture. Stir gently until well coated with sauce and warmed. Serve immediately.

Walnut Custards

Add crisp California Walnuts to tender baked custards for extra, richer flavor and texture contrast in each bite. Make it simply by putting chopped toasted walnut kernels and dots of butter into the cups before the egg mixture goes in. Or try other delicious variations teaming walnuts with broken graham crackers, or snipped dried apricots and moist, flavorful sun-sweetened prunes. Bake your usual way after dusting custard tops with nutmeg. Since they're good warm or cold, make a double batch for breakfast or dessert, keeping what's left for snacktime.

Chinese turkey breast recipe

The intriguing flavors of the Orient always make dishes doubly inviting. "Chinese Turkey Breast" is starred with thin Chinese noodles and tender-crisp pea pods. Condiments of hot mustard, toasted sesame seeds, the popular soy sauce and plump preserved kumquats make this turkey entree a regal offering.

Start with a half breast of California turkey weighing 2¼ pounds. Marinate it for a brief time in a mixture of soy, sugar and barbecue sauce. Then roast, covering the pan with foil the last half hour to prevent the rich marinade from overbrowning and to keep the meat juicy and moist. Delicious hot, equally inviting cold.

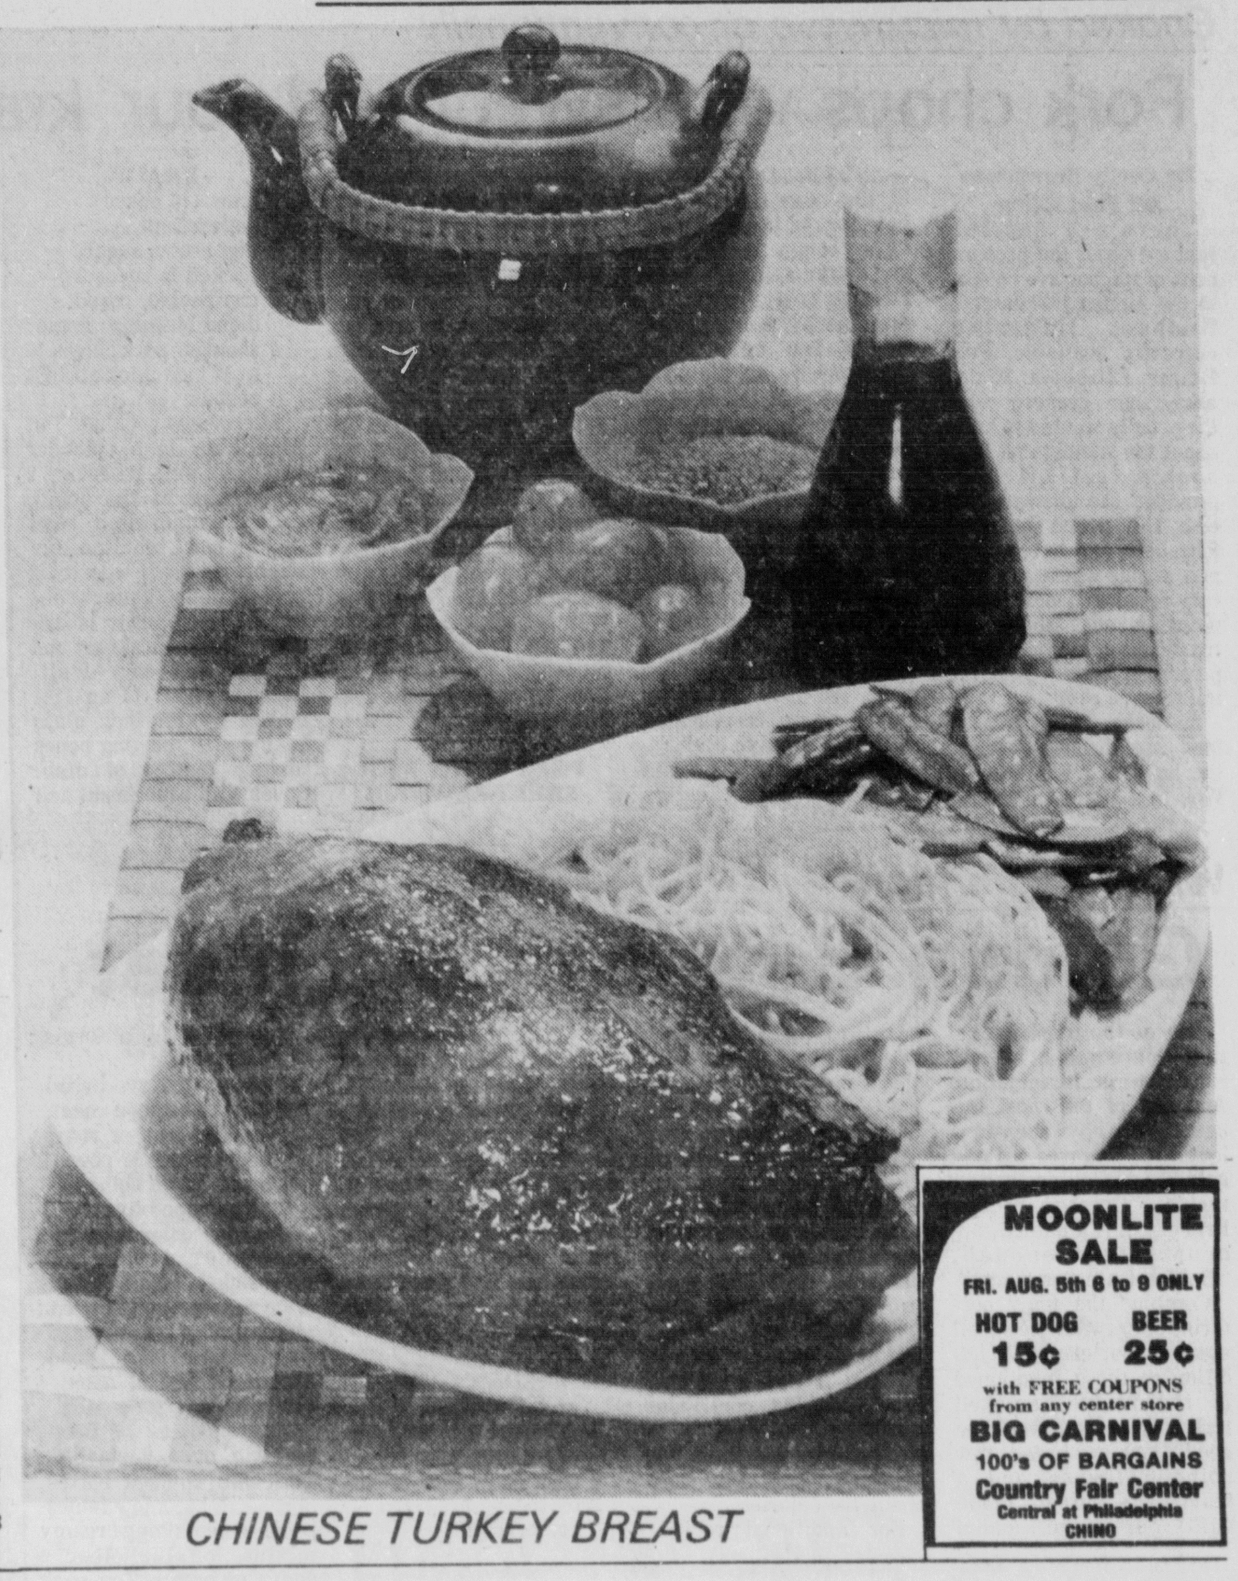

There is practically no waste to turkey breast. The thin rib cage is small proportion to the meat. Although the breast may be boned before cooking, it is not necessary and the bones do add flavor.

With California-grown turkey generally available and in so many forms, homemakers find it one of the best meat buys today. Turkey is such a good source of lean meat, high in protein and rich in other important nutrients, at today's prices it can help win the budget battle.

CHINESE TURKEY BREAST

1 half breast turkey (about 2¼ to 2½ pounds)
½ cup soy sauce
¼ cup sugar
¼ cup bottled barbecue sauce
¼ cup water
½ teaspoon onion powder
¼ teaspoon salt

Crack or cut rib cage of turkey breast, and fold under. Place in a 9-inch square baking pan. Combine all remaining ingredients. Pour over turkey, and roll meat over in the sauce. Cover and marinate 2 hours, turning or spooning marinade over turkey occasionally. Turn skin side up. Roast, uncovered, in a 450 degree oven for 20 minutes, basting frequently. Turn thermostat down to 325 degrees and roast 1 hour longer, basting occasionally. Cover pan with foil last half hour of cooking. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Makes good picnic combination

Marinated 'cucumbers' with fresh scallions recipe set

By Aileen Claire
NEA Food Editor

Marinated cucumbers make refreshing salads and are very easy to do. If your garden or that of a neighbor's is overflowing with this tasty vegetable, include it in your picnic or luncheon menus often. For extra zip add scallions and serve chilled. This combination also is good as a filling for hero or submarine sandwiches.

Another picnic favorite, a potato salad makes almost a complete meal when you add diced cooked ham and a variety of fresh, chopped vegetables. When taking potato salad to a picnic chill it well and then keep in an insulated chest with ice until serving time. Return to the chest to keep the salad chilled and to avoid possible spoilage and food poisoning.

MARINATED CUCUMBERS WITH FRESH SCALLIONS

4 large cucumbers, pared and thinly sliced
2 teaspoons salt
3 scallions, sliced, including green part
1 tablespoon chopped fresh dill
1 tablespoon chopped fresh parsley
1 lemon, thinly sliced
1/3 cup white wine or cider vinegar
1 tablespoon sugar
1 tablespoon fresh lemon juice
1 tablespoon olive or salad oil
¼ to ½ teaspoon pepper

Layer cucumber in a bowl or refrigerator container. Sprinkle salt between layers. Cover and refrigerate several hours. Drain, rinse with cold water, drain again. Add scallions, dill, parsley and lemon slices. Toss to mix lightly. Combine remaining ingredients and pour over cucumber mixture; toss again. Chill 1 hour or until ready to serve or pack for picnic. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

GARDEN FRESH PICNIC POTATO SALAD

1¼ pounds potatoes
2 tablespoons salad oil
1 tablespoon chopped fresh onion
1 tablespoon fresh lemon juice
1½ teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
¼ teaspoon chopped green pepper
1 cup chopped celery
1 cup diced cooked ham
8 hard-cooked eggs, diced
½ cup mayonnaise
Lettuce

Cook potatoes in boiling water, covered, until tender. Peel and slice. Add salad oil, onion, lemon juice, salt and pepper. Mix well and let stand 1 or 2 hours. Add celery, green pepper, ham, eggs and mayonnaise. Mix lightly and spoon into a container with a tight lid. Refrigerate until well chilled. Pack in insulated chest to carry to picnic. Serve on lettuce. Makes 8 servings.

Cranberry relish

Stir a light grating of orange peel and a generous dash of cinnamon into whole cranberry sauce while cooking. Add drained canned pineapple chunks, cover and chill.

Cooked by microwave or conventionally

Pork chops with sweet-and-sour kraut a winner for hearty eaters

By Cecily Brownstone
AP Food Editor

There's a sensible feature about the pros and cons of microwave cooking in the August 1977 issue of Redbook Magazine, currently available. Food Editor Elizabeth Alston asked her readers what they really wanted to know about the subject and Redbook's test kitchens provided the answers. We like the piece because Elizabeth and her helpers give praise where it's due; they're also honest about pointing out where the trusty gas or electric range performs better than the microwave oven.

A dozen categories of food are discussed under the head of "What Cooks Well in a Microwave Oven — and What Doesn't." One of the stars in the fruit category is baked apples: "They keep their shape and have a uniform texture throughout with no mushiness." A microwave oven also cuts down dramatically on the cooking time. We tested Redbook's recipe, varying the kind of apple. We used yellow delicious instead of the McIntosh called for; and we extended the cooking time not only because of our variety of fruit but because our portable microwave oven has a lower wattage than the ovens the Redbook kitchen used. We like the apples served warm or reheated in the microwave oven.

Another winner is the main dish hearty eaters enjoy. It's a combination of shoulder pork chops, sauerkraut and apple plus brown sugar. If you don't find the shoulder pork chops already cut in your supermarkets, as was our fate, there's a remedy. Buy a small fresh pork shoulder roast sometimes called "picnic" and cut the chops yourself. When we did this we found it easy to remove the large bone at the end of the roast before slicing the meat.

One other good point about this Redbook feature: after each recipe giving microwave procedure, there are directions for cooking it the conventional way.

PORK CHOPS WITH SWEET-AND-SOUR KRAUT

2 cans (16 ounce) sauerkraut
½ cup brown sugar, packed to measure
1 cup peeled, cored, diced McIntosh apple
4 shoulder pork chops, ½ to ¾ inch thick about 2 pounds

Microwave cooking: Put sauerkraut in a colander and drain well, reserving 2 tablespoons of the liquid. In a medium-sized bowl mix all but 1 tablespoon of the brown sugar with the 2 tablespoons sauerkraut liquid; when sugar is dissolved, add sauerkraut and apples and mix well. Arrange chops in an 11¾ by 7½ by 1¾ inch glass baking dish, placing bones toward center of dish. Cover with sauerkraut and then with clear plastic wrap, leaving one corner folded back. Cook 12 to 15 minutes; sprinkle remaining tablespoon of brown sugar over sauerkraut. Cook 3 to 4 minutes longer, until sugar is browned and a microwave or instant-reading thermometer inserted in the pork chops reads 175 degrees F. Let stand 5 to 10 minutes. Makes four servings.

Conventional cooking: In a heavy, 10-inch skillet heat 1 tablespoon oil over moderately high heat; add pork chops and brown on both sides, turning only once. Sprinkle with ½ teaspoon salt and ¼ teaspoon pepper. Arrange well-drained sauerkraut on top of the pork chops, sprinkle with apple and brown sugar and toss lightly to mix. Cover pan and bring to a simmer over moderate heat; reduce heat to low and cook 30 minutes. Uncover pan and cook 10 minutes longer, until liquid evaporates and sugar carmelizes slightly.

From "Microwave Cooking: How Good? How Easy" as featured in the August 1977 issue of Redbook Magazine.

With imagination

Golden Gate sandwich set

One of the most important ingredients in any sandwich is imagination. And one of the most imaginative we've seen in a long time features red and gold fresh California nectarines. Created in San Francisco, it's named, appropriately enough, "Golden Gate Sandwich."

Combine the juicy nectarine slices with the sliced meat of your choice. In addition to those mentioned in the recipe, smoked turkey or chicken would be good. Dark rye bread, raw spinach leaves and a marvelous spread made with sour cream, onion soup mix and horseradish are the other elements in this openfaced sandwich, not to overlook a shiny ripe olive (lightly coated with salad oil) that provides an elegant garnish.

This is a sandwich too, that makes a significant contribution to a well-balanced diet. The meat provides important protein, while both spinach and nectarines are rich in vitamin A and important food fiber yet contribute very few calories — a medium-size nectarine, for example, contains only about 100 calories.

For additional recipes and serving suggestions for this and other summer fruits, send a stamped, self-addressed legal-size (No. 10) envelope to "The Fruits of Summer," P.O. Box 255383, Sacramento, CA 95825. You'll receive a 48-page cookbooklet with many beautiful color illustrations and more than 100 ways to serve California fruits.

GOLDEN GATE SANDWICH

1 envelope (1¾ oz.) dry onion soup mix
2 cups dairy sour cream
2 teaspoons prepared horseradish
2 large fresh California nectarines
12 slices dark rye bread
12 slices luncheon meat, smoked ham or roast beef (about ½ pound)
1 bunch fresh spinach
6 pitted ripe olives

Combine onion soup mix with sour cream and horseradish. Chill. Thinly slice nectarines. Spread about half of creamy mixture onto 6 slices of bread; arrange a row of about 4 nectarine slices on each.

Dice 6 slices of meat, sprinkle over nectarines. Top with spinach leaves. Spread all but a few tablespoons of remaining creamy mixture on the other 6 slices of bread. Top each with some spinach leaves, the meat slices rolled into cornucopias, and about 6 nectarine slices. Dollop each with creamed mixture and top with an olive. Stack sandwiches. Makes six sandwiches.

Filled olives

1 pound soft sharp cheddar cheese
6 oz. cream cheese
½ tsp. Worcestershire sauce
¼ cup beer
Large or jumbo-sized pitted olives, green or black

Grate cheddar cheese. Let cheeses soften at room temperature until they will blend well. Combine cheddar and cream cheeses in bowl; add Worcestershire sauce and beer. Mix all together with electric blender until smooth. Cover and chill thoroughly, about 3 hours. Drain olives well. Fill a pastry tube which has a plain round tip with the cheese mixture and force spread into the pitted olives. Slice a small bit off the end of each olive after filling it, so the olive stands straight. If made ahead, chill until 20 minutes before serving. Yield: 1½ cups.

King crab and artichoke spread for 'partygiver'

By Cecily Brownstone
AP Food Editor

DEAR CECILY: A few of us are joining together to give a supper party for a friend who is getting married. We're planning to serve Meat Loaf Wellington for the main course with a tossed salad. The dessert will probably be fruit sherbet with meringue cookies. But we're stumped when it comes the the first course, which we want to serve with white wine, because we don't want to trot out an "old chestnut." Have you anything new and interesting to suggest? — PARTYGIVER

DEAR PARTYGIVER: I've just tested a new recipe for crab and artichoke spread that would fit your menu beautifully. It's easy to assemble and it benefits from being made ahead. Its consistency is excellent and its flavor is delicious. My tasters enjoyed piling it on those good "stoned" wheat crackers that come from Canada, but you may prefer some other accompaniment.

This spread may be served cold or hot. The women who tasted it at my house liked it cold; the men were enthusiastic about it when it was offered hot. Make of that what you will; I side with the women because I feel the full flavor of the crab comes through best when the spread is cold. — C.B.

KING CRAB AND ARTICHOKE SPREAD

6 to 8 ounces packaged frozen Alaska king crab, thawed or 7½ ounce can Alaska king crab
1 can (14 oz.) water packed artichoke hearts (8½ oz. drained weight)
1 cup mayonnaise
2/3 cup freshly grated Parmesan cheese
Parsley sprigs

Drain the crab and cut it into small pieces. Drain the artichoke hearts and chop them fairly fine. Stir together the crab, artichokes, mayonnaise and cheese. Turn into a serving dish, cover tightly and chill for at least several hours or overnight to allow the crab flavor to permeate the other ingredients. Garnish with parsley. Makes about 2 and 2/3rds cups.

Note: This spread may be served hot. To do so, turn the mixture into a broiler-proof dish; we used a round ceramic 3 cup casserole about 5 inches across and 3 inches deep. Broil about 8 inches from high heat until hot through and the top is golden; for the casserole we used this took about 8 minutes, but the spread will of course be hot in less time if a shallower dish is used. Serve at once.

Pineapple coconut 'crepes'

Crepes are so easy to make, it's hard to believe they can be turned into so many economical and stylish desserts. Here's a tantalizing example, "Pineapple Coconut Crepes."

First, bake thin delicate coconut crepes. They can be made ahead, cooled and stacked with waxed paper between each one. You could even make a double batch, using one and freezing the second.

Make up a package of vanilla pudding mix using some of the syrup from canned Hawaiian pineapple chunks. Stir in grated lime peel and fold in whipped cream when cool. Refrigerate until ready to serve.

Roll each crepe with the creamy filling and top with luscious "Chutnied Fruit." Just heat chutney with a little butter, add drained pineapple chunks and a sliced banana. It's that easy.

PINEAPPLE COCONUT CREPES

12 Coconut crepes (6-inch)
1 can (1 pound 4 ounces) pineapple chunks
1 package (4¾ ounces) vanilla pudding and pie filling (not instant)
¾ cup syrup from pineapple
¾ cup milk
1½ teaspoons grated lime peel
1 cup whipping cream
Chutnied Fruit
Mint sprigs for decoration

Prepare Coconut Crepes. Drain pineapple, reserving syrup. Turn pudding mix into saucepan, and stir in pineapple syrup and milk. Cook over moderate heat, stirring constantly, until mixture comes to a full boil. Remove from heat and stir in lime peel. Cover and cool thoroughly. When cold, beat cream stiff and fold into pudding mixture. Prepare Chutnied Fruit. When ready to serve, spread about 1/3 cup cream filling on each crepe, and roll up. Place 2 on each individual serving plate and top with Chutnied Fruit. Decorate with mint sprig. Makes 6 servings (2 crepes each).

Coconut Crepes: In blender jar, combine 2 large eggs, ½ cup milk, ½ cup sifted all-purpose flour, 2 tablespoons each water, flaked coconut and melted butter, 1 tablespoon sugar and ½ teaspoon salt. Blend well. Heat a small crepe pan and brush lightly with butter. Turn in 2 tablespoons batter, and tilt pan to spread. Bake over moderate heat until lightly browned. Turn and brown second side. Turn out and repeat until all of batter is baked. Makes 12 (6-inch) crepes.

Chutnied Fruit: Heat ½ cup chutney (coarsely chop larger pieces) with 2 tablespoons butter. Add drained pineapple chunks and heat. Slice 1 small banana into mixture and heat gently.

Put together ahead of time

Macaroni, two-cheese salad a satisfying summer staple

By Aileen Claire
NEA Food Editor

Macaroni salads are staples in many households for summer menus. These are easy to put together ahead of time and actually have a better flavor if the seasonings are allowed to marry a bit before the chilled salad is served. A macaroni and two-cheese salad makes a nourishing entree with the added protein. Just serve with fresh tomato wedges and pickles for a quick lunch or light dinner. This version has a piquant touch through the addition of chili sauce.

For a hot party casserole here is a variation on baked macaroni and cheese, dressed up with pimiento stuffed olives with an added flavoring of celery seed.

MACARONI TWO-CHEESE SALAD

2 cups elbow macaroni (8 ounces)
1 tablespoon salt
3 quarts boiling water
2 tablespoons chopped scallions or green onions
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
½ pound swiss cheese
½ pound cheddar cheese
¾ cup mayonnaise
¼ cup chili sauce
Crisp lettuce

Gradually add macaroni and 1 tablespoon salt to rapidly boiling water so that water continues to boil. Cook uncovered, stirring occasionally, until tender. Drain in colander. Rinse with cold water. Drain again.

Combine macaroni and scallions. Add the salt and pepper. Cut half of the Swiss and Cheddar cheeses into one-half-inch cubes. Add to Macaroni mixture. Blend mayonnaise with chili sauce, stir into macaroni mixture. Place lettuce leaves on salad platter. Arrange macaroni salad in center. Cut remaining Swiss and Cheddar cheeses into thin strips and arrange around salad. Makes 6 servings.

BAKED MACARONI CHEESE AND OLIVES

2 cups elbow macaroni (8 ounces)
1 tablespoon salt
3 quarts boiling water
3 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 tablespoon flour
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon celery seed
⅛ teaspoon pepper
2 cups milk
¾ pound process American cheese, grated
½ cups pimento-stuffed olives, sliced
2 tablespoons seasoned bread crumbs

Gradually add macaroni and 1 tablespoon salt to rapidly boiling water so that water continues to boil. Cook uncovered, stirring occasionally, until tender. Drain in colander.

Meanwhile, melt 2 tablespoons butter in saucepan. Blend in flour, one-half teaspoon salt, celery seed and pepper. Stir in milk and cook and stir until thickened. Add cheese; stir until melted. Combine macaroni, olives and cheese sauce and mix well. Melt remaining butter and toss lightly with bread crumbs. Place macaroni mixture in one and one-half-quart casserole; sprinkle crumbs on top. Bake 15 to 20 minutes in 400-degree oven, until lightly browned and bubbly. Makes 6 servings.

Peanutty sauce topped chocolate mousse is set

Chocolate mousse is an elegant dessert, and when topped with a smooth peanut butter sauce, it is doubly delicious.

"Mousse" is a French word that means "froth." Egg whites are whipped until stiff and the yolks are whipped until lemon colored. Melted chocolate and vanilla go into the yolks and then the chocolate mixture is folded into the egg whites. The frothy mixture is turned into individual molds to chill for several hours. This "do ahead" dessert is convenient and delightful for busy hostesses.

Even the sauce can be prepared ahead of time. Smooth peanut butter is beaten into whipped topping mix. The fluffy peanutty-flavored sauce compliments the chocolate mousse. For something different, the mousse and sauce can be layered in parfait glasses and then chilled. Swirl more peanutty sauce on the tops of the parfaits just before serving. This rich, light dessert is something to behold and heavenly to consume.

PEANUTTY SAUCE TOPPED CHOCOLATE MOUSSE

½ cup peanut butter, smooth
6 ounce package semi-sweet chocolate pieces
5 eggs, separated
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 packet (1.5 oz.) whipped topping mix
¾ cup cold milk

Melt chocolate pieces over very low heat. Cool slightly. Beat egg whites at high speed until stiff peaks form. Beat egg yolks until lemon colored. Add vanilla and chocolate. Blend lightly. Add chocolate mixture to egg whites and fold to combine well. Pour into individual molds or serving glasses. Chill for several hours. Beat topping mix and milk together until frothy and thickened; about 3 minutes. Add peanut butter and beat until smooth. If sauce is too thick, stir in additional milk until desired consistency. Makes 4 servings, ¾ cup each.

Savoy 'steaks' in Creole sauce

Tempt your family and guests with beef steaks in a luscious Creole sauce. It makes a delectable, satisfying meal to please most people as beef is America's favorite meat.

Creole sauce may be made ahead of time, even the day before, to blend the flavors and to save preparation time. The steaks are cooked in a skillet rubbed with garlic until evenly browned and crusty. Then the sauce is poured in, the skillet is covered and the cooking continues.

Serve the Savoy Steaks In Creole Sauce with or on hot fluffy rice or noodles. Include a buttered green vegetable, if you wish, a fruit salad, rolls and your favorite dessert.

SAVOY STEAKS IN CREOLE SAUCE

4 beef savoy broil steaks, cut 1 inch thick
1 clove garlic
½ teaspoon salt
1 onion chopped
1 green pepper, chopped
1 rib celery, chopped
½ stick (¼ cup) butter or margarine
1 can (14½ ounce) stewed tomatoes
¼ cup brown sugar
1 tablespoon cider vinegar
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
1 drop tobasco sauce

Rub inside of heavy skillet with garlic. Season with ½ teaspoon salt. Over medium heat, cook steak approximately 10 minutes on each side or until evenly browned and crusty. In a saucepan saute onion, green pepper and celery in melted butter. When vegetables are tender and remaining ingredients and heat to boiling. Remove lid and continue to cook until steaks are tender, about 10 minutes.

Gelatin salad

Chill a gelatin salad mixture in scalloped orange shells, saved from the morning juice-making.

From famous French Provencal recipe

Paula Wolfert's 'chicken' with 40 cloves and garlic listed

By Cecily Brownstone
AP Food Editor

A famous French Provencal recipe, chicken baked with 40 cloves of garlic, crops up in a fascinating new cookbook, "Mediterranean Cooking" by Paula Wolfert Quadrangle. We've tried several versions of the dish; Wolfert's is one of the best.

During its baking everyone in the house will know you are using garlic. But when you carve the chicken and top each portion with a few of the soft cloves — so each eater can spread them on toasted French bread — their pungency will have vanished. They'll be surprisingly mellow. Serving only a few cloves to each person is mandatory. Should a garlic-lover be tempted to down too many, the next morning there may be regrets. We say this from experience!

One reason we prize the Wolfert recipe is that it uses the 40 cloves about three heads of garlic unpeeled. This makes the dish easy to prepare. After the chicken, oil, garlic and other aromatics go into a casserole, it's sealed with "a ribbon of flour and water paste." For the paste we found a cup of flour and one-third of a cup of water about right.

Wolfert has organized her book in an interesting and helpful way: each group of recipes stresses the ingredients that "comprise the bounty of the Mediterranean, the stuff of which its cuisines are built." Thus there are chapters on garlic and oil; olives; eggplant, tomatoes, peppers and other Mediterranean vegetables; chick peas, lentils and beans; pasta, couscous and other Mediterranean farinaceous foods; herbs, spices and other aromatics; yogurt, cheese; nuts; honey; lemons, oranges, figs, dates and other Mediterranean fruits.

For cooks in various parts of the United States, there's a list of stores and companies on the east coast and in the Midwest, South and West that can supply any special ingredients and materials mentioned in "Mediterranean Cooking," and some of these fill mail orders. There's also an index to recipes by course and country — a wonderful idea. It's not surprising that Wolfert offers these aids. Here is a personal book, chock-full of her love of the Mediterranean cooking and lore about which she is extraordinarily knowledgeable.

PAULA WOLFERT'S CHICKEN WITH 40 CLOVES OF GARLIC

1 chicken (3½ pound ready-to-cook)
2 bouquets garnis of Provencal herbs: bay leaf, parsley, thyme, celery leaves, savory and a little rosemary
¼ cup olive oil
40 cloves of garlic, unpeeled
2 tablespoons anisette
Flour and water paste

Preheat the oven to 350 degrees.

Rub the chicken with salt and pepper. Stuff with one of the herb bouquets, then truss the chicken. Place in a 3-quart oval casserole with a tight-fitting cover preferably earthen-ware. Combine oil, garlic cloves in their skins, anisette, salt and pepper and remaining herb bouquet and dump over the bird. Cover and seal the casserole with a ribbon of flour and water paste. Set in the oven to bake 1 hour 15 minutes.

Remove the casserole cover at the table and serve directly from it, giving a few cloves of garlic to each person. Pass a basket filled with toasted French bread rounds. Each person can peel the garlic with knife and fork and spread them on the toasted bread.

Serves 4 to 5.

From "Mediterranean Cooking" by Paula Wolfert, Quadrangle, 1977, $12.95.

Skillet chicken served outside

When it's too beautiful to dine indoors, set a table on the porch or patio and serve dinner outside.

A one-dish meal is ideal for porch or patio service. A hearty main dish that requires nothing more than beverage and dessert can be served with a minimum of time and effort.

Suggested here is Skillet Chicken with Corn and Tomatoes, a tasty one-dish meal that is even more appealing when served outdoors. The delicate flavor and relatively low cost of chicken make it a popular choice for outdoor meals. Chicken adapts to every meal occasion and takes on the flavor of the ingredients used in its preparation. This delicious recipe is enhanced by the nutty flavor of peanut oil.

SKILLET CHICKEN WITH CORN AND TOMATOES

1 cup buttermilk biscuit mix
1 teaspoon seasoned salt
1 frying chicken (2¾ to 3 pounds) cut into serving pieces
Undiluted evaporated milk
½ cup peanut oil
¼ cup dry vermouth
½ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
¼ teaspoon tarragon
2 medium ripe tomatoes, skinned and halved
1 can (12 oz.) whole kernel corn, drained

Thoroughly combine biscuit mix and seasoned salt. Dip chicken pieces into evaporated milk, then coat with mixed dry ingredients. Brown chicken in hot peanut oil, turning once. Add vermouth, salt, pepper, and tarragon. Cover; simmer until chicken is tender and done, about 25 minutes. Baste occasionally. Arrange tomatoes, cut side down, in skillet. Cover chicken and tomatoes with corn. Baste vegetables. Cover; simmer 5 minutes longer. Baste before serving. Serve from skillet. Makes 4 servings.

SNACKTIME FARE
Zucchini Gems
Beverage

ZUCCHINI GEMS

They may be served warm or cold.

¾ cup flour
¼ teaspoon baking powder
¼ teaspoon baking soda
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon nutmeg
1 large egg
½ cup sugar
¼ cup salad oil
1 cup grated zucchini, unpared, loosely packed
¼ cup raisins, snipped fine
¼ cup chopped medium-fine walnuts

Stir together the flour, baking powder, baking soda, salt and nutmeg. Beat together the egg, sugar and oil until blended; add the flour mixture, zucchini, raisins and walnuts; stir only until dry ingredients are moistened. Fill buttered muffin-pan cups each holding 1/3 cup two-thirds full. Bake in a preheated 350 degree oven until a cake tester inserted in the center comes out clean — about 25 minutes. Loosen edges and remove. Makes eight muffins.

SAVORY CORNBREAD

Quick to put together.

2 large eggs
¾ cup milk
1/3 cup salad oil
1 can (8¾ ounces) creamstyle corn
2 cups fine, white, self-rising, stoneground cornmeal
1½ cups grated medium-fine loosely packed cheddar cheese

Beat together the eggs, milk and oil until blended; add the corn and cornmeal and stir until the cornmeal is moistened. Turn half the batter into a buttered 8 by 8 by 2-inch glass baking dish or similar utensil; sprinkle with half the cheese; carefully spoon the remaining batter over the cheese and spread evenly; sprinkle with the remaining cheese. Bake in a preheated 350 degree oven about 40 minutes. Serve at once. Makes 8 servings. If the self-rising cornmeal is not available, use regular fine white stoneground cornmeal and add 4 teaspoons baking powder and ½ teaspoon salt.

Peanut butter pancake recipe

If you are planning to do your "Thoreau thing" this summer — getting back to nature and the great outdoors — you might consider a camping trip, especially if you live in one of the many areas of the country that are blessed with good hunting and fishing territory.

What could be more relaxing than watching the sun rise during the early morning hours, dropping your baited hook into a flowing stream or taking a long walk before breakfast? That fresh country air will whet your appetite for a good, hearty breakfast.

Breakfast on a camping trip is an important meal. The mood of the entire day can be heightened by a delicious, satisfying morning meal. And what a morale booster for those sleepy-eyed campers!

Peanut Butter Pancakes with maple syrup and bacon make a perfect campfire breakfast. Creamy peanut butter and nutty peanut oil give these flapjacks a special flavor. The pancake batter can be made at campsite or prepared ahead of time and carried along.

PEANUT BUTTER PANCAKES

2 eggs
3 tablespoons peanut oil
2 cups milk
2 cups pancake mix
Margarine
Pancake syrup

Combine peanut butter, eggs and peanut oil; beat until well blended. Stir in milk. Add pancake mix and stir lightly until batter is fairly smooth. For each pancake pour about ¼ cup batter onto a hot lightly oiled griddle. Bake until pancakes are bubbly and edges look dry. Turn and bake until browned on underside. Serve with margarine and syrup. Makes 16 pancakes.

New taste sensation offered

Fresh grapefruit coffee cake ideal for breakfast

Summer fresh grapefruit from California is the ideal way to start the day. But did you know that fresh grapefruit is palatably perfect any time of day? Serve it unpeeled as a lunchbox treat, as an appetizer or after dinner dessert. Possibilities are endless as a whole new world of cookery opens up.

As a super flavor enhancer, add fresh grated grapefruit peel to sauces, mixes and in any appropriate recipe. Choose fruit with firm, smooth skins. Store at room temperature or in the covered vegetable crisper in your refrigerator.

Treat your family to whole new taste sensations. Serve fresh western-grown juicy grapefruit anytime of the day — all summer long.

FRESH GRAPEFRUIT COFFEE CAKE

- 1 grapefruit
- 2 cups biscuit mix
- ½ cups raisins
- 1/3 cup plus 2 tablespoons sugar
- 1/3 cup plus 1 tablespoon butter or margarine, melted
- 1/3 cup milk
- 1 egg, slightly beaten
- ½ teaspoon ground cinnamon

Over bowl, peel and section grapefruit, reserving sections and ¼ cup juice. In large bowl, combine biscuit mix, raisins and 1/3 cup sugar. Add 1/3 cup butter, milk, egg and reserved grapefruit juice. Mix just until blended. Spoon into lightly greased 8-inch square baking pan. Arrange grapefruit sections on top. Drizzle with 1 tablespoon butter. Combine 2 tablespoons sugar and cinnamon; sprinkle over cake. Bake at 400 degrees F. for 30 minutes or until toothpick inserted in center comes out clean. Serve warm. Makes 8 servings.

FRESH CITRUS SUMMER SALAD

- 1 package (about 0.6 ounces) Italian salad dressing mix
- 2/3 cup salad oil
- 1 tablespoon fresh grated grapefruit peel
- ½ cup fresh squeezed grapefruit juice
- 2 grapefruit, peeled, sectioned
- 2 oranges, peeled, cut in cartwheels
- 1 avocado, sliced
- ½ cup sliced celery
- ½ cup sliced green pepper
- ¼ cup sliced almonds, toasted
- Crisp salad greens

In jar with lid, combine salad dressing mix, oil, grapefruit peel and juice; shake well. Chill. In large bowl, arrange remaining ingredients on salad greens; chill. To serve, toss salad with dressing. Makes 6 servings.

FRESH FRUIT COMBO

- 2 grapefruit, peeled, sectioned
- 1 large cantaloupe, cut in 1-inch cubes
- 1 pound (about 2½ cups) grapes
- 1 cup fresh or frozen blueberries
- Orange Cream Dressing

Arrange fruit in serving bowl; chill. Serve with Orange Cream Dressing. Makes 6 to 8 servings (9 cups).

ORANGE CREAM DRESSING

- ½ cup dairy sour cream
- ½ cup marshmallow cream
- 1 tablespoon fresh grated orange peel
- 2 tablespoons fresh squeezed orange juice

In small bowl, combine sour cream, marshmallow cream, orange peel and juice; stir until smooth. Chill. Makes about one cup.

Spiced grape compote

By Aileen Claire
NEA Food Editor

Grapes are refreshing when eaten out-of-hand but also make cooling desserts during summer months.

A grape fool combining rich whipped cream and Thompson seedless grapes is even cool to look at. Another grape treat, a spiced grape compote, is excellent chilled but also may be served warm.

GRAPE FOOL

- 3 cups seedless grapes
- ½ cup sugar
- Juice of half lemon
- 1 cup whipping cream, whipped

Combine grapes, one-fourth cup of the sugar and lemon juice in saucepan. Cook (covered to steam) over low heat for 5 minutes. Crush grapes slightly. Chill, Just before serving, marble (stir) grape mixture into the whipped cream sweetened with the remaining sugar. Makes 4 to 6 servings. (Note: Cut sugar in half for less sweet dessert.)

SPICED GRAPE COMPOTE

- 3 cups grapes
- ½ cup sugar
- 1 cup orange juice
- 3 cinnamon sticks

Combine ingredients in saucepan. Cook over low heat for 5 minutes. Serve warm or chilled. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

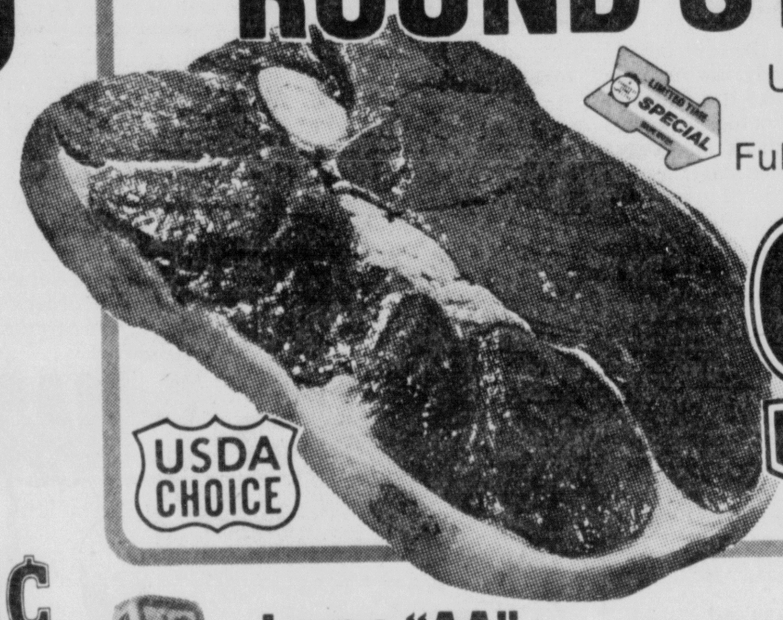

Spring tradition

For many families, spring is the time to serve lamb more often. According to the National Live Stock and Meat Board, at this time of year shoppers can make their selection from a variety of cuts from the prized milk-fed lambs being marketed.

Lamb's mild, delicate flavor can be enjoyed in the form of a leg, rib, or loin roast. Or, consider rib, loin, blade or arm chops, or lamb for stew, shanks, or riblets.

Caught in a jam or pickle?

Spiced preserved cantaloupe stored for winter feasting

Progress Bulletin
Food
Pomona, California ■ Wednesday, August 3, 1977

Caught in a jam? Trapped in a pickle? Yes, 'tis the season to be canning, preserving and pickling. If you're one of the thousands of Americans devoted to storing away the glory of the summer for winter eating, then you may already be knee-deep in zucchini or buried in berries.

Whether you're a beginning canner or an experienced veteran, the first step is to check all equipment. Make sure jars are free of chips and cracks. Use only jars that are manufactured for canning since they're made to withstand both hot and cold temperatures. Even if there are plenty of jars on hand, start early and replace used lids and rubber rings.

The USDA now recommends processing jams, preserves and pickles in a water bath canner so a canner or a saucepot is a must. The saucepot should be deep enough to allow water to cover the jars with room to boil freely, and a rack should be placed in the pot so jars won't touch bottom.

Once the canning equipment is ready, pick a favorite fruit or vegetable to put up. There's a whole crop of fresh canning ideas in Karo corn syrup's leaflet, "From Garden to Jar," Dept. GJ-N, Box 307, Coventry, CT 06238. Corn syrup, an ingredient in many putting up recipes, contributes to the consistency. In freezer jams, it helps prevent sugar crystals from forming during freezer storage. In pickles and other "put up" fruits and vegetables, it helps to provide a smooth, full bodied canning syrup.

The leaflet includes old-time favorites like Concord Grape Preserve and Peach Conserve. For pickle fanciers, there's Pickled Watermelon Rind and Zucchini Pickles. And, for those who like fresh fruit flavor, Strawberry Freezer Jam is a real pick-of-the-patch recipe. Since the fruit isn't cooked in this jam-making technique, both the fresh fruit flavor and color shine through.

SPICED PRESERVED CANTALOUPE

- 3 pounds firm ripe cantaloupe
- 1 tablespoon whole allspice
- 1 tablespoon chopped crystallized ginger
- 1 thinly sliced lemon, seeded
- 3½ cups sugar
- 1 cup light corn syrup
- ½ cup water
- ½ cup dry white wine
- ¼ teaspoon uniodized salt

Halve the cantaloupe from stem end to blossom end; discard seed and stringy pulp. Cut each half into quarters. Remove skin. Slice melon pieces crosswise into slices about ¾ inch thick. Measure 6 cups. Tie allspice and ginger in cheesecloth bag to make spicebag. In 5-quart stainless steel or enamel saucepot place spicebag, lemon, 2 cups of the sugar, corn syrup, water, wine and salt. Stirring occasionally, bring to boil and boil gently about 20 minutes. Remove from heat; place plate on fruit to hold below syrup level. Let stand overnight. Remove plate; stir in remaining 1½ cups sugar. Stirring occasionally, bring to boil and boil gently about 20 minutes or until fruit is transparent and syrup is thick. Skim surface; remove spicebag. Immediately pack cantaloupe into clean hot ½-pint jars. Pour boiling syrup into jars, completely covering cantaloupe and leaving ¼-inch headspace. Wipe top edge with damp towel. Seal according to jar manufacturer's directions. Process in boiling water bath 5 minutes. Cool on wire rack or folded towel. Label and store in cool dark place. Makes about 4 (½-pint) jars.

TOMATO PRESERVE

- 2½ pounds fully ripe tomatoes
- 3 cups sugar
- 1 cup light corn syrup
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- 1 thinly sliced lemon, seeded

Scald, peel, quarter and core tomatoes. In stainless steel, glass or enamel bowl, place tomatoes, sugar, corn syrup and salt. Mix well. Cover and refrigerate overnight or about 12 hours. Place mixture in colander and let drain thoroughly, reserving both the liquid and the tomatoes. Strain liquid portion to remove seed. In 5-quart stainless steel or enamel saucepot place tomato liquid. Bring rapidly to boil over moderate heat; stirring frequently, boil 10 minutes or until mixture sheets from spoon. Add quartered tomatoes and lemon. Bring to boil; cook gently, stirring constantly, about 20 minutes. Remove from heat and let stand about 30 minutes for the lemon and tomatoes to pulp. Return to heat and cook briskly, stirring constantly, about 10 minutes or until fruit is translucent and syrup is thick. Ladle into clean hot jars leaving ½-inch headspace. Wipe top edge with damp towel. Seal according to jar manufacturer's directions. Process in boiling water bath 10 minutes. Cool on wire rack or folded towel. Label and store in cool dark place. Makes 4 (1-pint) jars.

PICKLED WATERMELON RIND

- Rind from 1 (20-lb) watermelon
- Water
- 1/3 cup uniodized salt
- 4 cups sugar
- 2 bottles (16 oz. each) karo light corn syrup
- 2 cups white vinegar
- 4 cinnamon sticks
- 2 tablespoons whole cloves

Trim off outer thin skin from watermelon rind; cut rind into 1-inch pieces. Measure 28 cups. In 12-quart saucepot cover rind with water; stir in salt. Stirring occasionally, bring to boil over high heat and boil 10 to 15 minutes or until rind is transparent but still tender-crisp. Pour into colander; Drain 1 hour. In 5-quart saucepot, place sugar, corn syrup, vinegar, cinnamon sticks and cloves. Stirring frequently bring to boil over high heat. Place rind in very large bowl; add syrup. Cover; refrigerate overnight. On third day, drain syrup into 5-quart saucepot and bring to boil over high heat. Pour over rind in bowl. Cover; refrigerate overnight. On fourth day, in 12-quart saucepot place rind and syrup. Stirring frequently, bring to boil over high heat. Immediately pack rind into clean hot pint jars, distributing spices equally. Pour boiling syrup into jars, completely covering rind and leaving ¼-inch headspace. Wipe top edge with damp towel. Seal according to jar manufacturer's directions. Process in boiling water bath 10 minutes. Cool jars on wire rack or folded towel. Makes 6 (1-pint) jars.

SPICED PRESERVED CANTALOUPE

Inspection

Federally-inspected broiler-fryers in 1977 are expected to surpass last year's output, according to U.S. Department of Agriculture. The Department forecasts a production of 2.24 billion pounds for the second quarter of this year. This means the first quarter 1977 production would be 6 per cent above January-March of last year and the second quarter would surpass April-June, 1976, by two per cent.

Unique recipes add flair

Chicago's ethnic mix prompts better 'selection' of fruits

By Gaynor Maddox

Chicago supermarkets have particularly interesting fruit and vegetable departments. Far better than many in other cities. The probable reason is that Chicago's population is so widely ethnic — Poles, Greeks, Japanese, Chinese, Scandinavians, Mexicans and other Latins, Hungarians, and more, all with ingrained ideas of what kind of vegetables and fruits are good. That is the opinion of Anita Fial, member of the board of directors of the International Food Service Council.

The ethnic customers have national recipes for many exotic fruits and vegetables.

What are the characteristics of genuinely fresh and particularly fine vegetables? "They are very low in calories, low in salt, rich in vitamins and minerals and contain roughage. They must be free of wilt and feel and look crisp," explains Anita Fial.

A man who has been in the fruit and vegetable business for 35 years, Albert Kaplan of New York is particularly noted for the quality of his produce. He explains his skill in selecting what he sells.

"Through long experience I think I have developed a feeling for texture. I use that in buying most fruits and vegetables. After my many years of hard work in the business I feel I have developed a sixth sense in detecting quality."

His fruit and vegetable store in a high rent area of Manhattan's upper East Side is small and unprepossessing. His displays outside the store are almost startling with their freshness.

His best wholesale buys, he said, are green beans, sweet corn, cucumbers and green peppers, all from Florida. He adds that his radishes which are particularly fine come from Ohio, where they are raised in hot houses. In summer they come from local farms, but in his opinion are not so good as those from Ohio. As for fresh peas, the best are from California or Mexico. California also gives the finest carrots, he feels, which he sells with their feathery tops on.

Kaplan, an unusually optimistic man, says, "But for top quality you must pay. Salad greens, fresh tomatoes, beautiful vegetables and luscious fruit all cost money. But so do highballs and cocktails."

At Michigan State University at Lansing, an associate professor of horticulture, Larry R. Baker, is striving to breed vegetables with greater nutrition and more flavor. He explains, "We have been experimenting for three years and have a few concrete results so far. We have worked on carrots, cherries, tomatoes, cauliflower, green beans and peppers. We're attempting to 'lock in' increases in the nutritive content and value of plants through natural plant processes.

"Our project is identifying vegetable breeding lines and varieties having high nutritive levels. These 'parent' lines will be valuable to current and future plant breeding programs aimed at developing new vegetable varieties with better nutritive content."

Tuna-almond macaroni is different

We have a great new pasta dish that's economical, easy to make, and provides a nice change of pace for the family table. Tuna-Almond Macaroni has a sauce based on chunk-style tuna and canned tomato-mushroom sauce. Into the pan go onions, green pepper, and the time-honored Italian herbs. Almonds are a surprise ingredient, providing the sauce with a fine flavor and crisp texture

As for the pasta, we suggest one of the less familiar forms such as mostaccioli, a large macaroni with diagonal ends; rigatoni, with its distinctive crimped shape; or your own favorite. Top with a generous sprinkling of grated Romano cheese and more slivered almonds, serve with a green salad and crusty Italian bread and you'll have a simple dinner sure to become a family favorite.

TUNA-ALMOND MACARONI

- 2 or 3 tablespoons salad oil
- 1 cup chopped onions
- ¼ cup chopped green pepper
- 1 can (2 or 3 oz.) chopped mushrooms or mushroom bits and pieces
- 2 cans (8 oz. each) Italian-style tomato-mushroom sauce
- 1 can (9 to 12 oz.) chunk-style tuna
- ½ teaspoon Italian herbs or ¼ teaspoon each sweet basil and oregano
- 3 to 4 tablespoons toasted slivered almonds
- 8 ounces mostaccioli, rigatoni or preferred pasta
- ½ cup grated Romano or Parmesan cheese

Heat salad oil in heavy frying pan or flameproof casserole; add onions and green pepper and cook until tender and lightly browned. Mix in mushrooms with their liquid and the tomato sauce. Cover and simmer 20 to 30 minutes. Break tuna into chunks and add to sauce; crush herbs and add to mixture. Heat to simmering. Add about half the almonds.

Meanwhile, cook mostaccioli al dente. Drain and place on large serving platter. Spoon tuna-almond sauce over pasta. Sprinkle with grated cheese and remaining almonds. Serve hot with a green salad and French bread. Makes 4 generous servings.

Labeling

Now that many packaged food products carry nutrition labeling, many questions concerning nutrient content can be answered simply by checking the label. However, if the information needed is not listed, write directly to the manufacturer — the address is listed on label. Most large food companies maintain departments devoted to providing nutrition information about their products.

YOU'RE GONNA LOVE THE LOW PRICES AT LUCKY: UP TO 7% LOWER OVERALL!*

Lucky was the lowest priced non-membership supermarket the week of July 21, 1977. In fact, Lucky has been lowest priced for 19 of the past 20 weeks, as well.

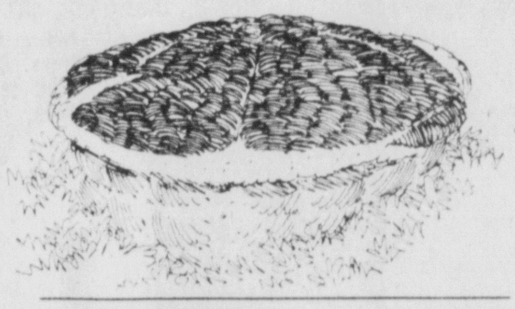

We're proud of this fact, because Vector is the most extensive independent survey of supermarket prices. They reviewed 156 items: meat, produce, dry groceries, health and beauty aids...a whole spectrum of things you're likely to include in your shopping list. But don't take our word for it. Compare for yourself. After all, we've never claimed to be the lowest priced on each and every item. That's because we do not run below-cost "loss leaders" just to get you into our stores. Besides, we know that no list, not even Vector's is exactly like yours. Only comparison shopping will show you the difference discount makes for you at the cash register. And from then on, it'll be Lucky...for you.

*Vector Consumer Reports of July 21st shows you could have spent up to 7% more by shopping at one of the other five major supermarket chains in the Los Angeles and Orange County area.

Chicken papaya Louis adds luscious 'tropical' flavors

The Hawaiians know how to savor summer, with cool, main dish salads, centered around their luscious, tropical fruit, papaya. Now, Mainlanders, too, can enjoy this versatile fruit because it's flown almost daily from the Islands to major Mainland markets.

Though the fragrant Hawaiian papaya is available all year around, in July papayas are especially plentiful. Papaya's unique flavor, somewhere between a Crenshaw melon and a ripe peach, makes it a delightful companion for almost any salad mixture — meat, seafood, vegetable or fruit.

To double your salad pleasure, slice a papaya lengthwise, and fill one half with Chicken Louis, the other with Cheddar cheese cubes. Served together, nestled on a bed of greens and garnished with egg slices, Chicken Papaya Louis makes a complete summer meal, pleasantly light, yet deliciously filling.

The Hawaiian papaya is an exotic, but welcome, newcomer to the fruit section of many markets. It looks rather like a pear-shaped melon, 5 to 6 inches long, and weighs about a pound. The color varies from yellow-green to a ripe yellow-orange. When ripe, the papaya is slightly soft, golden, fragrant, and will stay that way in the refrigerator for up to a week.

If purchased while still green-skinned but with a tinge of yellow on the blossom (fat) end, the papaya will ripen to a golden yellow when left on the kitchen counter for two to three days. Judge ripeness by the changing color, rather than by squeezing the fruit. It bruises easily. Inside, the papaya is a vibrant, sunrise gold with a cluster of black seeds.

Rich in Vitamins A and C, papaya is excellent for breakfast, served just as the Hawaiians eat it, by the half with a squeeze of lemon or lime juice to accentuate the flavor. Or try this nutritious, on-the-run fruit shake. It's easily made in the blender by cutting up half a papaya, adding an egg, a cup of milk, a dash of sugar, cinnamon, and a teaspoon of wheat germ.

Being a tropical fruit, papaya is available all year round from Hawaii, ready to serve any time of the day. At your next party, how about dazzling Aloha Hors d'oeuvres? Just spear cubes of papaya on wooden cocktail sticks and alternate with chunks of ham and cheese and whole strawberries. You can do these way ahead of time, too, because papaya, unlike so many other soft fleshed fruit, doesn't darken or discolor when cut.

For other unusual "salad bowls," fill papaya halves with your favorite ham salad mixture; or a shrimp, slivered almond, curried mayonnaise combination. Or, heap papaya bowls with cut-up fresh fruits, then top with sour cream, a drizzle of honey and a sprinkling of granola. And for a dessert cooler, Hawaiian style, use a papaya half instead of a melon, fill with a scoop of vanilla ice cream, sprinkle with coconut and a dash of ginger. Deliscious!

CHICKEN PAPAYA LOUIS

2 cups cooked, chopped chicken meat
¼ cup finely chopped celery
½ cup seedless grapes
Louis Dressing (recipe follows)
Salt and pepper
2 Hawaiian papayas, halved and seeded
Romaine lettuce
½ cup cubed mild cheese
1 hard cooked egg, sliced

In bowl, mix chicken, celery and grapes with enough dressing to moisten. Season to taste with salt and pepper. Carefully cut each papaya half lengthwise into 2 flat slices (not quarters). For each salad, arrange 2 papaya slices side by side on salad greens. Put a scoop of chicken salae on one of the slices. Top the other with cheese cubes. Garnish with egg slices. Serve chilled with remaining Louis dressing. Makes 4 salads.

Louis Dressing: Blend 1 cup mayonnaise with 1/3 cup chili sauce, 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, 1 tablespoon lemon juice and ⅛ teaspoon each of salt and pepper. Makes about 1½ cups.

Pineapple chunks

Drain canned Hawaiian pineapple chunks well. Toss with a little melted butter and grated Parmesan cheese. Broil until heated and tinged with brown. Serve with hamburger patties, meat loaf or fish.

Johnny Wonder's QUESTION CORNER

One of the fiercest of fishes is the barracuda. These slender, pikelike fishes with jutting jaws and razorlike teeth live in the warmer waters of the Atlantic and Pacific oceans.

There are several kinds of barracudas. The largest of them is the great barracuda. This big fish may grow to be 6 feet long. It is sometimes called the "tiger of the sea."

It seems to fear nothing, and may attack anything that moves in the water, including man. In fact, many people think some barracudas are more to be feared than most sharks.

When the barracuda finds a school of fish, it slowly stalks them, then dives into their midst, biting and slashing with its sharp teeth and powerful jaws.

Barracudas are among the fastest fishes. A four-foot-long barracuda can swim 25 miles an hour or more, for short distances.

Market activity

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stock headed sharply lower Wednesday in response to Morgan Guaranty's decision to raise its prime lending rate a quarter point to 6¾ per cent.

The Morgan Guaranty move was sprked by the Federal Reserve Board's credit tightening the past two days in response to a $5 billion surge in the nation's money supply. There has been speculatio the Fed would raise the discount rate it charges member banks for short-term loans.

Citibank of New York has had a 6¾ per cent rate for more than a month. Most other banks have a 6½ per cent rate.

As a result, the Dow Jones industrial average, which fell 4.42 points Tuesday to an 18month low, was off 7.54 points to 879.85 shortly before noon EDT. Through Tuesday, the closely watched average had lost more than 116 points in 1977.

General Motors, a Dow average component which lost 1¼ Tuesday, was the most active NYSE issue, off another 1⅝ to 66⅞ after an opening block of 100,000 shares at 67¼.

The No. 1 automaker disappointed investors by not raising its dividend from 85 cents a share. There had been speculation GM would raise the payout after the company reported sharply higher second-quarter earnings.

Rising interest rates hav led to increased selling of basic industry stocks such as GM because tighter money increases the chances of an economic slow down.

Investors have failed to respond to a government report Tuesday that factory orders rose 0.4 per cent in June, paced by a strong 1.7 per cent rise in non-durable goods orders.

Declines far outnumbere advances, 891 to 279, among the 1,625 issues crossing the tape.

New York Stock Exchange volume at the two-hour mark amounted to about 10,000,000 shares, up from the 7,820,000 shares traded during the same period Tuesday, which had the slowest session in a month.

Sc eringPlough was the second most active issue, off 1 to 32½. Last week the stock falterd because of published reports detailing side effects of one of the firm's drugs. Dow CKHEMICAL WAS THE THIRD MOST ACTIVE ISSUE, OFF ¼ to 31.

Addressograph - Multigraph was off ⅝ in active trading. The company said late Tuesday it was laying off about 300 of the 800 workers at its Euclid, Ohio plant.

Polaroid was off ½. Analysts are split in their assessments about the firm's outlook, according to the Wall Street Journal. Some analysts have trimmed their earnings estimates.

Transco, which reported its second-quarter earnings rose to 66 cents a share from 60 cents a year ago, was off 1 Analysts had expected higher earnings.

Owens-Corning Fiderglas was off 1 and Johns-Manville ½ The Federal Trade Commission has launched an investigation to determine if there is "enough" competition in the insulation industry.

Prices were lower in active trading of American Stock Exchange issues. Foodways National was off 1¾. The company and General Mills Tuesday broke off merger discussions.

Assessment lists will enable homeowners to judge fairness

Is your fair share of the growing property tax load really that fair? How does the county assessor's latest valuation of your property compare with the value he has placed on your neighbor's? Is it more or less than last year?

Local property owners will be able to answer these questions and judge the fairness of assessed values for themselves next week when the Progress Bulletin and other community newspapers throughout Los Angeles County publish full lists of all changes made in property valuations by county Assessor Philip E. Watson's staff of appraisers.

By comparing these new valuations against previous years' tax bills, the assessor's estimation of the relative change in value can be determined. By comparing the new value of one piece of property with the new valuations on neighboring properties, the relative fairness can be audited.

Watson has provided this means for a "public audit" of his staff's work since 1964. He then became the first California assessor to adopt a policy of full disclosure of assessment information.

Prior to 1964 it was impossible for property owners to compare their assessments with those made on surrounding properties without taking time off during the week to travel to the assessor's office and making a tedious search through official county records.

The current method, providing for published listings in community newspapers, is the result of state legislation sponsored by the Los Angeles County Board of Supervisors.

It is suggested that property owners save copies of these newspaper publications as permanent records. Extra copies of this newspaper's published assessments will be available at the Progress Bulletin office.

If persons require such information about property outside this newspaper's publication area, determine the subject property's mapbook number by consulting last year's tax bill, and then contact the California Newspaper Service Bureau, (213) 625-2541.

BILL CONNELL of Chino has been appointed general manager of the Silvercrest Industries, Inc., of Corona. The firm manufactures mobile homes. He has worked five years at Silvercrest.

Firms agree on purchase

SAN FRANCISCO (BW) — Foremost-McKesson Inc. announced it has an agreement in principle to purchase Moreland Chemical Co., a chemical distributor headquartered in Spartanburg, S.C.

Moreland Chemical Co. has distribution branches in Tennessee, Florida, Virginia, Georgia, North Carolina and South Carolina. Last year Moreland's net sales were about $24 million. Terms of the purchase were not disclosed.

Moreland, which was founded in 1908, is principally a distributor of liquid chemicals including solvents and chlorine.

Encouraging report

IRVINE (BW) — At this week's annual meeting of shareholders of Lion Country Safari Inc. (OTC), Harry Shuster, president and board chairman, reported second-quarter revenues of $1,137,542, with net income per share (before extraordinary credit) of 13 cents.

Giving effect to an extraordinary credit of $4,802,298, net income per share was $2.85.

The figures contrasted with revenues for the like three-month period last year of $1,290,199, when there was a per-share loss of 19 cents.

All four directors were re-elected. Named to another one-year term, in addition to Shuster, were Alvin Cassel, Alvin (Skip) Alexander and Jerry Kobrin.

Firm has 20% 2nd quarter sales hike

RIVERSIDE (BW) — Guy B. Entrekin Jr., president of Bourns Inc., announced that sales for the second quarter were $34,866,701, a 20 per cent increase over the $29.1 million reported for the second quarter of 1976.

Entrekin said that those entities which produce electronic component and semiconductor devices reported the most significant increases. Sales of European marketing operations also increased substantially for the three months when compared with the like period in 1976, as did the sales of the life systems division which produces adult and infant respiratory equipment.

However, sales of the CAI and instrument divisions continued to lag behind last year's levels. All major product lines reported increases in sales for the second quarter as compared with the first quarter of 1977, the overall increase being over 10 per cent.

Second-quarter earnings were $2,183,604, or 84 cents a share (based on an average of 2,608,062 shares outstanding), compared to $1,502,917, or 57 cents (based on an average of 2,635,936 shares outstanding), for the second quarter of 1976.

Entrekin said, "The increase in earnings was primarily attributable to the sales increases noted above which were accomplished with minimal increases in fixed costs, thus generating higher profit margins."

Second-quarter earnings increased approximately 12 per cent over earnings for the first quarter of 1977.

Consolidated net sales for the first six months were $66,479,356, compared with $54,632,579 for the like period in 1976. Net earnings for the first half were $4,140,661, or $1.58 (based on an average of 2,622,000 shares outstanding). Earnings for the first six months of 1976 were $2,753,993, or $1.04 (based on an average of 2,635,936 shares outstanding).

On May 27 the company announced that its board of directors approved the making of an offer to purchase for cash any and all of its publicly held shares of common stock at $24 per share. The offer was made in connection with the proposed settlement of certain shareholder derivative actions involving the company and its directors.

As a result of the offer, which expired on July 15, approximately 211,200 shares, or 81 per cent of the publicly held shares, were tendered or guaranteed for delivery. The remaining 48,600 publicly held shares represent 2 per cent of the total common stock outstanding.

Phone companies install new signaling system

SANTA MONICA (BW) — One of the largest capacity personal signaling systems in the United States has been placed in full-scale operation in the Los Angeles area by Pacific Telephone and General Telephone Co. of California.

The system, which will provide paging service for telephone customers in the entire metropolitan Los Angeles 213 area code, covers approximately 2,000 square miles and about seven million inhabitants. Its initial capacity is 60,000 individual services, expandable to 100,000.

The service was originally introduced on a limited basis by the two companies in November 1976. Installation of an additional eight transmitters, as authorized by the Federal Communications Commission, completes radio signal coverage and allows expansion of the service offering to customers.

Personal signaling is designed for professional people, airline and law enforcement personnel, maintenance, service and sales people and others who need to be in constant touch with their offices.

The Los Angeles system features a 4½-ounce battery-operated paging receiver small enough to be clipped to a pocket, belt, golf bag or carried in a purse. (Customers also may lease the basic service, using their own compatible receivers.)

A person with a receiver can be signaled quickly anywhere within the 213 telephone area code boundary by use of the normal telephone calling network and a push button phone or special multi-frequency pad. The result is a distinctive tone signal alerting the bearer of the receiver to get to a phone and call his or her office, home, or another agreed upon location.

A special feature of the receiver being used in the system is its ability to carry two different addresses. The customer may arrange to receive only one or both signals — in the case of a doctor, for instance, one tone telling him to call his office, the other his hospital.

Personal signaling's Los Angeles nerve center at Pacific Telephone's 420 S. Grand facility, is a dual computer system. The computers or control terminals sort incoming calls, check to see if the number called is valid and send the number code to radio transmitters.

The Los Angeles system has been engineered by Pacific and General Telephone so that flat rate customers will receive no multi-message unit charges for calling a receiver from any telephone in the 213 area code. Message rate customers will be charged no more than one multi-message unit per call.

Cost of the new service, which will be offered by Pacific Telephone under the name, "Bellboy" and by General Telephone under the name "Private Page," will be $20 per month. Arrangements for the service may be made through the business offices of each company and, in the case of General Telephone, through the company's phone marts.

Executive dish

Calvin Coolidge, who invited members of Congress to breakfast meetings at the White House, startled his guests one morning by pouring coffee and cream into his saucer. In confusion, several others at the table did the same. Without a word, the President placed his saucer on the floor for his dog.

Average investor can do well with good guidelines

NEW YORK (AP) — Back in December 1974, when the stock market was at its worst in recent years, an investor challenged four others to a contest in which they would seek the greatest appreciation over a five-year period.

All five, two professional and three amateur members of the National Association of Investment Clubs' advisory committee, picked brand-new portfolios of 10 stocks each.

On July 1 the midpoint in the five-year challenge was reached, and the challenger was not faring so well, relatively speaking. He was in fourth place, with a gain of only 78.7 per cent.

During this time the Dow Jones industrial average rose 48.1 per cent, but the leader in the race showed a gain of 193.2 per cent. The other increases were 139.8 per cent, 118 per cent and 70.2.

Of the 50 common stocks chosen by the five committee members, only five declined, four of them being in the drug industry. The three leading portfolios showed no losses at all. The biggest gain was 432 per cent, by Trinity Industries, a metals fabricator purchased at $4.625, and which sold on July 1 at $24.625.

"This proves to me," said Thomas O'Hara, chairman of the associations board of trustees, "that the average individual investor using good guidelines can do quite well in the market."

Three basic premises were used by the five contestants, O'Hara said. Here they are, in his words:

1. "Believing that when a company is carefully chosen for its characteristics of growth it will continue to grow for a long period of time, the selection of stocks was restricted to companies that had appeared in NAIC's magazine, 'Better Investing,' during the past 25 years."

Each month the investment committee chooses one stock for study by it's 5,600 member clubs, so the contestants had about 300 stocks from which to choose.

"No fear was felt for interest rate changes during the five-year period since it was assumed the Federal Reserve was managing interest rates for the total benefit of the country and that they would work out to the market's advantage in the five-year period."

3. "It was felt that the individual investor would tend to select non-institutional types of stocks in this period and that consequently such stocks would do better than the D-J averages."

This is the leading portfolio:

Owens-Corning, bought at $25.375, and priced at $66.75 on July 1; N.A. Philips, $12.75 and $31.50; US LIFE, $10 and $17.75; Detrex Chemical $8.625 and $13; Tiger International, $7.25 and $11.625; Costal States Gas, $5.875 and $21.50; Amcord, $3 and $11.75; American Family, $2.60 and $13.625; Great Lakes Chemical, $11 and $38.375. and Moog, $7.25 and $12.375.

Investment Club members, who frequently outperform the averages, the mutual funds and other professional investors, adhere to three underlying tenets in managing their portfolios:

1. Invest regularly each month without trying to guess the ups and downs.
2. Reinvest dividends.
3. Try to select companies growing at a rate better than the particular industry and which have a record of five, preferably 10 years, of doing so.

Membership in the NAIC is available to clubs and to individuals, the latter at a $12 annual fee, by writing the National Association of Investment Clubs, 1515 East Eleven Mile Road, Royal Oak, Mich. 48067.

Singing family slated

The singing McPhersons of West Covina, a mother and four daughters, will present a concert in the San Gabriel Civic Auditorium at 8 p.m. Friday. Singer/guitarist Ed Essa will also be featured.

The McPhersons sing country & western, pop soul and ballads. They have sung at such places at Knott's Berry Farm, Disneyland, Universal Hilton and numerous Ramada Inns. They recently returned from USO tours in Alaska, Okinawa, Korea, Hawaii and the Philippines where they received standing ovations and commendations from military commanders.

The family, originally from St. Louis, lived in Florida for three years before moving to Southern California two years ago. Fedora, the youthful mother of the group, started sharing her talents with her daughters in St. Louis where she ran a dance and charm studio.

Ray Harryhausen

Special effects men becoming film stars

HOLLYWOOD (NEA)—With "Star Wars" and King Kong" and the coming "Close Encounters of the Third Kind," the American movie-going public is becoming more aware of special effects than ever before.

One of the best special effects men around is an American who moved to England 20 years ago, and has since become the star of English fantasy film making. His name is Ray Harryhausen and he was inspired by the first "King Kong."

"I was a kid in Los Angeles when that came out," Harryhausen says, "and I was very interested in both science fiction and in sculpture. So 'King Kong' really excited me. I was still just a teenager, but I began sculpting models of prehistoric animals and making them move and taking pictures of them."

That's the technique Willis O'Brien developed for the first "King Kong," a technique known then and still known as stop motion animation. When Harryhausen had shot some of his own film in this backyard, he showed it to O'Brien, who hired him. And Harryhausen began working on the "King Kong" sequel, "Mighty Joe Young."

Later, Harryhausen married an English girl, and went to England, and began working there. His association with producer Charles Schneer began in 1952, and Harryhausen has worked on all Schneer's films since then — from "It Came From Beneath the Sea" to their current release, "Sinbad and the Eye of the Tiger."

Harryhausen says the stop motion animation technique which Willis O'Brien pioneered has changed little over the years. When he builds and animates and photographs his creatures for the films he does, he's still doing it the same basic way O'Brien did — making a model, posing it, photographing it, moving it a fraction of an inch, photographing it again.

"It's a slow, painstaking process," Harryhausen says. "Our models are generally about a foot or so long. They must be moved by millimeters for each shot."

Canada Ballet at Greek

The National Ballet of Canada, with guest star Rudolf Nureyev, will perform at the New Greek Theater, Los Angeles, Aug. 29-Sept. 10.

The 100-member company, under the artistic direction of former Royal Ballet star Alexander Grant, is being presented in this exclusive West Coast appearance of the year by James M. Nederlander and S.A. Gorlinsky, Nureyev's London manager.

Principal dancers are Vanessa Harwood, Mary Jago, Karen Kain, Nadia Potts, Frank Augustyn, Charles Kirby, Thomas Schramek, Sergio Stefanschi and Hazaros Surmeyan. Veronica Tennant, a favorite with Los Angeles audiences, is on maternity leave.

The symphony orchestra will be under the baton of George Crum, musical director, and his associate, John Goss.

Nureyev will dance the principal roles in both classics and also in "Bayaderka" and the Schumann work.

Tickets, now on sale at the Greek Theater box office, 2700 N. Vermont Ave., and through all Mutual and Ticketron outlets, are priced at $12.50, $10 and $7.

Redlands Bowl Symphony to present free concert

The Redlands Bowl Symphony, conducted by Harry Farbman, will present a concert in the Bowl at 8:15 p.m. Tuesday. Soloists will be soprano Kathy Proffitt and harpist Peggy Skomal.

Miss Proffitt, now of Laredo, Tex., was a longtime favorite at the Bowl and University of Redlands when she lived here. Eleventh in a family of 12 children, she grew up on a Wyoming ranch, but at age 17 left to make her musical debut with the San Francisco Opera Company. To gain experience she was an understudy for the lead roles under such well-known conductors as Kurt Adler, Fausto Cleva and Erich Leinsdorf.

With private study she advanced to lead roles with a number of companies on the West Coast, particularly San Diego, where she appeared with the Starlight Opera Company for several seasons. She has also played in musical comedy, and done solo work with symphonies from Seattle to San Diego, as well as in the Rocky Mountain area, Texas and Mexico City. She has also been on TV.

She will sing three arias: "Jewel Song" from Gounod's "Faust;" "Adieu, notre petite table" from Massenet's "Manon," and "Un bel di" from Puccini's "Madame Butterfly."

Miss Skomal will play "Choral a variation for harp and orchestra" by Charles M. Widor. She was a winner in the 1974 Young Artist's Auditions, and has appeared with the Redlands Bowl Symphony before.

The orchestra's program will consist of: Beethoven's Symphony No. 8, Richard Wagner's Overture to "Reinzi" and Rimsky-Korsakov's "Capriccio Espagnole."

There is no admission charge, but a freewill offering will be taken.

The following program will be "Fiesta Talavera," with regional dances of Spain and Mexico, Aug. 12.

Community singing preceedes the Tuesday program at 7:30, lead by Alen Ritchie, with Ruth Grinnell Fowler at the piano.

FUNNY BUSINESS By Roger Bollen

Tony jumps from ABC to CBS

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Switching networks can cause strange things to happen to a series star. Tony Randall acquires a father and turns in his daughter for a new model.

When "The Tony Randall Show" switches from ABC to CBS in the fall, Hans Conried, a noted character actor, joins the cast as Randall's liberal-minded father. He considers his son, a Philadelphia judge, a stuffed shirt.

Penny Peyser, daughter of Rep. Peter Peyser, R-N.Y., will appear as Randall's 18-year-old daughter, Bobby. She replaces Devon Scott, daughter of George C. Scott.

Linda Lavin

With a song in her heart

LOS ANGELES (AP) — It's one of life's little ironies that Linda Lavin grew up intending to be a singer, now plays a widow lady who dreams of being a singer, but doesn't get to sing on-camera in her series.

Miss Lavin, star of CBS' "Alice," only sings off-camera. That's her fine, husky, jazz-flavored vocalizing you hear doing the show's theme song.

The rest of the time she just goes about her business as Alice Hyatt, mother of a 12-year-old boy, waitressing in a rundown Phoenix cafe full of assorted joke-cracking characters.

"The original concept was that Alice would do some singing, play the local Ramada Inn, but concepts change," said Miss L., a veteran of Broadway musicals as well as stage and TV dramas.

What happened, she said, is that CBS "decided it probably wouldn't be a good idea to have Alice always talking about wanting to go to Hollywood to be a singer, that she shouldn't be complaining.

"It felt she should be resigned to finding stimulation from her life and job as a waitress in a diner because she has a boy to raise.

"They thought it (the singing dream) was too frustrating to work on, also that people don't want to sit and listen to somebody sing in a sitcom for five minutes.

"I think the idea is, when her son gets through high school, then she could pursue her dream — if we're on the air long enough."

Miss Lavin, whose series has been renewed by CBS for a second season, wasn't griping and indeed insisted she couldn't be happier with the show than she is now.

The diminutive, brown-haired actress, who sounds faintly Brooklyn but was raised in Portland, Maine, was asked if she's been doing any singing to keep her hand in.

Yep, beamed the lady who made her Broadway debut in 1965 in "It's a Bird...It's a Plane...It's Superman."

She said she's had several shots on Merv Griffin's talk-variety show — "He's been wonderful to me" — as well as musical appearances on the Mike Douglas and Dinah Shore programs.

NO SINGING ALOUD — Linda Lavin, shown in costume for TV's Alice, grew up dreaming of being a singer — and now plays a lady who dreams of being a singer. Linda doesn't get to sing.

And, she said, she did her first prime-time network program as an on-camera singer last spring on CBS' "Critics' Choice" awards show.

Miss Lavin, who plays the piano, said she's thinking of working up a night club act but is in no rush to do a record album simply to capitalize — as have some TV stars — on the fact she's in a series.

She also emphasized she's not frustrated that while she can sing, her "Alice" doesn't.

NOTICE OF DEFAULT AND ELECTION TO SELL UNDER DEED OF TRUST

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN:

That SAFECO TITLE INSURANCE COMPANY, a corporation, is Trustee under a Deed of Trust dated June 2, 1977 executed by Richard C. Hancock and Mary B. Hancock, husband and wife as joint tenants, as Trustor, to secure obligations in favor of Consolidated Electrical Distributors, Inc., a Delaware Corporation, as beneficiary recorded June 6, 1977 as document no. 592033 in book — page — of Official Records in the office of the Recorder of LOS ANGELES County, California, describing land therein as:

Lot 13, TRACT 24630, as per map recorded in book 650, pages 7 and 8 of Maps, records of said County said obligations including one note for the sum of $15,000.00.

That the beneficial interest under such deed and the obligations secured thereby are owned by the undersigned; That a breach of, and default in, the obligations for which such deed is security has occurrred in that payment has not been made of the total amount due on the note, which includes all accounts receivable incurred by Trustors with Beneficiary), as set out in the trust deed, present balance being $17,096.06, plus interest accrued from July 2, 1977 at 10% per annum, and all advances made by the beneficiary on the two prior deeds of trust involving the above described property.

That by reason thereof, the undersigned, present beneficiary under such deed, has executed and delivered to said Trustee a written Declaration of Default and Demand for Sale, and has deposited with said Trustee such deed and all documents evidencing obligations secured thereby, and has declared and does hereby declare all sums secured thereby immediately due and payable and has elected and does hereby elect to cause the trust property to be sold to satisfy the obligations secured thereby.

NOTICE

You may have the right to cure the default described herein and reinstate the mortgage or deed of trust. Section 2924c of the Civil Code permits certain defaults to be cured upon the payment of the amounts required by that section without requiring payment of that portion of principal and interest which would not be due had no default occurred. Where reinstatement is possible, if the default is not cured within three months following the recording of this notice, the right of reinstatement will terminate and the property may be sold. To determine if reinstatement is possible and the amount, if any, necessary to cure the default, contact the beneficiary or mortgagee or their successors in interest, whose name and address as of the date of this notice is Consolidated Electrical Distributors, Inc., 357 West Second Street, Suite 4, San Bernardino, CA 92412 Attn: Earl W. Ringness, Credit Manager.

ORDINANCE NO. 592

AN ORDINANCE OF THE CITY OF SAN DIMAS RELATIVE TO ORGANIZATIONS WHICH ARE PERMITTED TO CONDUCT BINGO GAMES IN THE CITY OF SAN DIMAS, AMENDING THE SAN DIMAS MUNICIPAL CODE, AND PROVIDING FOR ITS ADOPTION AS AN URGENCY ORDINANCE.

THE CITY COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF SAN DIMAS DOES HEREBY ORDAIN AS FOLLOWS:

SECTION 1. Section 5.94.012 of the San Dimas Municipal Code is hereby amended to read as follows:

"5.94.012. Permit Required.

Bingo games may be conducted within this City by organizations licensed by the City and which are exempted from the payment of the bank and corporation tax by Sections 23701a, 23701b, 23701d, 23701e, 23701f, 23701g, and 23701L of the Revenue and Taxation Code and by mobile home park associations and senior citizens organizations — provided that the proceeds of such games are used only for charitable purposes; and provided further that a permit is first obtained as provided for herein."

SECTION 2. Declaration of Urgency. This City has previously adopted an ordinance which conformed to the provisions of the state law and authorized the issuance or permits to organizations which wished to conduct bingo games in the City. The law originally limited the number of organizations which could conduct bingo games in the City and the State Legislature has now amended the State law to broaden thse authorized organizations. This City Council desires to allow organizations which are authorized by State law to conduct bingo games in the City - if a permit is obtained. This Ordinance is declared to be adopted as an urgency ordinance and shall take effect immediately upon its adoption.

PASSED, APPROVED AND ADOPTED this 26th day of July, 1977.

RESOLUTION NO. 77-203

A RESOLUTION OF THE CITY COUNCIL OF CLAREMONT, CALIFORNIA, DECLARING ITS INTENTION TO CALL A SPECIAL ANNEXATION ELECTION AND SETTING A HEARING THEREON. (Annexation 53)

The City Council of Claremont, California, does resolve as follows:

Section 1. That it is the intention of the city council of the City of Claremont to call a special election to be held in certain territory contiguous to said city, proposed to be annexed thereto, for the purpose of submitting to the qualified electors residing in said territory the question whether or not said property shall be annexed to the City of Claremont and the property in the territory subjected to taxation after annexation to pay the bonded indebtedness of the city contracted prior to or existing at the time of annexation under the 1956, 1963 Park Bonds and 1972 Police Bonds of the City of Claremont outstanding or authorized at the date of the first publication of the notice of election for the acquisition, construction, or completion of said municipal improvements.

Beginning at the interesection of the centerline of Hill Avenue, 60 feet wide, heretofore vacated, as shown on Map of Kluegel's Subdivision, as recorded in Book 60, Page 45, Miscellaneous Records, in the office of the Los Angeles County Recorder, with the centerline of Sumner Avenue, 50 feet wide, as last said centerline is shown on Map of Tract No. 23105, as recorded in Book 614 of Maps, Pages 86 and 87, Records of said County, said centerline intersection being a point on the existing boundary line of the City of Claremont; thence northeasterly along said centerline of Sumner Avenue, and continuing northerly along the northerly prolongation thereof, to the northerly line of Base Line Road, 60 feet wide, formerly Baseline Avenue, as shown on said Map of Kluegel's Subdivision; thence westerly along said northerly line of Base Line Road, to the East line of the West Half of the Southwest Quarter of the Southwest Quarter of Section 32, T.1.N., R.8.W., S.B.B. & M., according to United States Government Survey thereof; thence southerly along said East line, to the centerline of aforesaid Base Line Road; thence westerly along the said centerline of Base Line Road, and continuing westerly along the base line between T.1.N., and T.1.S., S.B.B. & M., to the Northwest corner of Section 5, T.1.S., R.8.W., S.B.B. & M.; thence southerly, along the West line of said Section 5, and continuing southerly along the centerline of Williams Avenue, 66 feet wide, to a point on the existing boundary line of the City of La Verne; thence easterly along said City of La Verne boundary line, to the easterly line of said Williams Avenue; thence Southerly along said easterly line of Williams Avenue, being also along said City of La Verne boundary line, to an angle point in the existing City of Pomona boundary line; thence easterly and northerly following the said City of Pomona boundary line through its various courses, to the South line of the Northwest Quarter of the Northwest Quarter of the Southwest Quarter of said Section 5; thence easterly along the last said South line, and continuing easterly along the easterly prolongation thereof, being also along the said City of Pomona boundary line, to the easterly line of Garey Avenue, 40 feet wide; thence southerly, along said easterly line of Garey Avenue, being also along the said City of Pomona boundary line, to the established centerline of the Los Angeles County Flood Control Channel known as Thompson Creek; thence northeasterly, along said centerline of Thompson Creek, to a point on the North line of aforesaide Southwest Quarter of Section 5, being also a point on the existing boundary line of the City of Claremont; thence westerly, northerly, easterly, southerly and easterly along said City of Claremont boundary line, following through all of its various courses, to the aforesaid centerline intersection of Hill Avenue and Sumner Avenue, being the True Point of Beginning, containing approximately 185.7 acres, more or less.

Section 2. Said territory hereby is designated and identified as "Annexation No. 53".

Section 3. The city council does hereby set the hour of 7:30 P.M., Tuesday, August 9, 1977, Council Chamber, City Hall, 207 Harvard Avenue, Claremont, California, as the time and place for hearing on the proposed annexation. Any owner of real property within the territory described hereinabove may make a written request for the exclusion of his property from the proposed annexation. Such request shall be considered as filed with the city council when it has been delivered to the city clerk. Such request must be filed prior to the hearing. Any interested person may appear and be heard at said hearing. Any written request for exclusion of property shall contain sufficient information to identify the property for which exclusion is sought.

Section 4. The city clerk of the City of Claremont is hereby authorized and directed to cause a copy of this resolution to be published at least twice but not oftener than once a week, in the Claremont Courier, a newspaper of general circulation published in said City of Claremont, the city to which it is proposed to annex the aforesaid territory, and also in the Progress Bulletin, a newspaper of general circulation published outside the City of Claremont, but in the County of Los Angeles, California, the county in which is located the territory proposed to be annexed to the City of Claremont.

Section 5. The city clerk shall also mail a copy of this resolution to each owner of an equitable or legal interest in land within the territory proposed to be annexed who has filed with the clerk his name and address and a general description of such land sufficient to identify it on the last equalized county assessment roll. The notice shall be mailed not less than twenty (20) days before the date set for hearing.

The mayor shall sign this resolution and the city clerk shall attest and certify to the passage and adoption thereof.

Passed, approved, and adopted this 21st day of July, 1977.
